Enclosure Environment And Landscape In Central Southern England:

Enclosure, Environment & Landscape in Southern England John Chapman, Sylvia Seeliger, 2001 Landscape History and Rural Society in Southern England Eric L. Jones, 2021-03-08 This book applies an economic and environmental perspective to the history of landscape and the rural economy highlighting their inter connections through specific case studies After explaining how the author made his discoveries and when they started it analyses relations between documentary and landscape evidence It is based on exceptional first hand observation of a dozen sites and close consideration of topics in the ecological and economic history of southern England They range from reclaiming chalk down land occupying low lying heaths and reconstructing parkland to wool stapling and the manufacture of gunstocks for the African slave trade Additional themes include the tension between ecology and institutions in decisions about the location of economic activity the decay of communal farming ahead of enclosure and other interesting puzzles in rural economic history This book offers an original approach to questions in economic history through its synthesis of different types of evidence It will be of interest to a diverse range of readers because it addresses how economic change was registered in the landscape and how that change was influenced by landscape It is a book with highly original features contributing simultaneously to economic agricultural environmental and landscape history Global Environmental History Ian G Simmons, 2008-03-05 Courses which deal with environmental history have long lacked a comprehensive overview I G Simmons has made a significant contribution with a book that looks at the long term history of environment and humanity from 10 000 BC to AD 2000 This far reaching text considers the global picture and recognises the contributions of many disciplines including the natural sciences the social sciences and increasingly the humanities As a starting point this book takes the major phases of human technological evolution of the last 12 000 years and considers how these have affected the natural world It then considers the response to conditions such as climate change putting today s preoccupations into a long term perspective This is a book of history not prophecy and so makes no judgements on current anxieties Society, Landscape and Environment in Upland Britain Ian D. Whyte, Angus J. L. Winchester, 2004 The landscapes of upland Britain have been the focus for a range of debates in recent years over issues such as access afforestation farming and planning However these landscapes have been neglected and misunderstood by contemporaries in the past and by modern historians There has been a lack of research into the societies and economies of these areas and the landscapes they created This volume of specially commissioned studies helps to redress this balance by examining a range of themes relating to the historic landscapes of areas from Cornwall to the Scottish Highlands They focus on the roles of continuity and change in shaping the landscapes that are so cherished today as National Parks and Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty In the process the authors show how even modest gains in altitude can dramatically improve the survival in the landscape of many kinds of site demonstrating how rich complex and multi layered our upland landscapes really are Hambledon Hill, Dorset, England Roger Mercer, Frances

Healy,2014-02-15 A programme of excavation and survey directed by Roger Mercer between 1974 and 1986 demonstrated that Hambledon was the site of an exceptionally large and diverse complex of earlier Neolithic earthworks including two causewayed enclosures two long barrows and several outworks some of them defensive The abundant cultural material preserved in its ditches and pits provides information about numerous aspects of contemporary society among them conflict feasting the treatment of the human corpse exchange stock management and cereal cultivation The distinct depositional signatures of various parts of the complex reflect their diverse use The scale and manner of individual episodes of construction hint at the levels of organisation and co ordination obtaining in contemporary society Use of the complex and the construction of its various elements were episodic and intermittent spread over 300 400 hundred years and did not entail lasting settlement As well as stone axe heads exchanged from remote sources more abundant grinding equipment and pottery from adjacent regions may point to the areas from which people came to the hill If so it had important links with territories to the west north west and south in other words with land off the Wessex Chalk at the edge of which the complex lies Within the smaller compass of the immediate area of the hill including Cranborne Chase field walking survey suggests that the hill was the main focus of earlier Neolithic activity A complementary relationship with the Chase is indicated by a fairly abrupt diminution of activity on the hill in the late fourth millennium when the massive Dorset cursus and several smaller monuments were built in the Chase Renewed activity on the hill in the late third millennium and early second millennium was a prelude to occupation on and around the hill in the second millennium in the mid to late second millennium which was followed by the construction of a hillfort on the northern spur from the early first millennium Late Iron Age and Romano British activity may reflect the proximity of Hod Hill A small pagan Saxon cemetery may relate to settlement in the Iwerne valley which it overlooks

Ecology and Enclosure Shirley Wittering,2013-02-07 South Cambridgeshire has some of the richest arable land in England and has been cultivated for millennia By the turn of the nineteenth century industrialisation and massive population growth had resulted in an enormous increase in the demand for food which in turn led to enclosure But this desire to plough every available piece of land resulted in the destruction of many valuable and distinctive habitats that had existed for centuries The Ecology of Enclosure breaks new ground in comparing the effect of Parliamentary Enclosure with the findings of the enthusiastic Botanisers from Cambridge this reveals not only the effect of enclosure on the ecology of the land but also on the people whose link with the land was broken The first section presents a study of social and agricultural life before enclosure describing geology and climate the fold course open field system of farming and the strict stinting rules which governed how land could be used for grazing and stock movement and the crop rotation systems employed The second part describes the process of enclosure including opposition to it the changes that occurred to the landscape and within village communities as work in industry gradually replaced rural occupations the effects of fencing on movement and of the loss of common land to the plough The third section is an analysis of the new study of Botany which the University of Cambridge was enjoying in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries based on their own records and a review of some of the specific effects on the flora and fauna of the area

