Quinn,1996 The aim of Recharting the Thirties is to revitalize the awareness of the reading public with regard to eighteen writers whose books have been largely ignored by publishers and scholars since their major works first appeared in the thirties The selection is not based on a political agenda but encompasses a wide and divergent range of philosophies clearly the contrasts between Empson and Upward or between Powell and Slater indicated the wide ranging vision of the period Women writers of the period have largely been marginalized and the writings of Sackville West and Burdekin for example not only present distinct feminine voices of the period but also illuminate how much good literature has been forgotten David Jones, Mythmaker Elizabeth Ward,1983 Locations of Literary Modernism Alex Davis, Lee M. Horne, Thomas Fisher Rare Book Library, 1995 David Jones and the Craft of Theology Elizabeth R Powell, 2020-10-01

This is an imaginative exploration of the art of David Jones which addresses Christian teaching through engagement with selected artistic works a poem a painted inscription and a wood engraving Elizabeth R Powell's study does not just enable readers to understand Jones but also to use his kind of loving attention in their own lives which Jones would argue is theology's most important task Through close readings of material objects Powell draws the reader into the participatory performative and dialogical possibilities of the craft of theology She frames an older style of theology in a distinctive and modern way as a graced human practice and a place of transforming relation with the divine Powell argues that Jones's art works offer places of beauty in which to become beauty along the way Located at the cross section of theology literature and the arts this volume shows that being interdisciplinary is nothing less than finding ways for theology and humanity to be more richly itself

The Image of Christ in Modern Art Richard Harries, 2016-03-03 The Image of Christ in Modern Art explores the challenges presented by the radical and rapid changes of artistic style in the 20th century to artists who wished to relate to traditional Christian imagery In the 1930s David Jones said that he and his contemporaries were acutely conscious of the break by which he meant the fragmentation and loss of a once widely shared Christian narrative and set of images In this highly illustrated book Richard Harries looks at some of the artists associated with the birth of modernism such as Epstein and Rouault as well as those with a highly distinctive understanding of religion such as Chagall and Stanley Spencer He discusses the revival of confidence associated with the rebuilding of Coventry Cathedral after World War II and the commissioning of work by artists like Henry Moore Graham Sutherland and John Piper before looking at the very testing last quarter of the 20th century He shows how here and even more in our own time fresh and important visual interpretations of Christ have been created both by well known and less well known artists In conclusion he suggests that the modern movement in art has turned out to be a friend not a foe of Christian art Through a wide and beautiful range of images and insightful text Harries explores the continuing challenge present from the beginning of Christian art as to how that which is visual can in some way indicate the transcendent
