Richard Kearney

Epitome Of Desire:

Theodore Dreiser Miriam Gogol, 1995-10 Theodore Dreiser is indisputably one of America's most important twentieth century novelists. An American Tragedy, Sister Carrie and Jennie Gerhardt have all made an indelible mark on the American literary landscape. And yet remarkably few critical books and no recent collections of critical essays have been published that attempt to answer current theoretical questions about Dreiser's entire canon. This collection is the first to appear in twenty four years. The ten contributing essayists offer original interpretations of Dreiser's works from such disparate points of view as new historicism, poststructuralism, psychoanalysis, feminism, film studies, and canon formation. A vital reassessment Theodore Dreiser: Beyond Naturalism brings this influential modern writer into the 1990s by viewing him through the lens of the latest literary theory and cultural criticism.

The God Who May Be Richard Kearney, 2001-10-03 Kearney is one of the most exciting thinkers in the English speaking world of continental philosophy and he joins hands with its fundamental project asking the question what or who comes after the God of metaphysics. John D. Caputo. Engaging some of the most urgent issues in the philosophy of religion today in this lively book Richard Kearney proposes that instead of thinking of God as actual God might best be thought of as the possibility of the impossible. By pulling away from biblical perceptions of God and breaking with dominant theological traditions Kearney draws on the work of Ricoeur, Levinas, Derrida, Heidegger and others to provide a surprising and original answer to who or what God might be. For Kearney the intersecting dimensions of impossibility propel religious experience and faith in new directions notably toward views of God that are unforeseeable, unprogrammable and uncertain. Important themes such as the phenomenology of the person, the meaning of the unity of God, God and desire, notions of existence and difference and faith in philosophy are taken up in this penetrating and original work. Richard Kearney is Professor of Philosophy at Boston College and University College Dublin. He is author of many books on modern philosophy and culture including Dialogues with Contemporary Continental Thinkers, The Wake of Imagination and The Poetics of Modernity.

The Unworthy Scholar from Pingjiang John Christopher Hamm, 2019-08-27 Xiang Kairan who wrote under the pen name the Unworthy Scholar from Pingjiang is remembered as the father of modern Chinese martial arts fiction, one of the most distinctive forms of twentieth century Chinese culture and the inspiration for China's globally popular martial arts cinema. In this book John Christopher Hamm shows how Xiang Kairan's work and career offer a new lens on the transformations of fiction and popular culture in early twentieth century China. The Unworthy Scholar from Pingjiang situates Xiang Kairan's career in the larger contexts of Republican era China's publishing industry, literary debates and political and social history. At a time when writers associated with the New Culture movement promoted an aggressively modernizing vision of literature, Xiang Kairan consciously cultivated his debt to homegrown narrative traditions. Through careful readings of Xiang Kairan's work Hamm demonstrates that his writings far from being the formally fossilized and ideologically regressive relics their critics denounced represent a creative engagement with contemporary social and political currents.

and the demands and possibilities of an emerging cultural marketplace Hamm takes martial arts fiction beyond the confines of genre studies to situate it within a broader reexamination of Chinese literary modernity The first monograph on Xiang Kairan's fiction in any language The Unworthy Scholar from Pingjiang rewrites the history of early twentieth century Chinese literature from the standpoints of genre fiction and commercial publishing The Designed Self Carlo

Strenger,2013-05-13 What can contemporary psychoanalysis bring to the understanding of Generation X a cohort for whom the trivialization of a dizzying array of possible experiences teamed with the pressure to lead spectacular lives often leads to diffuse feelings of confusion depression and disorientation The Designed Self chronicles Strenger's therapeutic encounters with five extraordinarily gifted young adults for whom the ideal of authenticity long associated with the Baby Boom generation was supplanted by the need to experiment endlessly with the self Perpetual self experimentation constantly reinforced by the media came to encompass everything from career choice to hair color to body shape to gender identity In compelling clinical stories Strenger introduces us to patients for whom the project of shaping the self had become a cultural imperative no less than an expression of individuality At once insightful and cautionary The Designed Self investigates how psychoanalysis must change if it is to claim cultural relevance and therapeutic effectiveness in The Age of the Designed Self

