Handbook of Global Environmental Politics Peter Dauvergne, 2012-01-01 The second edition of this Handbook contains more than 30 new and original articles as well six essential updates by leading scholars of global environmental politics This landmark book maps the latest theoretical and empirical research in this energetic and growing field Captured here are the pioneering and lively debates over concerns for the health of the planet and how they might best be addressed The introduction explores the intellectual trends and evolving parameters in the field of global environmental politics It makes a case for an expansive definition of the field one that embraces an interdisciplinary literature on the connections between global politics and environmental change The remaining chapters are divided into four broad themes states and cooperation global governance the political economy of governance and knowledge and ethics with each section covering key emerging issues In depth explorations are given to topics such as climate change multinational corporations international agreements and UN organizations regulations and business standards trade and international finance multilevel and transnational governance and ecological citizenship Handbook of Global Environmental Politics Second Edition is a comprehensive review of the field and offers cutting edge ideas for further research As such scholars students and policymakers will find themselves looking to it for many years to come      Encyclopedia of Global Environmental Governance and Politics Philipp H. Pattberg, Fariborz Zelli, 2015-11-27 The Encyclopedia of Global Environmental Governance and Politics surveys the broad range of environmental and sustainability challenges in the emerging Anthropocene and scrutinizes available concepts methodological tools theories and approaches as well as overlaps with adjunct fields of study This comprehensive reference work written by some of the most eminent academics in the field contains 68 entries on numerous aspects across 7 thematic areas including concepts and definitions theories and methods actors institutions issue areas cross cutting questions and overlaps with non environmental fields With this broad approach the volume seeks to provide a pluralistic knowledge base of the research and practice of global environmental governance and politics in times of increased complexity and contestation Providing its readers with a unique point of reference as well as stimulus for further research this Encyclopedia is an indispensable tool for anyone interested in the politics of the environment particularly students teachers and researchers

Environmental Security and Gender Nicole Detraz, 2014-08-21 Over the past 20 years scholars policymakers and the media have increasingly recognized the links between both traditional and non traditional security issues and the changing condition of the global environment Concepts such as environmental security and resource conflict have been used to hint at these significant linkages While there has been a good deal of scholarly work conducted that seeks to identify the ways that actors link these concepts there has been little examination of the intersection between approaches to environmental security and gender This book explores this intersection to provide an insight into the gendered nature of both global environmental politics and security studies It examines how the issues of security and the environment are linked to theory and practice and the extent to which gender informs these discussions By adopting a feminist environmental security discourse this book provides crucial redefinitions of key concepts and offers new insights into the ways we understand security environment connections Case studies evaluate if and how environment and security discourses are being used to understand a range of environmental issues and how a feminist environmental security discourse contributes to our understanding of security environment connections This multidisciplinary volume draws on literature from the environmental sciences security studies and sociology to highlight the complex human insecurities that often accompany environmental change As conceptualizations of security continue to shift and broaden to include environmental issues and concerns it is imperative that gender informs the debate      From Kyoto to the Town Hall Lennart J. Lundqvist, Anders Biel, 2013-06-17

International agreements such as the Kyoto Protocol EU regulation and country specific national climate policies offer some hope of addressing climate change But all too often implementation of these high level objectives is derailed at the sub national local and perhaps most important individual level by a variety of structural policy and perceived barriers that result in a failure of effective action Drawing on original research from Sweden a world leader in effective environmental solutions

this volume examines the difficulties of aligning climate policy from international to national and sub national levels The authors address the full range of barriers and complexities including governance structures the relationship between experts and the public political feasibility tax measures perceptions of fairness and self interest and the importance of environmental values Also covered are the roles and perceptions of organizations and professions the place of carbon free technologies such as wind power the relationship between national and EU regulations and the monumental challenge of governing the climate in a bordered and divided world This volume is a vital source of information for all those seeking to create effective coordinated responses to the challenge of climate change

Paths to a Green World The Political Economy of the Global Environment Jennifer Clapp And Peter Dauvergne,2008 Governing the Climate Johannes Stripple,Harriet Bulkeley,2014

