Liberating Intimacy Peter D. Hershock, 1996-01-01 Liberating Intimacy dramatically reevaluates the teachings and practice of Chan Buddhism Considering Buddha's insight that everything is empty or absent of a permanent and independent self nature Herschok argues that not only is suffering without any essence and so dependent on time and place so is end of suffering or enlightenment He shows that the tradition need not entail a quietistic withdrawal from social life Far from being something privately attained and experienced Chan enlightenment is best seen as the opening of a virtuosic intimacy through which we are continually liberated from the arrogance of both self and other That is enlightenment in Chan must be understood as irreducibly social it can never be merely mine or yours but is only realized as ours Including new translations from the teachings of Ma tzu Pai chang Huang po and Lin chi Liberating Intimacy reconciles the almost fierce individualism that characterizes the mastery of Chan and its unwavering embrace of the ideal of compassionately saving all beings American Bookseller ,1981 Gale Environmental Sourcebook ,1994 National Union Catalog ,1983

The Adoption Plan Jack Neubauer,2025-03-18 During the tumultuous years of World War II and the Cold War new global humanitarian ideas and practices coalesced around the cause of saving the children in China How did China's children become archetypal victims who ignited a new global humanitarian imagination And who would prevail in the transnational contest to control the vast quantities of aid flowing into China on their behalf The Adoption Plan offers a new history of the rise of global humanitarianism that places the recipients administrators and critics of humanitarian aid in China at the center of the story Analyzing how the adoption plan for international child sponsorship became one of the most popular fundraising strategies for humanitarian work in China and across the world Jack Neubauer explores how the globalization of humanitarian aid was linked to new practices of global intimacy that enabled donors to build personal relationships with Chinese children across geographic and cultural divides Drawing on hundreds of letters written by Chinese children to foreign sponsors and extensive research in Chinese archives Neubauer shows how China's Nationalist and Communist parties mobilized the emotional bonds between children and sponsors to secure international support for their competing political projects By the 1950s child sponsorship and international adoption had become the most hotly contested humanitarian programs in Cold War East Asia Upending the conventional view of humanitarianism as a tool of Western influence The Adoption Plan demonstrates that it was often the Chinese recipients of aid who were best able to control its material and ideological uses
