AWAY ALAN E PARKINSON,2011-04-19 Get In Get Out and Get Away This may sound strange but not for your uncles brothers fathers or grandads They knew from an early age that one day they would be called up to do their two years National Service I am sure the countless millions of ex National Servicemen will have many things in common in these memoirs hopefully they are happy ones I was born in a small terraced house on Walney Island Barrow in Furness England in 1938 In that era the toilet was outside and the bath which was made of tin was kept in the backyard and brought into the house when needed Whilst growing up the cloud above one s head of having to do National Service got closer and closer I knew older lads who were getting called up on a regular basis I was twenty one years old and had just finished my apprenticeship in 1960 when it was my turn This was the last year of National Servicemen being called up for the services I served my two years National Service in the King s Own Royal Border Regiment reporting to Fulwood Barracks Preston For ten weeks the drill instructors shaped the platoon from a rag tag outfit to smart soldiers From Fulwood the platoon was sent to Barnard Castle County Durham and later to the British Cameroons West Africa for ten months The regiment was chosen to keep the peace and oversee a vote on the Cameroons future There was a terrorist organisation on the French border that was intent on disrupting the process and the memoirs include numerous encounters and an eventful raid on a terrorist camp This true story is mixed with amusing anecdotes of growing up in post War Britain through the swinging sixties I was given an eye opener in life then and I am sure when you read my detailed account you will agree and also see the parallels to the modern day operations undertaken by the American British and United Nations military It is all history now but it has been a privilege on behalf of my fellow countrymen to put it all down on paper We all had one thing in common that was to Get In Get Out and Get Away
