Riddle, Shiloh It is the bloodiest battle the nation had ever experienced Men from both sides had their notions of gallantry ripped away by ragged shrapnel and hot lead in the woods of Tennessee For Corporal Alisdair Peacock among the torn bodies was waged another battle one to save the stricken from their wounds Wielding a terrible bone saw and using his pocket sewing kit the young preacher turned surgeon fought through the battle and the dreadful disease filled days that followed to stave off the reaper of death Against him fought the creeping malevolence that plagued armies in war throughout time called disease But this foe was not some unseen creature in the air or water but a bizarre man lying mere feet away among the stricken Filled with malice the nameless stranger killed his prey with a mere touch spreading fevers and plagues with hateful abandon Would Peacock discover his vengeful enemy and his wicked plans before time was out Would he discover God's true mission for him Would he discover the truth of the Angel's Glow To Live and Die in Dixie Brannon Hollingsworth, Davis E. Riddle, Eerie moonlight reflects palely off the bare dirt of a lonely sunken road beckoning to a terrified traveler a soldier makes a pact with untold evil a spirit of vengeance stalks a hapless traveler a disturbed disease ridden man lies among those fallen in grim battle half in this world half in one of darkness a desperate man takes refuge in a lonely house Herein lie six tales of the storied South paths through wood and fen in times long ago or yesterday where terror issues through quieted halls the din of terrible battle or from things that do not go bump in the night Denizens through this land of twilight will discover what it means to live and die in Dixie
