Ideology and Libraries Michael K. Buckland, 2020-11-13 In 1950 Robert L Gitler went to Japan to found the first college level school of library science in that country His mission an improbable success was documented in an assisted autobiography as Robert Gitler and the Japan Library School Scarecrow Press 1999 Subsequent research into initiatives to improve library services during the Allied occupation has revealed surprising discoveries and human interest of the lives of very diverse individuals A central role was played by a librarian Philip Keeney who later became well known as an alleged communist spy A national plan designed for Japan s libraries was based directly on the county library system developed by progressive thinkers in California itself a dramatic story The School of Librarianship at the University of California and its founding director Sydney Mitchell was found to have deeply influenced key figures The story also requires an appreciation of the deployment of American libraries abroad as tools of foreign policy as cultural diplomacy Meanwhile library services in

Japan were seriously underdeveloped despite Japan's extraordinarily high literacy rate very well developed publishing and book retail industries and librarians who were far from backward The difference in library development lay in the huge divergence between the ethos of the American public library dominated by support for individual self development and Western liberal democracy and the evolving political ideology of Japanese governments after the Meiji Restoration 1868 After absorbing authoritarian French and German administrative practices Japan became a militarist dictatorship from the 1920s onwards until surrender in 1945 The literature on the Allied Occupation of Japan is vast but library services have received very little attention beyond the creation of the National Diet Library in 1948 The story of initiatives to improve library services in occupied Japan the role of libraries as cultural diplomacy the dramatic development of free public library services in California have remained unknown or little known until now

Architects of Memory Nathan R. Johnson, 2020-05-26

Probes the development of information management after World War II and its consequences for public memory and human agency We are now living in the richest age of public memory From museums and memorials to the vast digital infrastructure of the internet access to the past is only a click away Even so the methods and technologies created by scientists espionage agencies and information management coders and programmers have drastically delimited the ways that communities across the globe remember and forget our wealth of retrievable knowledge In Architects of Memory Information and Rhetoric in a Networked Archival Age Nathan R Johnson charts turning points where concepts of memory became durable in new computational technologies and modern memory infrastructures took hold He works through both familiar and esoteric memory technologies from the card catalog to the book cart to Zetocoding and keyword indexing as he delineates histories of librarianship and information science and provides a working vocabulary for understanding rhetoric's role in contemporary memory practices This volume draws upon the twin concepts of memory infrastructure and mnemonic techn to illuminate the seemingly opaque wall of mundane algorithmic techniques that determine what is worth remembering and what should be forgotten Each chapter highlights a conflict in the development of twentieth century librarianship and its rapidly evolving competitor the discipline of information science As these two disciplines progressed they contributed practical techniques and technologies for making sense of explosive scientific advancement in the wake of World War II Taming postwar science became part and parcel of practices and information technologies that undergird uncountable modern communication systems including search engines algorithms and databases for nearly every national clearinghouse of the twenty first century
