Archaeological Encounters Margarita Díaz-Andreu, 2012-11-13 This book examines the relationship between British and Spanish archaeology in the light of international geographies of knowledge It looks at the practical aspects of the personal relationships established between British and Spanish prehistoric archaeologists from the 1920s to the 1970s Part I of the book sets the scene It provides some contextual information on the main events in the archaeology of both countries in the period under study It also introduces Professor Luis Pericot the archaeologist whose archive serves as the basis for much of what is discussed throughout the following chapters In Part II of the book an analysis of the correspondence held in the Pericot Archive the Fons Pericot in the Biblioteca de Catalunya is undertaken The examination of the letters exchanged between Spanish and British prehistorians in general and in particular between Luis Pericot and about a dozen major British scholars of his time allows the reconstruction of the nature of the relationships formed between them The analysis has been divided into three chapters corresponding to the three main towns where his correspondents lived for most of their academic careers London Cambridge and Oxford In Part III of the book the information obtained from the correspondence is then complemented and re examined considering three main aspects the production transmission and reception of knowledge This analysis puts together aspects discussed in Part I of the book with the data gathered from the letters in Part II as well as other information provided by publications including translations and reviews First of all an assessment is made as to whether the geographical context affected the way knowledge of prehistoric archaeology was produced Secondly the mechanisms and networks that allowed the international transmission of both ideas and practices linked to prehistoric archaeology are assessed A third aspect looked into is the reception of knowledge linking this with issues such as academic prestige and authority Encounters and Transformations Miriam Balmuth, Antonio Gilman, Lourdes Prados

Torreira, 1997-04-01 Over the past twenty years archaeological research in Spain and Portugal has undergone profound changes in theoretical orientation changes that parallel the political and social transformations in those countries over the past generation These Proceedings of the First International Conference in America on Iberian Archaeology demonstrate the increasingly strong implantation of processualist approaches and their useful integration with historicist orientations Contributions ranging from the Neolithic to the Iron Age provide a representative sample of the current state of archaeological research in Iberia Ushering in a New Republic Trevor S. Luke, 2014-09-11 The ancient Romans are well known for their love of the pageantry of power No single ceremony better attests to this characteristic than the triumph which celebrated the victory of a Roman commander through a grand ceremonial entrance into the city that ended in rites performed to Rome's chief tutelary deity Jupiter Optimus Maximus on the Capitoline hill The triumph however was only one form of ceremonial arrival at the city and Jupiter was not the only god to whom vows were made and subsequently fulfilled at the end of a successful assignment Ushering in a New Republic expands our view beyond a narrow focus on the triumph to look at the creative ways in which the great figures of Rome in the first century BCE men such as Sulla Caesar Augustus and others crafted theological performances and narratives both in and around their departures from Rome and then returned to cast themselves in the role of divinely supported saviors of a faltering Republic Trevor S Luke tackles some of the major issues of the history of the Late Republic and the transition to the empire in a novel way Taking the perspective that Roman elites even at this late date took their own religion seriously as a way to communicate meaning to their fellow Romans the volume reinterprets some of the most famous events of that period in order to highlight what Sulla Caesar and figures of similar stature did to make a religious argument or defense for their actions This exploration will be of interest to scholars of religion political science sociology classics and ancient history and to the general history enthusiast While many people are aware of the important battles and major thinkers of this period of Roman history the story of its theological discourse and competition is unfolded here for the first time

Marvelous Encounters Willard Bohn, 2005 The concept of poeie critique poetry that possesses both a poetic and a critical function has an extensive history in modern literature Written in response to another work of art be it a painting a film a poem or a piece of music the critical poem comments on the latter in various ways but refuses to abandon its poetic mission Marvelous Encounters examines surrealist poets writing in French Spanish and Catalan who experimented with this intriguing genre The first three chapters are concerned with the French surrealists who began to cultivate critical poetry toward the end of World War I Chapter 2 considers how Louis Aragon and Philippe Soupault appropriated the critical poem as they reviewed books of poetry and films starring Charlie Chaplin Chapter 3 which examines how Benjamin Peret and Paul Eluard conceived of critical poetry analyzes their response to poems by Tristan Tzara and paintings by Giorgio de Chirico and Joan Miro Chapter 4 is devoted entirely to Andre Breton treats her with all the tenderness and concern she s longed for her entire life Little does she know she is the key to restoring Gideon s broken heart and helping him to stop the evil infiltrating both kingdoms and killing everything in its path

Interreligious Encounters in Polemics between Christians, Jews, and Muslims in Iberia and Beyond ,2019-06-24