A Neolithic and Bronze Age Landscape in Northamptonshire Jan Harding, Frances Healy, 2013-01-15 The Raunds Area Project investigated more than 20 Neolithic and Bronze Age monuments in the Nene Valley From c 5000 BC to the early 1st millennium cal BC a succession of ritual mounds and burial mounds were built as settlement along the valley sides increased and woodland was cleared Starting as a regular stopping place for flint knapping and domestic tasks first the Long Mound and then Long Barrow the north part of the Turf Mound and the Avenue were built in the 5th millennium BC With the addition of the Long Enclosure the Causewayed Ring Ditch and the Southern Enclosure there was a chain of five or six diverse monuments stretched along the river bank by c 3000 cal BC Later a timber platform the Riverside Structure was built and the focus of ceremonial activity shifted to the Cotton Henge two concentric ditches on the occupied valley side From c 2200 cal BC monument building accelerated and included the Segmented Ditch Circle and at least 20 round barrows almost all containing burials at first inhumations then cremations down to c 1000 cal BC by which time two overlapping systems of paddocks and droveways had been laid out Finally the terrace began to be settled when these had gone out of use in the early 1st millennium cal BC This second volume of the Raunds Area Project published as a CD comprises the detailed reports on the environmental archaeology artefact studies geophysics and chronology

The Aesthetics Of Human Environments Arnold Berleant, Allen Carlson, 2007-05-24 The Aesthetics of Human Environments is a companion volume to Carlson's and Berleant's The Aesthetics of Natural Environments Whereas the earlier collection focused on the aesthetic appreciation of nature The Aesthetics of Human Environments investigates philosophical and aesthetics issues that arise from our engagement with human environments ranging from rural landscapes to urban cityscapes Our experience of public spaces such as shopping centers theme parks and gardens as well as the impact of our personal living spaces on the routine activities of our everyday life are discussed in terms of their aesthetic value and the nature of our aesthetic appreciation This volume will appeal to any reader concerned about the aesthetic quality of the world in which we live The Origins of Agriculture in Europe I. J. Thorpe, 2003-09-02 The Origins of Agriculture in Europe takes a look at current ideas in the light of a considerable mass of literature and archaeological evidence examining the transition to agriculture through the comparison of social and economic developments across Europe In this volume I J Thorpe manages to evaluate various alternative explanations in detailed examples whilst also succeeding in addressing the broader theoretical questions which form the nucleus of contemporary debates This clearly written and accessible text is an extremely valuable resource for students of European prehistory

L. Winchester, 2022 The first authoritative survey of the history of common land in Great Britain from the medieval period to present day More than a million hectares of Britain has the status of common land most of it consisting of semi natural environments of mountain moorland wetland or heath Formerly much more extensive common land was and in many places remains an integral part of the pastoral economy Even where it is no longer used by farmers it plays an increasingly important role in modern life as recreational space and for its value for nature conservation This book provides for the first time an authoritative survey of the history of common land across all three nations of Great Britain from medieval times to the present day It charts how commons have been viewed and valued across the centuries how they have been used and how their vegetation has changed highlighting parallels and differences between the histories of common land in England Scotland and Wales It traces the distinctive legal status of common land and the management regimes which regulated the exercise of common rights considers the role of commons as spaces for communal gatherings and as a resource for the poor charts the loss of common land but also its persistence during the era of enclosure in the century 1760 1860 and explores the changing conceptions of the value and right use of commons since the nineteenth century and the impact this has had on their ecological character Eight case studies of individual commons illustrate the richness of common landscapes and their history at local level They include crofters common grazings in Sutherland mountain commons in the Lake District and Snowdonia lowland commons in Co Durham Herefordshire and the New Forest turbary allotments in Lincolnshire and the urban commons of Wimbledon and Putney Heath Environment, Archaeology and Landscape: Papers in honour of Professor Martin Bell Catherine Barnett, Thomas Walker, 2021-10-21 Dedicated to Martin Bell University of Reading this book outlines how wetland and inland environments can be related and investigated using multi method approaches Papers fall under three themes coastal and intertidal archaeology mobility and human environment relationships heritage resource management nature conservation and rewilding

The Development of an Iron Age and Roman Settlement Complex at The Park and Bowsings, near Guiting Power, Gloucestershire: Farmstead and Stronghold Alistair Marshall, 2020-07-31 Excavations near Guiting Power in the Cotswolds reveal evidence of occupation until the late 4th century AD a relatively undefended middle Iron Age farmstead was abandoned followed by a mid to later Iron Age ditched enclosure This latter site perhaps became dilapidated with a Romanised farmstead developing over the traditional habitation area

Mapping Ancient Landscapes in Northamptonshire Alison Deegan, Glenn Foard, 2013-02-15 A record of the National Mapping Programme project in Northamptonshire It recovered and mapped archaeological evidence from field systems through settlement remains to funerary monuments and ranges from the Neolithic to the 20th century

The Wessex Hillforts Project Andrew Payne, Mark Corney, Barry Cunliffe, 2014-06-15 The earthwork forts that crown many hills in Southern England are among the largest and most dramatic of the prehistoric features that still survive in our modern rural landscape The Wessex Hillforts Survey collected wide ranging data on hillfort interiors in a three year partnership between the former Ancient Monuments Laboratory of English Heritage and Oxford University These defended enclosures occupied from the end of the Bronze Age to the last few centuries before the Roman conquest have long attracted archaeological interest and their function remains central to study of the Iron Age The communal effort and high degree of social organisation indicated by hillforts feeds debate about whether they were strongholds of Celtic chiefs communal centres of population or temporary gathering places occupied seasonally or in times of unrest Yet few have been extensively examined archaeologically Using non invasive methods the survey enabled more elaborate distinctions to be made between different classes of hillforts than has hitherto been possible The new data reveals not only the complexity of the archaeological record preserved inside hillforts but also great variation in complexity among sites Survey of the surrounding countryside revealed hillforts to be far from isolated features in the later prehistoric landscape Many have other less visible forms of enclosed settlement in close proximity Others occupy significant meeting points of earlier linear ditch systems and some appear to overlie or be located adjacent to blocks of earlier prehistoric field systems