The first volume on critical social and political studies of climate change for advanced students researchers and policy makers Paths to a Green World, second edition Jennifer Clapp,Peter Dauvergne,2011-03-11 A new edition of a book that takes a comprehensive look at the ways economic processes affect global environmental outcomes This comprehensive and accessible book fills the need for a political economy view of global environmental politics focusing on the ways international economic processes affect environmental outcomes It examines the main actors and forces shaping global environmental management particularly in the developing world Moving beyond the usual emphasis on international agreements and institutions it strives to capture not only academic theoretical debates but also views on politics economics and the environment within the halls of global conferences on the streets during antiglobalization protests and in the boardrooms of international agencies nongovernmental organizations and industry associations The book maps out an original typology of four contrasting worldviews of environmental change those of market liberals institutionalists bioenvironmentalists and social greens and uses them as a framework to examine the links between the global political economy and ecological change This typology provides a common language for students instructors and scholars to discuss the issues across the classical social science divisions The second edition of this popular text has been thoroughly revised and updated to reflect recent events including the food crisis of 2007 2008 the financial meltdown of 2008 and the Copenhagen Climate Conference of 2009 Topics covered include the environmental implications of globalization wealth poverty and consumption global trade transnational corporations and multilateral and private finance Inside and Out Robert Forrant,Linda Silka,2017-03-02 Two overarching questions permeate the literature on universities and civic engagement How does a university restructure its myriad activities maintain its academic integrity and have a transformative impact off campus And who ought to participate in the conversations that frame and guide both the internal restructuring process and the off campus interactions The perspective of this book based on research and projects in the field is that long term sustainable social and economic development requires strategies geared to the scientific technical cultural and environmental aspects of development Much of the work in this volume challenges traditional university practices

Universities tend to reproduce a culture that rejects direct interaction across traditional academic department boundaries and beyond the campus Yet interdisciplinary work is important because it more aptly mirrors what is taking place in the regional economy as firms collaborate across manufacturing boundaries and community organizations and neighbourhood groups work to solve common problems What is distinctive within the range of scholarship and practice in this volume is the inclination on the part of increasing numbers of professors on more and more campuses to collaborate across disciplinary lines Universities must persist in the advancement of cross community cross firm and cross institutional learning The learning dynamics and knowledge diffusion generated by collaborative activities and new approaches to teaching can invigorate all phases of learning at the university In this way the university advances its activities beyond an indiscriminate approach to development maximizes the use of its resources and performs an integrative and innovative role in the cultivation of equitable and sustainable regions The chapters in this book illustrate the strikingly different and exciting ways in which universities pursue education for sustainability

Integrating Service-Learning Into the University Classroom
Alison Bryant, Nicole Schonemann, Doug Karpa, 2011-08-24 Service learning is on the rise across campuses as more and more students and professors are engaging with the communities around them While this is a rewarding experience for students and the communities served a tremendous amount of effort is needed to incorporate service learning into the curriculum It takes trial and error to find the right pedagogical tools and the perfect balance of in field and in class learning as well as considerable time spent fostering relationships with community partners For many this can be too daunting Integrating Service Learning into the University Classroom helps simplify the process by providing educators with a series of course portfolios to follow Written by instructors who have taught service learning courses across a variety of disciplines these portfolios model how to effectively design teach and evaluate a course As service learning courses range in topic format learning goals and community commitment the book highlights both the variety and best practices of service learning courses in higher education Each chapter provides a detailed course description including the goals of the course and the materials and assignments a narrative of what has worked and what has not worked in the course a section citing student feedback and finally an instructor reflection on the overall value of the course to the students department community partner and themselves

The Shadows of Consumption Peter Dauvergne, 2010-09-24 An environmentalist maps the hidden costs of overconsumption in a globalized world by tracing the environmental consequences of five commodities The Shadows of Consumption gives a hard hitting diagnosis many of the earth s ecosystems and billions of its people are at risk from the consequences of rising consumption Products ranging from cars to hamburgers offer conveniences and pleasures but as Peter Dauvergne makes clear global political and economic processes displace the real costs of consumer goods into distant ecosystems communities and timelines tipping into crisis people and places without the power to resist In The Shadows of Consumption Peter Dauvergne maps the costs of consumption that remain hidden in the shadows cast by globalized corporations trade and finance Dauvergne traces the environmental consequences of five commodities automobiles gasoline refrigerators beef and harp seals In these fascinating histories we learn for example that American officials ignored warnings about the dangers of lead in gasoline in the 1920s why China is now a leading producer of CFC free refrigerators and how activists were able to stop Canada s commercial seal hunt in the 1980s but are unable to do so now Dauvergne s innovative analysis allows us to see why so many efforts to manage the global environment are failing even as environmentalism is slowly strengthening He proposes a guiding principle of balanced consumption for both consumers and corporations We know that we can make things better by driving a high mileage car eating locally grown food and buying energy efficient appliances but these improvements are incremental local and insufficient More crucial than our individual efforts to reuse and recycle will be reforms in the global political economy to reduce the inequalities of consumption and correct the imbalance between growing economies and environmental sustainability Sustainability on Campus Peggy F.

