The Legal Status of International Non-Governmental Organizations Rephael Harel Ben-Ari,2013-08-08 The discourse regarding the legal status of international non governmental organizations INGOs is not new in fact it has already progressed throughout the last 100 years However most of the proposals to grant official status to INGOs or to otherwise regulate their cross border activity are relatively unknown to international lawyers A perusal of these initiatives against their unique historical background will prove highly significant in dissecting the complexities involved in formulating a comprehensive scheme for the regulation of INGOs Innovatively this work outlines and evaluates the sequence of attempts to propose a formal status for INGOs It demonstrates how this historical contextual analysis provides an invaluable perspective that is essential for the informed review of contemporary schemes and theoretical trends relevant to the consideration of the status of INGOs Unfortunately most contemporary writers and activists who deal with the normative aspects of INGO activity neglect this crucial perspective