Korsmeyer,1993-09-22 A first rate introduction to the field accessible to scholars working from a variety of disciplinary and theoretical perspectives Highly recommended Choice offers both broad theoretical considerations and applications to specific art forms diverse methodological perspectives and healthy debate among the contributors an outstanding volume Philosophy and Literature this volume represents an eloquent and enlightened attempt to reconceptualize the field of aesthetic theory by encouraging its tendencies toward openness self reflexivity and plurality Discourse Society All of the authors challenge the traditional notion of a pure and disinterested observer that does not allow for questions of race ethnicity class sexual preference or gender Signs These essays examine the intellectual traditions of the philosophy of art and aesthetics Containing essays by scholars and by the writer Marilyn French the collection ranges from the history of aesthetic theory to a philosophical reflection on fashion The contributions are unified by a sustained scrutiny of the nature of feminist feminine or female art creativity and interpretation What wants to be is in the process of becoming Michael Worsch,2023-08-25 What wants to be is in the process of becoming this basic assumption reminds us that self development cannot be forced It should also inspire people to take the path into the open to trust their longing for the whole and to look at the dark sides of the soul in the light of the sun This self experience is a journey to the heart and from there into the open Only when man follows the longing he can unfold as it corresponds to his own destiny In essay form Michael Worsch illuminates the round horizon of his practical experiences as a psychotherapist and theater director with a view to symbolization processes God, the Gift, and Postmodernism John D. Caputo,Michael

J. Scanlon,1999-12-22 Pushing past the constraints of postmodernism which cast reason and religion in opposition God the

Gift and Postmodernism seizes the opportunity to question the authority of the modern and open the limits of possible experience including the call to religious experience as a new millennium approaches Jacques Derrida the father of deconstruction engages with Jean Luc Marion and other religious philosophers to entertain questions about intention givenness and possibility which reveal the extent to which deconstruction is structured like religion New interpretations of Kant Heidegger Husserl and Derrida emerge from essays and discussions with distinguished philosophers and theologians from the United States and Europe The result is that God the Gift and Postmodernism elaborates a radical phenomenology that stretches the limits of its possibility and explores areas where philosophy and religion have become increasingly and surprisingly convergent Contributors include John D Caputo John Dominic Crossan Jacques Derrida Robert Dodaro Richard Kearney Jean Luc Marion Frangoise Meltzer Michael J Scanlon Mark C Taylor David Tracy Merold Westphal and Edith Wyschogrod

Desire, the Self, the Social Critic J. F. Buckley,1997 In Desire the Self the Social Critic Professor Buckley shows that while few transcendentalists ever agree for long on philosophical or epistemological matters four of them develop the use of antisocial desire into a transcendental critique of nineteenth century American culture Margaret Fuller Walt Whitman Herman Melville and Emily Dickinson represent the individual s inherent divinity and the individual s inherent ability to transcend the exigencies of the sensate world in terms that might appear to be homosexual bisexual or pansexual They alone among their contemporaries give expression to desire for the social other give expression to desire for the self not to be seen in the heterosexist homophobic misogynist social realm of everyday life

stage consists in repeating vocally without any inner conviction There is no God save All h This is hypocrisy and does not profit on the day of resurrection The second stage consists in repeating the said logion vocally with an inner conviction based upon conventional imitation as in the case of ordinary people or some form of reasoning as in the case of an intellectual theist This is verily the visible body of monotheism frees one from gross polytheism and from hell and leads to heaven This second stage though safer than the first and less unstable is for all that a low one fit for old women The third stage consists in Light shining in the heart which reveals the One Agent alone as the root of all phenomena and the non agency of all else This is quite unlike the conviction of ordinary people or that of an intellectual theist Such a conviction is a fetter to the soul whereas the vision of the Light breaks all fetters There must be a difference between one who believes a certain gentleman to be in his house on the testimony of others as in the case of ordinary people another who infers the residence of that gentleman in the house because he sees his horses and servants at the gate as in the case of the intellectual theist and another who actually sees the gentleman in the house as in the case of the third stage In the third stage one sees the creatures and the Creator and distinguishes them from Him This much of separation still persists hence it is not perfect union in the eyes of the Masters

Distillations Mari Ruti,2018-08-23 Distilling into concise and focused formulations many of the main ideas that Mari Ruti has sought to articulate throughout her writing career this book reflects on the general state of contemporary theory as it relates to posthumanist ethics political resistance subjectivity agency desire and bad feelings such as anxiety It offers a critique of progressive theory's tendency to advance extreme models of revolt that have little real life applicability The chapters move fluidly between several theoretical registers the most obvious of these being continental philosophy psychoanalytic theory Butlerian ethics affect theory and queer theory One of the central aims of Distillations is to explore the largely uncharted territory between psychoanalysis and affect theory which are frequently pitted against each other as hopelessly incompatible but which Ruti shows can be brought into a productive dialogue
