Studies in Indian Archaeology Hasmukhlal Dhirajlal Sankalia, 1985 Indian Antiquary, 1970 Indian Historical Periodicals as Source of Research (1788-1970) Arjun Dasgupta, 2006 The Creative South Andrea Acri, Peter Sharrock, 2022-08-29 This edited volume programmatically reconsiders the creative contribution of the littoral and insular regions of Maritime Asia to shaping new paradigms in the Buddhist and Hindu art and architecture of the mediaeval Asian world Far from being a mere southern conduit for the maritime circulation of Indic religions in the period from ca the 7th to the 14th century those regions transformed across mainland and island polities the rituals icons and architecture that embodied these religious insights with a dynamism that often eclipsed the established cultural centres in Northern India Central Asia and mainland China This collective body of work brings together new research aiming to recalibrate the importance of these innovations in art and architecture thereby highlighting the cultural creativity of the monsoon influenced Southern rim of the Asian landmass Although Maritime Asia in mediaeval times was not as densely populated as the agrarian hinterland Asia's coasts were highly urbanized The region from southern India to south China was a heterogeneous blend of cultures leavened with a strong interest in trade This cosmopolitan society afforded plentiful opportunities for artists to find patrons and develop individual styles and aesthetic sensibilities In the bustling ports of Asia's south coast rulers sought to embellish their prestige and attract foreign merchants by sponsoring the development of monumental complexes and centres of learning and debate These educational institutions attracted teachers from all over Asia and in their cloisters they developed new intellectual frameworks which were reflected in works of art and architecture Scholars moved frequently by sea influencing and being influenced by other foreigners such as Japanese and central Asians who were also attracted to these places This very variety has hindered scholarly research in the past This volume contributes to the endeavour to show how Maritime Asia was not an incoherent jumble of misunderstood influences from better known civilizations there was a pattern to this creativity which the authors in this collection clarify for us The maritime world of Asia may have lain on the margins of the land but it provided a physical and intellectual medium through which artistic ideas from east and west flowed freely Maritime Asia also made significant original contributions which hold their own with those of the hinterland of the Asian continent Unconstrained by the burden of static hierarchical courts the peoples of Maritime Asia built on the inspiration provided by a hybrid society to demonstrate a high degree of artistic originality while testing but not breaking the link with conventional iconography Professor John Miksic Department of Southeast Asian Studies Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences National University of Singapore NUS The collective objective of this two volume work is to give substance to the oft cited mantra that mediaeval maritime Southeast Asia was as much an innovative contributor to as a recipient in the cultural conversations that took place across the Bay of Bengal and South China Sea In bracketing these studies between the 7th and 14th centuries the editors have drawn into focus two key traditions that are explicated in texts ritual art and architecture and religious landscapes of this period tantric Buddhism and esoteric Shaivism A great strength of these studies is this focus for which the editors are to be commended The chapters contain much that represents significant milestones in building new understanding in the field including overdue recognition of the importance of Southeast Asian esoteric Buddhist practice in shaping Chinese Buddhism Nowhere did the architects of the religious landscape of early Southeast Asia think of themselves as being on the periphery or as outsiders looking in Rather they knowingly imbued their tirthas and sacred centres with the same authority as those in India and created religious edifices that were on occasions beyond India's experience I highly commend this publication to anyone with an interest in bringing a wider lens to the study of Indian esoteric religious practices and to understanding the relationship of early Hindu Buddhist Southeast Asia to the wider Asian world John Guy Senior Curator of South and Southeast Asian Art The Metropolitan Museum of Art New York The Creative South is a rich compendium of scholarship concerning the religious art of Southeast Asia and its ties to India in the period beginning in the 8th century It was a time when merchants were crisscrossing the seas from India to China and when advocates of innovative doctrines and rituals were finding ready support among the rulers of the varied kingdoms From the identification of images embraced by the seafarers to the mysteries of the fire shrines in Cambodian temples from the funerary beliefs of Odisha to the unique character of the Javanese Ramayana these eighteen studies provide fresh understandings of the patterns of reception and innovation Hiram Woodward Mr and Mrs Thomas Quincy Scott Curator of Asian Art Emeritus The Walters Art Museum

The Body Adorned Vidya Dehejia, 2009-02-26 The sensuous human form elegant and eye catching is the dominant feature of premodern Indian art From the powerful god Shiva greatest of all yogis and most beautiful of all beings to stone dancers twisting along temple walls the body in Indian art is always richly adorned Alankara ornament protects the body and makes it complete and attractive to be unornamented is to invite misfortune In The Body Adorned Vidya Dehejia who has dedicated her career to the study of Indian art draws on the literature of court poets the hymns of saints and acharyas and verses from inscriptions to illuminate premodern India's unique treatment of the sculpted and painted form She focuses on the coexistence of sacred and sensuous images within the common boundaries of Buddhist Jain and Hindu sacred spaces redefining terms like sacred and secular in relation to Indian architecture She also considers the paradox of passionate poetry in which saints praised the sheer bodily beauty of the divine form and nonsacred Rajput painted manuscripts which freely inserted gods into the earthly realm of the courts By juxtaposing visual and literary sources Dehejia demonstrates the harmony between the sacred and the profane in classical Indian culture Her synthesis of art literature and cultural materials not only generates an all inclusive picture of the period but also revolutionizes our understanding of the cultural ethos of premodern India

Material Culture and Asian Religions Benjamin Fleming, Richard Mann, 2014-03-26 Traditionally research on the history of Asian religions has been marked by a bias for literary evidence privileging canonical texts penned in classical languages Not only has a focus on literary evidence shaped the dominant narratives about the religious histories of Asia in both scholarship and popular culture but it has contributed to the tendency to study different religious traditions in relative isolation from one another Today moreover historical work is often based on modern textual editions and increasingly on electronic databases What may be lost in the process is the visceral sense of the text as artifact as a material object that formed part of a broader material culture in which the boundaries between religious traditions were sometimes more fluid than canonical literature might suggest This volume brings together specialists in a variety of Asian cultures to discuss the methodological challenges involved in integrating material evidence for the reconstruction of the religious histories of South Southeast Central and East Asia By means of specific test cases the volume explores the importance of considering material and literary evidence in concert What untold stories do these sources help us to recover How might they push us to reevaluate historical narratives traditionally told from literary sources By addressing these questions from the perspectives of different subfields and religious traditions contributors map out the challenges involved in interpreting different types of data assessing the problems of interpretation distinct to specific types of material evidence e g coins temple art manuscripts donative inscriptions and considering the issues raised by the different patterns in the preservation of such evidence in different locales Special attention is paid to newly discovered and neglected sources to our evidence for trade migration and inter regional cultural exchange and to geographical locales that served as contact zones connecting cultures In addition the chapters in this volume represent the rich range of religious traditions across Asia including Hinduism Buddhism Taoism Shinto and Chinese religions as well as Islam and eastern Christianities Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society of Great Britain & Ireland, 1944 Bulletin of the Deccan College Research Institute Deccan College Post-graduate and Research Institute, 1990 Vol 5 has also special t p V S Sukthankar memorial volume 21st January 1944 The Imperial Guptas Jagdish S.