Barlett, Geoffrey W. Chase, 2004-04-02 Stories both practical and inspirational about environmental leadership on campus These personal narratives of greening college campuses offer inspiration motivation and practical advice Written by faculty staff administrators and a student from varying perspectives and reflecting divergent experiences these stories also map the growing strength of a national movement toward environmental responsibility on campus Environmental awareness on college and university campuses began with the celebratory consciousness raising of Earth Day 1970 Since then environmental action on campus has been both global in research and policy formation and local in efforts to make specific environmental improvements on campuses The stories in this book show that achieving environmental sustainability is not a matter of applying the formulas of risk management or engineering technology but part of what the editors call the messy reality of participatory engagement in cultural transformation In Sustainability on Campus campus leaders recount inspiring stories of strategies that moved eighteen colleges and universities toward a more sustainable future This book is for faculty students administrators staff and community partners whether hesitant or committed knowledgeable or newcomer Scholars and activists have recognized the crucial role that higher education can play in the sustainability effort and each chapter in the book is full of ideas about how to get started revitalize efforts and overcome roadblocks Human and at times joyful these stories illustrate many forms of leadership in new courses and faculty development green buildings and administrative policies student programs residential life and collaborations with local communities Africa: Facing Human Security Challenges in the 21st Century Mentan, Tatah, 2014-05-12

Africa s dynamic security environment is characterized by great diversity from conventional challenges such as insurgencies resource and identity conflicts and post conflict stabilization to growing threats from piracy narcotics trafficking violent extremism and organized crime taking root in urban slums among others This precarious environment jeopardizes security at the societal community and individual levels In a globalized and interconnected world millions of people worldwide are affected by some form of human insecurity Infectious and parasitic diseases annually kill millions Internally displaced persons number millions including 5 million in Sudan alone In Zambia 1 million people in a population of 11 million are reported to be HIV positive a situation much worse in other countries Potable water crisis looms almost everywhere In this book Tatah Mentan points out the need to shift the focus away from a state centric and military strategic emphasis on security to an interdisciplinary and people centric approach that embraces notions like global citizenship empowerment and participation The primary elements of economic food health environment personal community and political security all comprise the broader understanding of human security in an intricately interconnected world

The Routledge Companion to Environmental Ethics Benjamin Hale, Andrew Light, Lydia Lawhon, 2022-07-29 Written for a wide range of readers in environmental science philosophy and policy oriented programs The Routledge Companion to Environmental Ethics is a landmark comprehensive reference work in this interdisciplinary field Not merely a review of theoretical approaches to the ethics of the environment the Companion focuses on specific environmental problems and other concrete issues Its 65 chapters all appearing in print here for the first time have been organized into the following eleven parts I Animals II Land III Water IV Climate V Energy and Extraction VI Cities VII Agriculture VIII Environmental Transformation IX Policy Frameworks and Response Measures X Regulatory Tools XI Advocacy and Activism The volume not only explains the nuances of important core philosophical positions but also cuts new pathways for the integration of important ethical and policy issues into environmental philosophy It will be of immense help to undergraduate students and other readers coming up to the field for the first time but also serve as a valuable resource for more advanced students as well as researchers who need a trusted resource that also offers fresh policy centered approaches

Doing Emotion Laura R. Micciche, 2007 That the emotional realities of teaching have changed significantly over the past decade is undeniable Doing Emotion provides much needed guidance both on understanding these changes and on imagining a responsive pedagogy for these emotionally fraught times a pedagogy grounded not in fear but in hope for better times Richard E Miller For Laura Micciche emotion is neither the enemy of reason nor an irrational response to actions and ideas Rather she argues in the provocative and groundbreaking Doing Emotion that emotion is integral to research discussion analysis and argument that is to the essential fabric of rhetoric and composition Doing Emotion argues for a rhetoric of emotion by foregrounding the idea that emotions are performative enacted and embodied in our social interactions produced between and among individuals and textual objects Emotion is something we do rather than something we have Micciche explores the implications of this claim in the context of writing classrooms administrative structures and the formation of disciplinary identity Drawing upon current research in emotion studies performance studies and feminist rhetorical studies Micciche argues that a shift in our thinking about emotion leads to productive possibilities for teaching and learning Rather than repressing and denying emotionality Micciche demands that we acknowledge its constitutive role in our professional and pedagogical lives as well as in our evolving understandings of textual and extralinguistic meanings
