Dynamics of Human Reproduction James W. Wood, 2017-09-29 Awarded the W W Howells Award for the Outstanding Book in Biological Anthropology this volume presents a comprehensive integrated and up to date overview of the major physiological and behavioral factors affecting human reproduction In attempting to identify the most important causes of variation in fertility within and among human populations Wood summarizes data from a wide range of societies Trained as an anthropologist as well as a demographer he devotes special attention to so called natural fertility populations in which modern contraceptives and induced abortion are not used to limit reproductive output Such an emphasis enables him to study the interaction of biology and behavior with particular clarity The volume weaves together the physiological demographic and biometric approaches to human fertility in a way that will encourage future interdisciplinary research Instead of offering a general overview the focus is to answer one question Why does fertility and the number of live births vary from couple to couple within any particular population and from population to population across the human species as a whole Topics covered include ovarian function conception and pregnancy intrauterine mortality reproductive maturation and senescence coital frequency and the waiting time to conception marriage patterns and the initiation of reproduction the fertility reducing effects of breastfeeding the impact of maternal nutrition on reproduction and reproductive seasonality This unique combination of comprehensive subject matter and an integrated analytical approach makes the book ideally suited both as a graduate level textbook and as a reference work Epidemiology and public health; a text and reference book for physicians Victor Clarence Vaughan,1923 Research Awards Index ,1989 Sexual and Reproductive Health Paul Van Look,Kristian Heggenhougen,Stella R. Quah,2011-01-10 This volume presents the highlights of current global thinking about sexual and reproductive health Major changes have taken place in the last 15 years in the way decision makers think about the subject and the manner in which programmes deliver comprehensive sexual and reproductive health services The turning point was the International Conference on Population and Development ICPD held in Cairo Egypt in 1994 ICPD was a watershed for several reasons First more than in any of the preceding United Nations population conferences the issue of population was clearly placed as being central to sustainable development Second the narrow focus on population growth the population bomb which had been a neo Malthusian concern and preoccupation ever since the Club of Rome published its 1972 report Limits to Growth was replaced by the comprehensive concept of sexual and reproductive health Third and linked to the definition and introduction of the reproductive health concept was the strong call for a paradigm shift away from a policy environment driven by demographic considerations sometimes to the point of using coercion in family planning services in order to reach demographic targets to an environment that recognized the right of individuals to make their own choices And last but not least ICPD as well as the Fourth World Conference on Women FWCW held the following year in Beijing People s Republic of China strongly emphasized that the rights of women and men to good sexual and reproductive health are firmly grounded in universal human rights Provided by publisher A Life Course Approach to Women's Health Gita Mishra,Rebecca Hardy,Diana Kuh,2023 An up to date and comprehensive review of scientific evidence and methodological developments in life course epidemiology as applied to women s health Ethics and Epidemiology Zbigniew Bankowski,Council for International Organizations of Medical Sciences,1991 Male Reproductive Health Wei

Further, the book reviews previous studies on the proximate determinants of fertility in Japan and compares the data to that on other countries.
