studying the past archaeologists have focused on the material remains of our ancestors Prehistorians generally have only artifacts to study and rely on the diverse material record for their understanding of past societies and their behavior Those involved in studying historically documented cultures not only have extensive material remains but also contemporary texts images and a range of investigative technologies to enable them to build a broader and more reflexive picture of how past societies communities and individuals operated and behaved Increasingly historical archaeology refers not to a particular period place or a method but rather an approach that interrogates the tensions between artifacts and texts irrespective of context In short historical archaeology provides direct evidence for how humans have shaped the world we live in today Historical archaeology is a branch of global archaeology that has grown in the last 40 years from its North American base into an increasingly global community of archaeologists each studying their area of the world in a historical context Where historical archaeology started as part of the study of the post Columbian societies of the United States and Canada it has now expanded to interface with the post medieval archaeologies of Europe and the diverse post imperial experiences of Africa Latin America and Australasia The 36 essays in the International Handbook of Historical Archaeology have been specially commissioned from the leading researchers in their fields creating a wide ranging digest of the increasingly global field of historical archaeology The volume is divided into two sections the first reviewing the key themes issues and approaches of historical archaeology today and the second containing a series of case studies charting the development and current state of historical archaeological practice around the world This key reference work captures the energy and diversity of this global discipline today Historical Archaeology Charles E. Orser, Jr.,2016-08-05 This book provides a short readable

introduction to historical archaeology which focuses on modern history in all its fascinating regional cultural and ethnic diversity Accessibly covering key methods and concepts including fundamental theories and principles the history of the field and basic definitions Historical Archaeology also includes a practical look at career prospects for interested readers Orser discusses central topics of archaeological research such as time and space survey and excavation methods and analytical techniques encouraging readers to consider the possible meanings of artifacts Drawing on the author s extensive experience as an historical archaeologist the book s perspective ranges from the local to the global in order to demonstrate the real importance of this subject to our understanding of the world in which we live today The third edition of this popular textbook has been significantly revised and expanded to reflect recent developments and discoveries in this exciting area of study. Each chapter includes updated case studies which demonstrate the research conducted by professional historical archaeologists. With its engaging approach to the subject, Historical Archaeology continues to be an ideal resource for readers who wish to be introduced to this rapidly expanding global field. Guardian of the Trail Peggy A. Gerow, 2004. In the fall of 1989 the Archaeological and Historical Research Institute (AHRI) entered into negotiations with the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) to establish a five year field school at Fort Craig beginning in June of 1990. The project was designed to serve a number of purposes: a) to operate an archaeological field school for the training of students and the interested public; b) to assess the nature and extent of cultural resources at the site; and c) to serve as a guide for any future research that may be undertaken. The five seasons of fieldwork were conducted from 1990 to 1994 during the summer and fall. This report describes the results of the archaeological excavations and historical records search conducted by the AHRI at the Fort Craig National Historic site.
