Western music contains imperial attitudes and values embedded within its conventions standards and rules The book focuses on the culture of classical music as reflected in the worlds of characters and texts and contends that its effects outlast the historical significance of the real composers pieces styles and forms Through examples by authors such as McEwan Vikram Seth Bernard MacLaverly Chang rae Lee and J M Coetzee the book demonstrates how Western music enters narrative as both acts of history and as structures of analogy that suggest subject positions human relations and political activity that in turn describes a postcolonial condition The uses to which Western music is put in each literary text reveals how European art music of the seventeenth through the nineteenth centuries is read and misread by postcolonial generations exposing mostly hidden cultural structures that influence our contemporary understandings of social relations and hierarchies norms for resolution and for assigning significance and standards of propriety The book presents strategies for thinking anew about the persistence of cultural imperialism reading Western music simultaneously as representative of imperial cultural dominance and as suggestive of resistant structures forms and practices that challenge the imperial hegemony ThirdWay ,1999-07 Monthly current affairs magazine from a Christian perspective with a focus on politics society economics and culture

the full compass of Seth's work is his disregard for intellectual fashion. Indeed, Seth is at once very popular and deliberately unfashionable. His literary affiliations are conservative; seemingly uninterested in any revisionary narrative, he is equally unconcerned by the interpenetration of cultures in our globalized world, representing assimilation rather than cultural difference. He defies the expectations of both postcolonial and world literature, therefore, to discuss his critical neglect is to shed light on the limitations of these labels. As the most thorough attempt to map a general poetics in Seth's work, this study, the first of its kind on this writer, develops a new critical methodology to capture the nuances of Seth's literary strategies. It provides scholars and students insight into the key features of Seth's work and uncovers a consistent authorial strategy running through his seemingly disconnected body of work, namely a systematic use of intertextual practices. Reflections on Indian English Fiction Ed. M.R. Verma & A.K. Sharma, 2004. The book presents a collection of papers that are wide-ranging, not only in the choice of authors—two of the Big Trio, R.K. Narayan and Raja Rao, on the one hand, and the recent ones like Upamanyu Chatterjee and Manju Kapur, on the other—but also in the different angles from which these novelists have been discussed. It includes a much-talked-about author like Arundhati Roy as well as a remarkable but less-discussed writer like Ruskin Bond. It consists of feminist study as well as semiotic study and postmodern reading.

Adorno and the Architects of Late Style in India Tania Roy, 2021-03-11. In the postcolonial world, the claim to an emancipated national culture was bound to its aesthetic correlate: the unfolding time and experiments of the twentieth-century novel. Today, the constructs of both novel and a progressivist national project function in all their closures within global scales of economic disparity and violent exclusion. What is the fate of a literary canon when it is no longer capable of delineating a future or otherwise is bound to reproduce the failures of the past within its own inscriptions? How do we experience our current globalist moment when lived inequities of gender, labour, and ethnicity emerge in a text's inability to speak on time? When does artistic or literary failure become the measure of a work's accomplishment? And what sort of liberation is envisioned by works that refuse the imperatives of progress and independence, which embrace the appearance of obsolescence by rejecting values of artistic freedom, originality, and innovation? These are some of the provocations that arise from T.W. Adorno's idea of late style for our own conjuncture, a properly postcolonial context in which every conceptual or expressive engagement is articulated through an awareness of eroded national promise. Examining works by Rabindranath Tagore, Mulk Raj Anand, Vikram Seth, and the photography of Dayanita Singh, Tania Roy examines the delayed claims of literary and artistic modernity in India through Adorno's category of late style. In striking readings of Adorno and his interlocutors, the book extends a poetics of lateness toward a speculative history of the twentieth-century novel in India. Comprised of critically neglected selections from the oeuvres of canonical writers, Adorno and the Architects of Late Style in India proposes that under conditions of advanced capitalism, logics of redundancy overtake the novel's foundational reference point in the nation to produce altered frames of thought and sensibility, and therein a reader who might encounter anew the
