Ecosystems And Human Wellbeing Multiscale Assessments Findings Of The Subglobal Assessments Working Group:

Ecosystems and Human Well-Being Millennium Ecosystem Assessment (Program). Sub-global Assessments Working Group, 2005-12-14 One of the major innovations of the Millennium Ecosystem Assessment is the incorporation of local and regional assessments 33 in all in a global portrait of the planet's health It is the first global assessment of ecosystems to include not only a diversity of ecosystems but to draw on a wide range of cultural orientations and intellectual traditions including those of indigenous peoples The Sub global Assessments Working Group integrated information from multiple sources and found that biophysical factors such as land use change climate change and variability pollution and invasive species have a significant effect on human well being across cultures For example in places where there are no other social safety nets diminished human well being tends to increase immediate dependence on ecosystem services which can damage the capacity of those local ecosystems which in turn appears to increase the probability of natural disaster or conflict Representing the baseline and framework for ongoing assessments of ecosystem and human well being on a variety of scales around the world Multiscale Assessments provides students researchers and policy makers with the most comprehensive methodology for assessing ecosystems at local national and regional scales Ecosystems and Human Well-being Carlos Corvalán, Simon Hales, Anthony J. McMichael, Millennium Ecosystem Assessment (Program), World Health Organization, 2005 Approximately 60% of the benefits that the global ecosystem provides to support life on Earth such as fresh water clean air and a relatively stable climate are being degraded or used unsustainably In the report scientists warn that harmful consequences of this degradation to human health are already being felt and could grow significantly worse over the next 50 years Ecosystems and Human Well-Being Neville Ash, 2010-04-05 The Millennium Ecosystem Assessment MA is the most extensive study ever of the linkages between the world's ecosystems and human well being It is one of the most important conservation initiatives ever undertaken and the ecosystem services paradigm on which it is based provides the standard for practice This manual supplies the specific tools that practitioners of the paradigm need in order to extend their work into the future The manual is a stand alone how to guide to conducting assessments of the impacts on humans of ecosystem changes It builds on the experiences and lessons learned from the MA global and sub global assessment initiatives with chapters written by well known participants in those initiatives It also includes insights gained from service focused assessment activities since the completion of the MA in 2005 Bridging Scales and Knowledge Systems Walter World Resources Institute, Walter Millennium Ecosystem Assessment, 2013-04-09 Bridging the gap between local knowledge and western science is essential to understanding the world's ecosystems and the ways in which humans interact with and shape those ecosystems This book brings together a group of world class scientists in an unprecedented effort to build a formal framework for linking local and indigenous knowledge with the global scientific enterprise Contributors explore the challenges costs and benefits of bridging scales and knowledge systems in assessment processes and in resource management Case studies look at a variety of efforts to bridge scales providing important lessons concerning what has worked what has not and the costs and benefits associated with those efforts Drawing on the groundbreaking work of the Millennium Ecosystem Assessment Bridging Scales and Knowledge Systems will be indispensable for future efforts to conduct ecosystem assessments around the world

Ecosystems and Human Well-being, 2005 Of the MA conceptual framework Overview of the MA sub global assessments Linking ecosystem services and human well being in the sub global assessments The multiscale approach Using multiple knowledge systems in sub global assessments benefits and challenges Assessment process Drivers of ecosystem change Condition and trends of ecosystem services and biodiversity Responses to ecosystem changes and their impacts on human well being lessons from sub global assessments Sub global scenarios Communities ecosystems and livelihoods Reflections and lessons learned

Environmental Governance Gabriela Kütting, Ronnie Lipschutz, 2012-08-21 This edited collection makes a highly significant critical contribution to the field of environmental politics It argues that the international level institutional approach to global environmental politics has run its course employed solely by powerful actors in order to orchestrate and manipulate local communities within a continuing hegemonic system The outstanding international line up of contributors to this volume explore the real advances that are being made in the areas where the local and global intersect and how power fits into the equation They explore the relationship between governance power and knowledge using power as the main analytical tool The contributors adopt a variety of approaches and perspectives some starting from the local level and shifting upward to the global and some using a global perspective that narrows down to the local Some chapters explore specific case studies and others employ a more conceptual framework but all of them bring a new dimension to the relationship between power and knowledge in environmental governance Power here is explored in all its guises from relational to structural power An important and timely exploration of a topic at the forefront of global debate Environmental Governance is essential reading for all students of global environmental politics international political economy and international relations
