Gonçalves,2025-08-01 This book explores how tourism can drive positive change in our world It explores at the important connections between sustainability tourism and cultural preservation showing how these elements interact and influence each other By examining the effects of tourism on local communities and environments it emphasizes that responsible tourism can truly be a force for good This book features case studies from countries like Saudi Arabia Portugal and China These examples illustrations show innovative approaches to support local communities while preserving their cultural heritage Each case study offers a look at how tourism can help enhance social and economic development while also keeping a balance between cultural and environmental needs This book is for everyone policymakers scholars and industry professionals alike It brings together ideas from various fields and provides practical strategies for responsible tourism By inviting readers to rethink tourism s role in our increasingly globalized world it highlights its potential to encourage environmental stewardship and strengthen local identities ensuring that travel enriches our lives and helps preserve the cultural and natural treasures we hold dear The Glaciation of High Asia Matthias Kuhle,2018-06-27 This book summarizes four decades of glacial geomorphological field research in Central and High Asia in an attempt to draw a significant link between Quaternary science research and paleoclimatology Based on the latest geomorphological findings this study offers a large scale reconstruction of the Last Glacial Maximum LGM that in High Asia encompassed a total expanse of no less than three million km² including the Central Tibetan plateau with 2 4 million km² The author offers a complete reconstruction of the Late Glacial Holocene and Historical glacier advances as well as the successive Postglacial ablation stages extending to the present Taken together the findings presented here provide the first insights into a global climatic impact of the Last Glacial Maximum in Central and High Asia with respect to the current interglacial stage The comparative data analyses point to an inland glaciation at subtropical latitude covering an area larger than the Nordic inland glaciation in Greenland These insights are facilitated by a methodological approach unprecedented in modern Quaternary research that combines high quality panoramic photography with high resolution satellite imagery This combination of terrestrial and aerial perspectives enables scientists and readers alike to visualize the geomorphology of the landscape as a three dimensional space The author s successful union of digital big data resources with classical geomorphological analysis offers an exciting new template for future research in Quaternary science and related fields Managing Resources in Erratic Environments Nancy A. McCarthy, Celine Dutilly-Diane, 2004-01-01 This study analyzes the links between risk and the kinds of property rights that have evolved to provide the mobility necessary to raise livestock in drought prone countries in this case Burkina Faso Ethiopia and Niger The study also evaluates the impact of cooperation on resource management in these environments The express purpose of this research is to contribute to the current debate on resource management in highly variable environments focusing on the impact of climate variability on and the role of cooperation in resource management More specifically a conceptual framework is developed to analyze the impact of climatic variability and cooperative capacity on land allocation patterns stock densities and patterns of herd mobility Overall the empirical results suggest that effective policies for sustainable land management and crisis response plans may require the design and implementation of mechanisms to increase cooperative capacity

Fundamentals of Geomorphology Richard Huggett, Emma Shuttleworth, 2022-12-22 This revised and updated edition continues to provide a comprehensive introduction to the subject exploring the world's landforms from a broad systems perspective It covers the basics of Earth surface forms and processes while reflecting on the latest developments in the field Fundamentals of Geomorphology begins with a consideration of the nature of geomorphology including its relation to society process and form history and geomorphic systems and moves on to discuss Structure structural landforms associated with plate tectonics and those associated with volcanoes and folds faults and joints Process and form landforms resulting from or influenced by the exogenic agencies of weathering running water flowing ice and meltwater ground ice and frost the wind and the sea landforms developed on limestone extraterrestrial landforms and landscape evolution a discussion of ancient landforms Fundamentals of Geomorphology provides a stimulating and innovative perspective on the key topics and debates within the field of geomorphology Written in an accessible and lively manner it includes guides to further reading chapter summaries and an extensive glossary of key terms The book is also illustrated throughout with over 200 informative diagrams and attractive photographs all in colour It is supported by online resources for students and instructors
