Wilhelm Hauff, CHASID Caliph of Bagdad was taking his ease one beautiful afternoon stretched out upon his couch He had just awakened from a little nap and was in a pleasant mood From time to time he drank from the cup of coffee one of his slaves handed to him and took long whiffs from a rosewood pipe stroking his long beard the while with an air of extreme complacency In short it was evident that the Caliph was in a very good humour It was the best time in the day for any one to approach him on business for he was usually inclined to grant any request one might ask and for this reason his grand vizier Mansor was wont to visit him at that hour On this particular afternoon he came as usual but seemed unaccountably quiet and thoughtful The Caliph removed his pipe from his mouth and said Why do you look so serious Grand Vizier The grand vizier crossed his arms on his breast bowed low before his master and answered Sire it is no wonder I look disturbed for below the palace wall stands a pedlar who has such beautiful goods for sale that it angers me to think I have no money to spare just now The Caliph who had long wished for an opportunity to confer some gift upon his vizier sent a black slave to fetch the pedlar Very soon the slave returned ushering the pedlar into his master s presence He was a fat little man with a sunburnt face and dressed in rags He carried a pack in which all sorts of wares were huddled together pearls rings richly chased pistols goblets and combs The Caliph and his vizier took stock of everything and finally the Caliph purchased handsome pistols for himself and his vizier Mansor and a beautiful comb for Mansor s wife As the pedlar was about to close his pack the Caliph noticed a little drawer and asked if there was anything in it for sale The man opened the drawer and took out a snuff box containing a dark coloured powder and a paper covered with very curious characters which neither the Caliph nor his vizier were able to read I had these from a merchant who picked them up in the streets of Mecca said the pedlar I do not know what they contain and they are at your service for a very low price as I do not know what to do with them The Caliph who was always glad to purchase rare manuscripts for his library even if he could not read them himself bought both snuff box and paper and dismissed the pedlar But the Caliph was curious to know what the writing on the paper meant and asked the vizier if he knew of any one who would possibly be able to decipher it Most gracious lord and master said the vizier near the great Mosque dwells a man known as Selim the Learned who understands all languages bid him come hither and maybe he will understand these mysterious characters The learned Selim was soon sent for and the Caliph addressed him thus Selim it is said of you that you are a very learned man look well at this writing and see if you can read it If you are able to do so I will give you a new robe for feast days but if you are unable to do so you will receive twelve strokes upon the back and five and twenty upon the soles of your feet because you have masqueraded under the name of Selim the Learned Selim glanced at the writing intently and suddenly cried out It is Latin my Lord most certainly it is Latin Very well then commanded the Caliph impatiently if you know that it is Latin tell me what it means Selim began to translate Man whoever you be who shall find this praise Allah for his mercy He who shall take a pinch of the powder in this snuff box and say the word Mutabor shall be able to transform himself into any kind of animal and understand the creature s language When he wishes to return to his original form he must bow three times towards the East and repeat the same word But let him beware when in the transformed state never to laugh otherwise he will forget the magic word and will be condemned to remain an animal When Selim had finished reading the Caliph was beside himself with joy He made Selim take an oath that he would not reveal the secret gave him a handsome robe and sent him away I call that a first rate purchase said he to Mansor How I long to become an animal Early to morrow morning you shall come with me we will go out into the fields take a pinch of snuff from my box and then listen to all that is being said in the air and in the water in the field and in the woodland Never Saw It Coming Karen A. Cerulo, 2008-09-15 People especially Americans are by and large optimists They re much better at imagining best case scenarios I could win the lottery than worst case scenarios A hurricane could destroy my neighborhood This is true not just of their approach to imagining the future but of their memories as well people are better able to describe the best moments of their lives than they are the worst Though there are psychological reasons for this phenomenon Karen A Cerulo in Never Saw It Coming considers instead the role of society in fostering this attitude What kinds of communities develop this pattern of thought which do not and what does that say about human ability to evaluate possible outcomes of decisions and events Cerulo takes readers to diverse realms of experience including intimate family relationships key transitions in our lives the places we work and play and the boardrooms of organizations and bureaucracies Using interviews surveys artistic and fictional accounts media reports historical data and official records she illuminates one of the most common yet least studied of human traits a blatant disregard for worst case scenarios Never Saw It Coming therefore will be crucial to anyone who wants to understand human attempts to picture or plan the future In Never Saw It Coming Karen Cerulo argues that in American society there is a positive symmetry a tendency to focus on and exaggerate the best the winner the most optimistic outcome and outlook Thus the conceptions of the worst are underdeveloped and elided Naturally as she masterfully outlines there are dramatic consequences to this characterological inability to imagine and prepare for the worst as the failure to heed memos leading up to both the 9 11 and NASA Challenger disasters for instance so painfully reminded us Robin Wagner Pacifici Swarthmore College Katrina 9 11 and the War in Iraq all demonstrate the costliness of failing to anticipate worst case scenarios Never Saw It Coming explains why it is so hard to do so adaptive behavior hard wired into human cognition is complemented and reinforced by cultural practices which are in turn institutionalized in the rules and structures of formal organizations But Karen Cerulo doesn t just diagnose the problem she uses case studies of settings in which people effectively anticipate and deal with potential disaster to describe structural solutions to the chronic dilemmas she describes so well Never Saw It Coming is a powerful contribution to the emerging fields of cognitive and moral sociology Paul DiMaggio Princeton University
