Encyclopedia of the Enlightenment Michel Delon,Philip Stewart,2001 Encyclopedia of the Enlightenment Ellen Judy Wilson,Peter Hanns Reill,1996 Covers such topics as science education art and architecture aesthetics and music as well as the key terms individuals locations and works of the period Enthusiasm - Lyceums and Museums Alan Charles Kors,2003 Encyclopedia of the Enlightenment: Mably-Ruysch Alan Charles Kors,2003 Focuses on the entire range of philosophic and social changes engendered by the Enlightenment The Encyclopedia extends the conventional geographical boundaries of the Enlightenment covering not only France England Scotland the Low Countries Italy English speaking North America the German states and Hapsburg Austria but also Iberian Ibero American Jewish Russian and Eastern European cultures Designed and organized for ease of use its special features include more than 700 signed articles annotated bibliographies following each article to guide further study an extensive system of cross references a synoptic outline of contents a comprehensive topical index providing easy access to networks of related articles and high quality illustrations including photographs line drawings and maps Encyclopedia of the American Enlightenment Mark G. Spencer,2015-01-01 The first reference work on one of the key subjects in American history filling an important gap in the literature with over 500 original essays Encyclopedia of the Enlightenment ,2001 The Bloomsbury Encyclopedia of the American Enlightenment Mark G. Spencer,2015-02-26 The first reference work on one of the key subjects in American history filling an important gap in the literature with over 500 original essays Encyclopedia of the Enlightenment ,2003 The Bloomsbury Encyclopedia of the American Enlightenment Marc G. Spencer,2015

Encyclopedia of the Enlightenment ,2003 The Unfinished Enlightenment Joanna Stalnaker,2011-05-02 In The Unfinished Enlightenment Joanna Stalnaker offers a fresh look at the French Enlightenment by focusing on the era's vast collective attempt to compile an ongoing and provisional description of the world Through a series of readings of natural histories encyclopedias scientific poetry and urban topographies the book uncovers the deep epistemological and literary tensions that made description a central preoccupation for authors such as Buffon Bernardin de Saint Pierre Diderot Delille and Mercier Stalnaker argues that Enlightenment description was the site of competing truth claims that would eventually resolve themselves in the modern polarity between literature and science By the mid nineteenth century the now habitual association between description and the novel was already firmly anchored in French culture but just a century earlier in the diverse network of articles on description in Diderot and d'Alembert's Encyclopédie and in the works derived from it there was not a single mention of the novel. Instead we find articles on description in natural history, geometry, belles lettres, and poetry. Stalnaker builds on the premise that the tendency to view description as the inevitable and subservient partner of narration rather than as a universal tool for making sense of knowledge in all fields has obscured the central place of description in Enlightenment discourse. As a result, we have neglected some of the most original and experimental works of the eighteenth century.

The Bloomsbury Encyclopedia of the American Enlightenment Mark G. Spencer, 2015. The Bloomsbury Encyclopedia of the American Enlightenment is the first reference work on this key subject in early American history. With over 500 original essays on key American Enlightenment figures, it provides a comprehensive account to complement the intense scholarly activity that has recently centered on the European Enlightenment.

Abbadie - Enlightenment studies Alan Charles Kors, 2003.

Science in the Enlightenment William E. Burns, 2003-11-17. The first introductory A-Z resource on the dynamic achievements in science from the late 1600s to 1820, including the great minds behind the developments and science's new cultural role. Though the Enlightenment was a time of amazing scientific change, science is an often neglected facet of that time. Now Science in the Enlightenment redresses the balance by covering all the major scientific developments in the period between Newton's discoveries in the late 1600s to the early 1800s of Michael Faraday and Georges Cuvier. Over 200 A-Z entries explore a range of disciplines, including astronomy and medicine, scientists such as Sir Humphry Davy and Benjamin Franklin, and instruments such as the telescope and calorimeter. Emphasis is placed on the role of women, and proper attention is given to the shifts in the worldview brought about by Newtonian physics, Antoine-Laurent Lavoisier's chemical revolution, and universal systems of botanical and zoological classification. Moreover, the social impact of science is explored, as well as the ways in which the work of scientists influenced the thinking of philosophers such as Voltaire and Denis Diderot, and the writers and artists of the Romantic movement.

Encyclopedia of Philosophy and the Social Sciences Byron Kaldis, 2013-04-02. The entries in this encyclopedia give readers an opportunity to explore interconnections, clarify commonalities, as well as differences or comparative contrasts, discover new fields or ideas of intellectual interest, explore adjacent conceptual zones that may be found to further expand their own disciplinary domains, and also understand better their own academic areas of expertise and the historical provenance of each.

Encyclopedia of the Essay Tracy Chevalier, 2012-10-12. This groundbreaking new source of international scope defines the essay as nonfictional prose texts of between one and 50 pages in length. The more than 500 entries by 275 contributors include entries on nationalities, various categories of essays such as generic, such as sermons, aphorisms, individual major works, notable writers, and periodicals that created a market for essays, and particularly famous or significant essays. The preface details the historical development of the essay, and the alphabetically arranged entries usually include biographical sketch, nationality, era, selected writings, list of additional readings, and anthologies.
