

An abstract sculpture made of polished, reflective metal, possibly brass or copper. The sculpture features a large, angular, rectangular block on the right side, which tapers towards the left. To the left of this block is a more complex, curved structure with several circular and oval cutouts, resembling a stylized, modern architectural element or a piece of industrial machinery. The surface of the metal is highly reflective, showing highlights and shadows that emphasize its three-dimensional form. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.
