The Case against Afrocentrism Tunde Adeleke, 2011-01-05 Postcolonial discourses on African Diaspora history and relations have traditionally focused intensely on highlighting the common experiences and links between black Africans and African Americans This is especially true of Afrocentric scholars and supporters who use Africa to construct and validate a monolithic racial and culturally essentialist worldview Publications by Afrocentric scholars such as Molefi Asante Marimba Ani Maulana Karenga and the late John Henrik Clarke have emphasized the centrality of Africa to the construction of Afrocentric essentialism In the last fifteen years however countervailing critical scholarship has challenged essentialist interpretations of Diaspora history Critics such as Stephen Howe Yaacov Shavit and Clarence Walker have questioned and refuted the intellectual and cultural underpinnings of Afrocentric essentialist ideology Tunde Adeleke deconstructs Afrocentric essentialism by illuminating and interrogating the problematic situation of Africa as the foundation of a racialized worldwide African Diaspora He attempts to fill an intellectual gap by analyzing the contradictions in Afrocentric representations of the continent These include multiple conflicting and ambivalent portraits of Africa the use of the continent as a global unifying identity for all blacks the de-emphasizing and nullification of New World acculturation and the ahistoric construction of a monolithic African Diaspora worldwide

An Anthology of African Cultural Studies, Volume I Keyan G. Tomaselli, Handel Kashope Wright, 2024-10-04 This volume provides an overview of fundamental or grounding themes in African Cultural Studies, including the articulation of African cultural studies, the issue of Africa's diaspora, African identity and identifications, and media studies in Africa and its relationship with cultural studies. The first of two volumes, the book predominantly pulls together a rich reservoir of previously published articles from Critical Arts: South North Cultural and Media Studies, mapping a long history of the field that draws from a diverse range of origins and locations, especially from within Africa itself. The first section of the book addresses how African cultural studies has been called for and explained both as a comprehensive continental and sometimes national discourse and as being in conversation with established global cultural studies. The second section addresses the African diaspora and what might be termed diasporic African cultural studies. A third principal theme explored is how African identities and identifications are articulated in African cultural studies. On spatiality, the volume takes a stance on the exclusive continental versus continuity conception of Africa: the African diaspora is treated as contributory and its relationship to the continent as problematic, while taking up continental Africa as the principal location of African cultural studies. In terms of identity, Blackness is taken up as the dominant but importantly not exclusive racial identity and identification of African cultural studies, and gender and social class are also addressed in novel ways. The book ends with an examination of the complex relationship between media studies and cultural studies. This book will be a key resource for academics, researchers and advanced students of African cultural studies, media and cultural studies, African studies, history, politics, sociology and social and cultural anthropology, while also being of interest to those seeking an introduction to the sub-field of African cultural studies.

Compassion Fatigue Susan D. Moeller, 2002-09-11 From outbreaks of the flesh-eating virus Ebola and Strep A to death camps in Bosnia and massacres in Rwanda, the media seem to careen from one trauma to another in a breathless tour of poverty, disease and death. First we're horrified, but each time they turn up the pitch show us one image more hideous than the next it gets harder and harder to feel Meet compassion fatigue a modern syndrome Susan Moeller argues that results from formulaic media coverage sensationalized language and overly Americanized metaphors In her impassioned new book Compassion Fatigue Moeller warns that the American media threatens our ability to understand the world around us Why do the media cover the world in the way that they do Are they simply following the marketplace demand for tabloid style international news Or are they creating an audience that as seen too much or too little to care Through a series of case studies of the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse disease famine death and war Moeller investigates how newspapers newsmagazines and television have covered international crises over the last two decades identifying the ruts into which the media have fallen and revealing why Throughout we hear from industry insiders who tell of the chilling effect of the mega media mergers the tyranny of the bottom line hunt for profits and the decline of the American attention span as they struggle to both tell and sell a story But Moeller is insistent that the media need not and should not be run like any other business The media have a special responsibility to the public and when they abdicate this responsibility and the public lapses into a compassion fatigue stupor we become a public at great danger to ourselves

Intercultural Communication and Diplomacy Hannah Slavik, 2004 An Enchanting Darkness Dennis Hickey, Kenneth C. Wylie, 1993 An Enchanting Darkness the American Vision of Africa in the Twentieth Century is more than just another look at racism cultural bias and the images that undergird widely held misconceptions about an entire continent Going beyond convention this important new work analyzes the way truisms and stereotypes have perpetuated negative and naive images of Africa and its people Dennis Hickey and Ken Wylie probe the reasons why such unfortunate views have persisted even among groups of supposedly well educated Americans They examine the concept of the Noble Savage and trace its evolution within the media of our popular culture and within the literature produced by scholars American perceptions of Africa are shown to have been influenced by French philosopher Jean Jacques Rousseau's ideas research undertaken by anthropologists Franz Boaz and Melville Herskovits and by nine decades of pervasive imagery presented by twentieth century writers like Saul Bellow Laura Bohannon Edgar Rice Burroughs Alex Haley Ernest Hemingway Paul Theroux Maria Thomas John Updike and Alice Walker Finally An Enchanting Darkness examines the symbolic conventions presented to the American public that also have been manipulated to create counter myths that are as hollow and destructive as the older shibboleth of Africa as a dark continent
