The Anecdotal Narration and Encyclopedic Thought of Pliny the Elder's Naturalis Historia Ágnes

Darab, 2020-04-16 Pliny the Elder's Naturalis Historia with its varied content enables and expects the reader to employ a complex interpretative technique One aspect of Pliny's diction is that he often interrupts the discussions of topics with digressions and begins to address something that seemingly has nothing to do with the subject The hypothesis suggested by this book is that these digressions that occur in different places and in great number throughout the text of Naturalis Historia should not be regarded as mistakes fragmenting the encyclopedia's structure Most of these digressions are anecdotes Researching the aetiological anecdotes and those about the life of animals famous persons from political or intellectual life and the most important Greek painters and sculptors requires the application of different perspectives When we approach anecdotes from the perspective of narrative techniques the role of the stories as exempla becomes clearer and its further aspects can be spotted This book also draws attention to Pliny the writer an aspect of the text that has been contested until very recently

Pliny's Catalogue of Culture Sorcha Carey, 2003-12-19 One of the earliest surviving examples of art history Pliny the Elder's chapters on art form part of his encyclopaedic Natural History completed shortly before its author died during the eruption of Vesuvius in AD 79 This important new work argues that the Natural History offers a sophisticated account of the world as empire in which art as much as geography can be used to expound a Roman imperial agenda Reuniting the chapters on art with the rest of the Natural History Sorcha Carey considers how the medium of the encyclopaedia affects Pliny's presentation of art and reveals how art is used to explore themes important to the work as a whole Throughout the author demonstrates that Pliny's chapters on art are a profoundly Roman creation offering an important insight into responses to art and culture under the early Roman empire

Franklin-Brown,2024-05-31 The thirteenth century saw such a proliferation of new encyclopedic texts that more than one scholar has called it the century of the encyclopedias Variouslly referred to as a speculum thesaurus or imago mundi the term encyclopedia was not commonly applied to such books until the eighteenth century these texts were organized in such a way that a reader could easily locate a collection of authoritative statements on any given topic Because they reproduced rather than simply summarized parts of prior texts these compilations became libraries in miniature In this groundbreaking study Mary Franklin Brown examines writings in Latin Catalan and French that are connected to the encyclopedic movement Vincent of Beauvais s Speculum maius Ramon Llull s Libre de meravelles Arbor scientiae and Arbre de filosofia d amor and Jean de Meun s continuation of the Roman de la Rose Franklin Brown analyzes the order of knowledge in these challenging texts describing the wide ranging interests the textual practices including commentary compilation and organization and the diverse discourses that they absorb from preexisting classical patristic and medieval writing She also demonstrates how these encyclopedias like libraries became heterotopias of knowledge spaces where many possible ways of knowing are juxtaposed But Franklin Brown s study will not appeal only to historians she argues that a revised understanding of late medievalism makes it possible to discern a close connection between scholasticism and contemporary imaginative literature She shows how encyclopedists employed the same practices of figuration narrative and citation as poets and romanciers while much of the difficulty of the imaginative writing of this period derives from a juxtaposition of heterogeneous discourses inspired by encyclopedias With rich and innovative readings of texts both familiar and neglected Reading the World reveals how the study of encyclopedism can illuminate both the intellectual work and the imaginative writing of the scholastic age

Hollis Frampton Michael Zryd,2023-05-09 Hollis Frampton was an American filmmaker photographer and theorist who bridged the experimental film and contemporary art worlds in the 1960s and 1970s Best known for avant garde films including Zorns Lemma 1970 and nostalgia 1971 Frampton spent his later years working on the unfinished epic Magellan a monumental cycle that used the metaphor of Ferdinand Magellan s circumnavigation of the world to rethink the natures and meanings of history modernity and cinema Frampton s career was cut short by cancer at age 48 with his vast ambitions for the project left incomplete This book is a groundbreaking and comprehensive account of this remarkable figure s work in its totality from Frampton s earliest films through Magellan Michael Zryd explores the connections linking Frampton's art and thought to other media forms, histories and cultural frameworks. He foregrounds Frampton's notion of the infinite cinema which redefined the parameters of the medium to encompass all forms of moving image and sound media across the past and future of cinematic possibility. Zryd analyzes Frampton's ambivalent relationship with modernism and the Enlightenment showing how the artist navigated between attraction to radical artistic investigation and awareness of this tradition's implication in colonialism and other oppressive power structures. Shedding new light on Frampton's project of exploring and critiquing how cinema attempts to capture and understand the world, this book also considers his significance for contemporary art. Reader's Guide to the History of Science Arne Hessenbruch, 2013-12-16

