The Oxford Handbook of Environmental and Conservation Psychology Susan D. Clayton, 2012-10-18 First handbook to integrate environmental psychology and conservation psychology In Session, on the Thread of Affect and Emotion Beatrice Ithier, 2025-04-17 With contributions from Sara Boffito Lesley Caldwell Roosevelt Cassorla Giuseppe Civitarese Maria Teresa Flores Be atrice Ithier Howard B Levine Ruggero Levy Mauro Manica Maria Grazia Oldoini and Rene Roussillon In Session on the Thread of Affect and Emotion Contemporary Approaches is divided into four parts The first looks at the Freudian and Bionian models and the book begins its journey with an investigation of Freudian metapsychology from Rene Roussillon The second part explores the aesthetic dimension of psychoanalysis and the link with truth with a focus on emotions dreams and non dreams The third part concerns defensive issues experienced by the analyst and patient in the consulting room and the fourth and final part concerns the intersubjectivity of affect Mauro Manica and Maria Grazia Oldoini highlight the shift that occurred with Melanie Klein and confirmed by Wilfred Bion in his theory of early links between love hate knowledge It is interesting to see the differing approaches of these contributors from many different countries France Italy Portugal Brazil the United States and the United Kingdom Whilst their approach to affect and emotion is influenced by their own cultural specificities and creativity they all emphasise not only the shared affect but also the emotional presence between the two protagonists In this way they give access to the deepest affective sediments making this a must read for all practising psychoanalysts and those with an academic interest Theater and Crisis Patrice D. Rankine, 2024-03-04 Demonstrates how myth literature and theater are part of and respond to public or political events Theologies of Fear in Early Greek Epic Carman Romano, 2024-09-24 This book explores the theological significance of horror elements in the works of Hesiod and in the Homeric Hymns for the characters within these poems the mortal audience consuming them and the poet responsible for mythopoesis Theologies of Fear in Early Greek Epic argues that just as modern supernatural horror fiction can be analyzed to reveal popular conceptions of the divine so too can the horrific elements in early Greek epic Romano develops this analogy to show how myth makers chose to include omit or nuance horror elements from their narratives in order to communicate theological messages By employing methodological approaches from religious studies classical studies and literary studies of supernatural horror fiction this book brings a fresh perspective to our understanding of how the Greeks viewed their gods and how poets helped to create that view Theologies of Fear in Early Greek Epic will be of interest to scholars in classical studies religious studies and comparative literature as well as students in courses on myth religion and Greek culture and society The Body in the Text Evi Voyiatzaki, 2002-01-01 The Body in the Text highlights the importance of the body in language and narrative and its impact on meaning and signification Evi Voyiatzaki s insightful work reveals the highly metaphoric and symbolic texture of James Joyce s Ulysses which the author contends resembles the organization of a living organism The book examines how the living meaning of the word in Joyce s texts has inspired the work of three avant garde Greek writers Nikos Gavrili Pentzikis Stelios Xefloulas and Giorgos Cheimonas A valuable comparison between Joyce's work and modern Greek literature The Body in the Text's comparative exploration of the body's functions within literary discourse offers new insight into language's metaphoricity and the physiology of writing James Joyce and Cultural Genetics Wim Van Mierlo, 2023-09-21 As a genetic study this book uncovers the creative DNA of James Joyce's oeuvre by looking at the cultural forces that shaped him and that he in turn shaped in the creation of his books developing a two way relationship with history memory and national identity Following his development as an author it revisits and redirects Joyce's attitudes towards the Irish Revival From Chamber Music through Ulysses to Finnegans Wake Joyce sought to define a cultural identity that went in many respects against the mainstream but that nonetheless belonged to the wider Revivalist project with which it shared certain characteristics and aspirations Joyce's historical and genealogical imagination is read through a careful investigation of the cultural materials that went into his work Based on evidence from his personal library and the extensive archive of reading notes ideas sketches and drafts this book investigates how Joyce used absorbed and repurposed these materials creatively in his writing it does so by bringing for the first time the methods of genetic criticism into the domain of cultural memory and the sociology of the text Thus this book defines cultural genetics as an exploration of the textual material that are Joyce's sources interacts with the culture that produced and received them

