Sustainable Resource Use Alex Smajgl, Silva Larson, 2012 The way that humans organize both resource access and resource use is vital to the management of natural resources Within different contexts institutional arrangements such as the rules of common and private property rights become levers by which human behaviours can be modified and steered towards the goals of sustainable natural resource management Featuring contributions from leading thinkers in the field this groundbreaking volume examines institutional dynamics from the perspective of natural resource management The book is organized into four parts The first discusses institutional diversity and contextual change Following this institutional misfit is analysed with a strong focus on the long term impacts of colonial structures in the Asia Pacific region The book then discusses experiences with institutional dynamics in order to ease the tension of such misfits before examining future research needs Ultimately through careful argument and by deploying original research the authors make the case that institutional arrangements cannot be perceived as a set of parameters that can be optimized and locked in for the most efficient functioning of a system nor can institutions be evaluated outside the context in which they were developed This is powerful thought provoking and important reading for academics researchers policy makers and professionals in resource institutional and environmental economics and land use planning and policy across the full range of natural resource sectors from forestry to agriculture Published with CSIRO Cover image Blue Flower of Life c Theresa J Richardson 2006

Decoupling Natural Resource Use and Environmental Impacts from Economic Growth United Nations Environment Programme. International Resource Panel, 2011 By 2050 humanity could devour an estimated 140 billion tons of minerals ores fossil fuels and biomass per year three times its current appetite unless the economic growth rate is decoupled from the rate of natural resource consumption Developed countries citizens consume an average of 16 tons of those four key resources per capita ranging up to 40 or more tons per person in some developed countries By comparison the average person in India today consumes four tons per year With the growth of both population and prosperity especially in developing countries the prospect of much higher resource consumption levels is far beyond what is likely sustainable if realised at all given finite world resources warns this report by UNEP's International Resource Panel Already the world is running out of cheap and high quality sources of some essential materials such as oil copper and gold the supplies of which in turn require ever rising volumes of fossil fuels and freshwater to produce Improving the rate of resource productivity doing more with less faster than the economic growth rate is the notion behind decoupling the panel says That goal however demands an urgent rethink of the links between resource use and economic prosperity buttressed by a massive investment in technological financial and social innovation to at least freeze per capita consumption in wealthy countries and help developing nations follow a more sustainable path