This book discusses the long fifteenth century in Iberian history between the 1391 pogroms and the forced conversions of Aragonese Muslims in 1526 a period characterized by persecutions conversions and social violence on the one hand and cultural exchange on the other It was a historical moment of unstable religious ideas and identities before the rigid turn taken by Spanish Catholicism by the middle of the sixteenth century a period in which the physical and symbolic borders separating the three religions were transformed and redefined but still remained extraordinarily porous The collection argues that the aggressive tone of many polemical texts has until now blinded historiography to the interconnected nature of social and cultural intimacy above all in dialogue and cultural transfer in later medieval Iberia Contributors are Ana Echevarra a Gad Freudenthal Mercedes Garc a Arenal Maria Laura Giordano Yonatan Glazer Eytan Eleazar Gutwirth Felipe Pereda Rosa M Rodr guez Porto Katarzyna K Starczewska John Tolan Gerard Wiegers and Yosi Yisraeli The Paleoecology of Lower Magdalenian Cantabrian Spain James T. Pokines,1998 The terrestrial mammalian microfauna from the Lower Magdalenian site of El Juyo Santander Spain and related sites are here used to reconstruct the paleoenvironment of Cantabrian Spain Fine screening yielded a large sample of small mammal remains accumulated as a result of barn owl pellet regurgitation Small carnivores and large faunal species are also present together with human food remains These data are compared with other sources to produce a clearer picture of the Lower Magdalenian setting indicating that the climate was very humid and cold with open coastal heath the dominant terrain type Rapid climatic deterioration occurred during the deposition of the upper occupation levels An increasing separation of human adaptations from the constraints of environment is observable these adaptations focused upon the wild harvesting of concentrated resources Red deer ibex salmon and marine molluscs were harvested with increasing efficiency presaging the adaptations leading to food production Mapping

Experiencing Translationality Piotr Blumczynski, 2023-05-16 This innovative book takes the concept of translation beyond its traditional boundaries adding to the growing body of literature which challenges the idea of translation as a primarily linguistic transfer To gain a fresh perspective on the work of translation in the complex processes of meaning making across physical social and cultural domains conceptualized as translationality Piotr Blumczynski revisits one of the earliest and most fundamental senses of translation corporeal transfer His study of translated religious officials and translated relics reframes our understanding of translation as a process creating a sense of connection with another time place object or person He argues that a promise of translationality animates a broad spectrum of cultural artistic and commercial endeavours it is invoked for example in museum exhibitions art galleries celebrity endorsements and the manufacturing of musical instruments Translationality offers a way to reimagine the dynamic entanglements of matter and meaning space and time past and present This book will be of interest to students and scholars in translation studies as well as related disciplines such as the history of religion anthropology of art and material culture

Conference Proceedings. The Future of Education Pixel, 2017

Multilingualism in the Middle Ages and Early Modern Age Albrecht Classen, 2016-09-12 Bi and multilingualism are of great interest for contemporary linguists since this phenomenon deeply reflects on language acquisition language use and sociolinguistic conditions in many different circumstances all over the world Multilingualism was however certainly rather common already if not especially in the premodern world For some time now research has started to explore this issue through a number of specialized studies The present volume continues with the investigation of multilingualism through a collection of case studies focusing on important examples in medieval and early modern societies that is in linguistic and cultural contact zones such as England Spain the Holy Land but also the New World As all contributors confirm the numerous cases of multilingualism discussed here indicate strongly that the premodern period knew considerably less barriers between people of different social classes cultural background and religious orientation But we also have to acknowledge that already then human communication could fail because of linguistic hurdles which prevented mutual understanding in religious and cultural terms

Pathways from Ethnic Conflict John Coakley, 2013-09-13 The book begins with an agenda setting introduction which will provide an overview of the central question being addressed such as the circumstances associated with the move towards a political settlement the parameters of this settlement and the factors that have assisted in bringing it about The remaining contributions will focus on a range of cases selected for their diversity and their capacity to highlight the full gamut of political approaches to conflict resolution The cases vary in the intensity of the conflict from Belgium where it is potential rather than actual to Sri Lanka where it has come to a recent violent conclusion in the geopolitical relationship between the competing groups from Cyprus where they are sharply segregated geographically to Northern Ireland where they are intermingled in the extent to which a stable constitutional accommodation has been reached ranging from the Basque Country with a large range of unresolved problems to South Africa which has achieved a significant level of institutional stability This book ranges over the world's major geopolitical zones including Asia the Middle East Africa and Europe and will be of interest to practitioners in the field of international security This book was published as a special issue of Nationalism and Ethnic Politics