T. S. Eliot Marion Montgomery, 2008-09-01 This brilliantly allusive and gracefully written study is focused on T S Eliot's developing commitment to Christianity but the essay is by no means procrustean or reductive in its strategies nor is it theological Montgomery shows how Eliot's intellectual and emotional uneasiness in the early poems is reflected in such technical devices as point of view and imagery The questions of the poem's voice and the poet's mask which are often ironic in nature become less pressing as time goes on and finally Eliot comes to a dynamic stillness a frozen point in the sea of change that is variously called nature history and society This stillness embodies the poet's rendering of Christian incarnation the Word within the word The author finds too that Eliot's imagery grows richer during the progress of his spiritual journey As the imagery becomes more religious it also grows more complex and more concrete Eliot in the end decides the poet's personal struggle to know his world is more important than the poetry which does not matter as he says in East Coker Paradoxically the poetry of T S Eliot takes on an increasingly classical quality as it steadily becomes more personal and Christian Montgomery accordingly shows how Eliot ultimately arrives where he started and sees the place for the first time The Recovery Equation: Motivational Enhancement/Choice Awareness/Use Prevention - an Innovative Clinical Curriculum for Substance Use/Addictions Treatment Pavel G. Somov, Ph.D., Ecological Emotions Ondřej Beran, 2025-09-30 In this book Ondřej Beran explores the various emotions that arise in response to the perceived and observed climate crisis He provides a focused philosophical overview of ecological emotions mostly negative ones such as grief and reflects on some of their characteristics He also addresses the nature of their interconnection and their status as potentially lucid and justified recognitions of a compromised value In general Beran s interest is in thinking of these emotions as peculiar forms of understanding and in exploring what these forms of understanding show us about living in a world that we see as seriously damaged or under serious risk He argues that these forms of understanding are cultivated and expressed in various ways and can take very diverse even idiosyncratic shapes Ultimately he highlights the important role played by the reflective distance in many of our emotional responses to the climate crisis as they also incorporate and shape how we understand our individual lives Special attention is paid here to light heartedly pessimistic takes on one life in relation to the climate crisis and to a critical reflection of the problematic aspects of this reflection especially its enabling conditions which would represent natural openings for further discussions whether post colonial Marxist feminist or general political critiques The book is methodologically seated primarily in the tradition of post Wittgensteinian philosophy ethics building upon previous theoretical work on examples in philosophy But it relies on other resources as well cognitivist approaches to emotion Solomon Nussbaum Rorty existential phenomenology Ratcliffe or Adornoian dialectics

The Realist Short Story of the Powerful Glimpse Kerry McSweeney,2007 An aesthetic perspective on the short fiction of Chekhov Joyce Hemingway O Connor and Carver Taking a distinctively aesthetic approach to the genre of realist short fiction Kerry McSweeney clusters the work of five masters Anton Chekhov James Joyce Ernest Hemingway Flannery O Connor and Raymond Carver to offer a poetics of the form for students and scholars At the center of this argument is the notion that the realist short story is a glimpse powerful and tightly focused into a world that the writer must precisely craft and in which the reader must fully invest Selecting writers from different generational national and cultural backgrounds McSweeney chooses writers based on their commitment to the realist representation of experience and their shared belief in the importance and efficacy of the short story form By considering their efforts in tandem he develops a means to assess the strategies and claims of realist short fiction McSweeney demonstrates that when the comments these writers have made about their work are assembled and critically scrutinized the result is an aesthetic critical model as opposed to more interpretative models that focus attention on the determination or indetermination of meanings He suggests that a fully adequate reading of a realist short story involves the integration of three components the enjoyment and contemplation of the story in and of itself affective receptivity or a response to the story s emotional content and cognitive activity or the reflective consideration of the story s conceptual implications In individual chapters on Chekov Joyce Hemingway O Connor and Carver this presentational model is applied to widely known and often anthologized readings from each writer McSweeney brings into sharp focus the distinctive features of each piece makes qualitative discriminations and assesses the profitability of other critical models He concludes with an invitation to test the mettle of his approach in reading other realist short story writers

Land of Logos Silvia Montiglio, 2010-05-17 In ancient Greece the spoken word connoted power whether in the free speech accorded to citizens or in the voice of the poet whose song was thought to know no earthly bounds But how did silence fit into the mental framework of a society that valued speech so highly Here Silvia Montiglio provides the first comprehensive investigation into silence as a distinctive and meaningful phenomenon in archaic and classical Greece Arguing that the notion of silence is not a universal given but is rather situated in a complex network of associations and values Montiglio seeks to establish general principles for understanding silence through analyses of cultural practices including religion literature and law Unlike the silence of a Christian before an ineffable God which signifies the uselessness of words silence in Greek religion paradoxically expresses the power of logos for example during prayer and sacrifice it serves as a shield against words that could offend the gods Montiglio goes on to explore silence in the world of the epic hero where words are equated with action and their absence signals paralysis or tension in power relationships Her other examples include oratory a practice in which citizens must balance their words with silence in very complex ways in order to show that they do not abuse their right to speak Inquiries into lyric poetry drama medical writings and historiography round out this unprecedented study revealing silence as a force in its own right

Leonhard Purdy, 2011-03-15 The eighteenth century struggled to define architecture as either an art or a science the image of the architect as a grand figure who synthesizes all other disciplines within a single master plan emerged from this discourse Immanuel Kant and Johann Wolfgang Goethe described the architect as their equal a genius with godlike creativity For writers from Descartes to Freud architectural reasoning provided a method for critically examining consciousness The architect as philosophers liked to think of him was obligated by the design and construction process to mediate between the abstract and the actual In On the Ruins of Babel Daniel Purdy traces this notion back to its wellspring He surveys the volatile state of architectural theory in the Enlightenment brought on by the newly emerged scientific critiques of Renaissance cosmology then shows how German writers redeployed Renaissance terminology so that harmony unity synthesis foundation and orderliness became states of consciousness rather than terms used to describe the built world Purdy s distinctly new interpretation of German theory reveals how metaphors constitute interior life as an architectural space to be designed constructed renovated or demolished He elucidates the close affinity between Hegel s Romantic aesthetic of space and Daniel Libeskind s deconstruction of monumental architecture in Berlin s Jewish Museum Through a careful reading of Walter Benjamin s writing on architecture as myth Purdy details how classical architecture shaped Benjamin s modernist interpretations of urban life particularly his elaboration on Freud s archaeology of the unconscious Benjamin s essays on dreams and architecture turn the individualist sensibility of the Enlightenment into a collective and mythic identification between humans and buildings
