Bağel,2007 This book is an exploration of varying approaches to the study of the deposition diagenesis and stratigraphy of evaporites The volume includes papers from chemical modellers who work on the basis of geochemical representations of the formative water bodies and from basin wide depositional stratigraphical modellers who propose depositional scenarios that are fitted to individual basinal pictures Until now there have been only a few studies of evaporite formation that explain the characteristic features we observe in the real rock record This volume is a collection of relevant papers in which these features are integrated in a realistic manner based on our new understanding of saline water bodies to the diverse tectonic chemical and depositional constraints of their individual basins In additional there are several review articles that offer oversight and extensive referencing of basins worthy of further study This book is a valuable resource for sedimentologists and stratigraphers looking for an up to date reference on evaporite deposits Future Space Programs 1975 United States.

analyzing surface and subsurface properties of worldwide ice and snow features is described Emphasis is placed on the use of remote sensing for developing an improved understanding of the physical properties of ice and snow and understanding the interrelationships of cryospheric processes with atmospheric hydrospheric and oceanic processes Current and potential applications of remotely sensed data are also stressed At present all weather day and night observations of the polar regions can be obtained from sensors operating in different portions of the electromagnetic spectrum Because the approaches for analysis of remotely sensed data are not straightforward Chapter 1 serves to introduce the reader to some of the optical thermal and electrical properties of ice and snow as they pertain to remote sensing In Chapter 2 we briefly describe many of the sensors and platforms that are referred to in the rest of the book The remaining chapters deal with remote sensing of the seasonal snow cover lake and river ice permafrost glacier ice and sea ice World Glacier Inventory, Workshop : Proceedings of the Workshop at Riederalp, Switzerland, 17-22 September 1978 International Association of Hydrological Sciences, 1980
