The Church in the Early Middle Ages G.R. Evans, 2007-03-28 The creation of a new history of the Church at the beginning of the third millennium is an ambitious but necessary project Perhaps nowhere is it needed more than in re describing the Church s development its life and its thinking in the period that followed the end of the early Church in antiquity The cultural social and political dominance of Christendom in what we now call the West from about 600 1300 made the Christian Church a shaper of the modern world in respects which go far beyond its religious influence Writing with her customary authority and with a magisterial grasp of the original sources G R Evans brings this formative era vividly to life both for the student of religious history and general reader She concentrates as much on the colourful human episodes of the time as on broader institutional and intellectual developments The result is a compelling and thoroughly modern introduction to devotional and theological thought in the early Middle Ages as well as to ecclesiastical and pastoral life at large

The Middle Ages at Work K. Robertson, M. Uebel, 2016-04-30 This timely volume examines the commitments of historicism in the wake of New Historicism It contributes to the construction of a materialist historicism while at the same time proposing that discussions of work need not be limited to the clash between labour and capital To this end the essays offer more than a strictly historical view of the complex terms social and literary within which labour was treated in the medieval period Several of the essays strive to reformulate the very critical language we use to think about the categories of labour and work through a continually doubled engagement with modern theories of labour and medieval theories and practices of labour

The Religious Worlds of the Laity in Late Antique Gaul Lisa Kaaren Bailey, 2016-04-07 Christianity in the late antique world was not imposed but embraced and the laity were not passive members of their religion but had a central role in its creation This volume explores the role of the laity in Gaul bringing together the fields of history archaeology and theology First this book follows the ways in which clergy and monks tried to shape and manufacture lay religious experience They had themselves constructed the category of the laity which served as a negative counterpart to their self definition Lay religious experience was thus shaped in part by this need to create difference between categories The book then focuses on how the laity experienced their religion how they interpreted it and how their decisions shaped the nature of the Church and of their faith This part of the study pays careful attention to the diversity of the laity in this period their religious environments ritual engagement behaviours knowledge and beliefs The first volume to examine laity in this period in Gaul a key region for thinking about the transition from Roman rule to post Roman society The Religious Worlds of the Laity in Late Antique Gaul fills an important gap in current literature

Ecstatic Transformation M. Uebel, 2016-04-30 This book studies the way in which medieval ways of knowing the Oriental other were constructed around the idea of a utopic East as located in the legend and Letter of Prester John c 1160 The birth of utopic thinking it argues is tied to an understanding of alterity having as much to do with the ways the medieval West understood itself as the manner in which the foreign was mapped Drawing upon the insights of cultural studies film studies and psychoanalysis this book rethinks the contours of the known and the unknown in the medieval period It demonstrates how the idea of otherness intersected in intricate ways with other categories of difference spatial gender and religious Scholars in the fields of history as well as literary and religious studies will be interested in the manner in which the book considers the formal dimensions of how histories of the Oriental other were written and lived
