Resources in Education ,2001-10 Debates and Issues in Feminist Research and Pedagogy Janet Holland,Maud Blair,Sue Sheldon,1995 The articles in this book engage with practical issues relating to teaching and research The way in which gender and education is theorized is currently in a period of profound change and this presents a major challenge to feminist teachers who want to translate explanations for gender relations into transformative action in the classroom Several of the authors in this collection consider the possibilities and practicalities of transformative feminist pedagogies identifying the pedagogic moments into which challenge and change can be introduced without distorting or denying the students experience Another section contains articles which present the results of classroom research dealing with issues of class gender race and sexuality We can see from the results of these recent studies that class race and gender continue to position students differently throughout the whole school and the entire curriculum Research on teacher education reported here indicates that gender differences are produced and reproduced in that context A final section of the book deals with the ongoing and lively debate on feminist methodology and epistemology indicating the variety of approaches and positions that are being taken up in this area

The Crisis of the Meritocracy Peter Mandler,2020-09-11

Before the Second World War only about 20% of the population went to secondary school and barely 2% to university today everyone goes to secondary school and half of all young people go to university How did we get here from there The Crisis of the Meritocracy answers this question not by looking to politicians and educational reforms but to the revolution in attitudes and expectations amongst the post war British public the rights guaranteed by the welfare state the hope of a better life for one's children widespread upward mobility from manual to non manual occupations confidence in the importance of education in a learning society and a knowledge economy As a result of these transformations meritocracy the idea that a few should be selected to succeed has been challenged by democracy and its wider understandings of equal opportunity across the life course At a time when doubts have arisen about whether we need so many students and amidst calls for a return to grammar school selection at 11 the tension between meritocracy and democracy remains vital to understanding why our grandparents our parents ourselves and our children have sought and got more and more education and to what end

Rosalind Horowitz, S. Jay Samuels, 2017-04-07 In this volume prominent scholars experts in their respective fields and highly skilled in the research they conduct address educational and reading research from varied perspectives and address what it will take to close the achievement gap with specific attention to reading The achievement gap is redefined as a level at which all groups can compete economically in our society and have the literacy tools and habits needed for a good life Bringing valuable theoretical frameworks and in depth analytical approaches to interpretation of data the contributors examine factors that contribute to student achievement inside the school but which are also heavily influenced by out of school factors such as poverty and economics ethnicity and culture family and community stratifications and approaches to measurement of achievement These out of school factors present possibilities for new policies and practice The overarching theme is that achievement gaps in reading are complex and that multiple perspectives are necessary to address the problem The breadth and depth of perspectives and content in this volume and its conceptualization of the achievement gap are a significant contribution to the field Political Science Reading Lists and Course Outlines, 1981 Reading, Writing, and Justice

James W. Fraser, 1997-07-24 Fraser argues that advocates of the public schools must recapture and redefine democracy so that it becomes both the purpose of public education and the model on which schools are structured Defending an inclusive understanding of democracy in which every citizen's contribution is essential to the health of the whole Fraser responds to mean spirited attacks on multicultural education on school funding and on progressive education itself Finally he explores the democratic and antidemocratic potential in increased use of computers in schools and in the reform of teacher education This is a book for teachers parents and other concerned citizens who care about public education who want schools to be democratic in the best sense and who seek ammunition for defending schools and for placing school issues in the larger context of the long struggle for a more just and humane society Identity, Social Class and Learning in the 'Bottom'

Reading Group Jess Anderson, 2025-02-28 The common practice of ability grouped reading in UK schools often termed guided reading influences children's sense of identity feelings and progress as readers Drawing on a rich ethnographic study of three primary classrooms this book reopens a critical inquiry into ability grouped reading that has been quiet since the 1990s when guided reading in literacy education became established practice in the UK and the US Through the lens of children's agency in accommodating resisting and at times transforming such reading pedagogy the book shows how readers are shaped by ability grouped reading and by the more egalitarian reading pedagogies introduced in the study Children's individual and collective experiences are brought to life through extended narratives that attend as closely to gesture posture visage silences and prosody of speech as to spoken words The book ends with a provocation how literacy pedagogy might change if reflexive noticing and dismantling of hierarchies become the compass of pedagogical change This demands attention to structural inequalities around race gender and class and a turn towards deep listening to children As well as being a valuable read for scholars of the sociology of childhood and education it should appeal to anyone concerned with making education more equitable including teachers school leaders parents carers and policymakers

Sociological Foundations of Education Claire Maxwell, Miri Yemini, Laura Engel, 2023-03-23 This volume introduces sociology as a foundational discipline of education Education is a central structuring mechanism in shaping societies making it a core focus for sociology Sociologists study education in its broadest sense as occurring within families communities and provided by institutions The purposes of formal education are contested and these contestations shape broader power relations locally nationally and globally Sociologists disaggregate processes within education to examine empirically and theoretically the various levels at which they operate This allows them to describe and make sense of the ways that relations of inequality are developed reproduced or unsettled and how these shape individual and group experiences and outcomes About the Educational Foundations series Education as an academic field taught at universities around the world emerged from a range of older foundational disciplines The Educational Foundations series comprises six volumes each covering one of the foundational disciplines of philosophy history sociology policy studies economics and law This is the first reference work to provide an authoritative and up to date account of all six disciplines showing how each field's ideas, methods, theories and approaches can contribute to research and practice in education today. The six volumes cover the same set of key topics within education which also form the chapter titles: Mapping the Field, Purposes of Education, Curriculum, Schools and Education Systems, Learning and Human Development, Teaching and Teacher Education, Assessment and Evaluation. This structure allows readers to study the volumes in isolation by discipline or laterally by topic and facilitates a comparative thematic reading of chapters across the volumes. Mapping the Field Jane Martin, Marion Bowl, Gemma Banks, 2023-10-04. From its origins in the University of Birmingham's then Institute of Education in 1948, Educational Review has emerged as a leading international journal for generic educational research. Seventy-five years on, Mapping the Field presents a detailed account of education theory and research policy and practice through the lens of key articles published in the journal over this timespan. Volume II opens with Part I, a collection of articles examining teachers' job dissatisfaction and stress and the gendered composition of the teaching workforce. Articles in Part II trace a shift in academic focus from schools seen as families, communities to the parent-school relationship. The concepts of inclusion and equality and strategies for their fulfilment in education are interrogated in Part III. The volume concludes with Part IV in which diverse identities in the education field are represented. Curated and introduced by the editors, the articles included in both volumes of Mapping the Field represent a careful selection from the work of scholars whose ideas have been and continue to be influential in the field of education.