Tsahor, 2023-07-04 Hebrew encyclopedias have an intriguing history. The genre which began as modest initiatives to disseminate general knowledge and strengthen literacy among Russian Jews quickly became the most popular in modern Hebrew literature with tens of thousands of subscribers to publications such as Encyclopaedia Hebraica and Encyclopaedia Biblica. The makers of these vast bodies of knowledge hoped to demonstrate Hebrew's mimetic power and the vitality of newly created Jewish research institutions. They also hoped that the encyclopedias would be an essential tool in shaping and reshaping Zionist national culture and nurturing an ideal national persona. Thus the printed pages of the encyclopedias give us unique access to what Zionists were saying about themselves, how they perceived their neighbors and what they were hoping for the future, thereby going beyond the official Zionists' documents, newspaper articles and the writings of intellectuals that have been used extensively by historians to narrate national consciousness. By bringing to the fore these unique texts, The Book of the People presents common perceptions of memory and collective identity that often do not fit with the narratives offered by historians of Zionism. In doing so, the book also exposes ethical codes that regulated the production of Zionist knowledge and endowed the encyclopedias with a rare status as a bona fide source for truths by people from diverse political and social backgrounds. Currents in Japanese Culture Amy Vladeck Heinrich, 1997

These twenty-nine original essays focus on how cultural and literary genres and norms have developed in response to historical and cross-cultural influences. Myth as Argument Laurie L. Patton, 2014-05-14 No detailed description available for Myth as Argument.

Encyclopaedic Visions Richard Yeo, 2001-03-29 The eighteenth-century English dictionaries of arts and sciences claimed to contain all knowledge that a person of education should possess. These early encyclopaedias responded to the explosion of information by reducing knowledge to essentials, stressing the need for a coherent account of the sciences and for some time excluding biography and history. Richard Yeo places these scientific dictionaries in a rich cultural framework of debate that includes the arrangement of knowledge the Republic of Letters the Enlightenment public sphere copyright issues and the specialisation of science He discusses dilemmas involved in the quest for knowledge to be both organised and readily available examining assumptions about the organisation communication and control of knowledge in these works Elegantly illustrated and accessibly written Encyclopaedic Visions provides a major contribution to

Enlightenment studies and the history of ideas in general Too Much to Know Ann M. Blair, 2010-11-02 The flood of information brought to us by advancing technology is often accompanied by a distressing sense of information overload yet this experience is not unique to modern times In fact says Ann M Blair in this intriguing book the invention of the printing press and the ensuing abundance of books provoked sixteenth and seventeenth century European scholars to register complaints very similar to our own Blair examines methods of information management in ancient and medieval Europe as well as the Islamic world and China then focuses particular attention on the organization composition and reception of Latin reference books in print in early modern Europe She explores in detail the sophisticated and sometimes idiosyncratic techniques that scholars and readers developed in an era of new technology and exploding information Body Criticism

Barbara Maria Stafford, 1993-08-13 In this erudite and profusely illustrated history of perception Barbara Stafford explores a remarkable set of body metaphors deriving from both aesthetic and medical practices that were developed during the enlightenment for making visible the unseeable aspects of the world While she focuses on these metaphors as a reflection of the changing attitudes toward the human body during the period of birth of the modern world she also presents a strong argument for our need to recognize the occurrence of a profound revolution a radical shift from a textbased to a visually centered culture Stafford argues in fact that modern societies need to develop innovative nonlinguistic paradigms and to train a broad public in visual aptitude
