Compositional Data Analysis Vera Pawlowsky-Glahn, Antonella Buccianti, 2011-08-24 It is difficult to imagine that the statistical analysis of compositional data has been a major issue of concern for more than 100 years It is even more difficult to realize that so many statisticians and users of statistics are unaware of the particular problems affecting compositional data as well as their solutions The issue of spurious correlation as the situation was phrased by Karl Pearson back in 1897 affects all data that measures parts of some whole such as percentages proportions ppm and ppb Such measurements are present in all fields of science ranging from geology biology environmental sciences forensic sciences medicine and hydrology This book presents the history and development of compositional data analysis along with Aitchison's log ratio approach Compositional Data Analysis describes the state of the art both in theoretical fields as well as applications in the different fields of science Key Features Reflects the state of the art in compositional data analysis Gives an overview of the historical development of compositional data analysis as well as basic concepts and procedures Looks at advances in algebra and calculus on the simplex Presents applications in different fields of science including genomics ecology biology geochemistry planetology chemistry and economics Explores connections to correspondence analysis and the Dirichlet distribution Presents a summary of three available software packages for compositional data analysis Supported by an accompanying website featuring R code Applied scientists working on compositional data analysis in any field of science both in academia and professionals will benefit from this book along with graduate students in any field of science working with compositional data Subject Guide to Books in Print, 1997

Forests in a Market Economy Erin O. Sills, Karen Lee Abt, 2013-04-17 This book draws together contributions from forest economists in the Research Triangle of North Carolina with co authors from institutions around the world It represents our common belief that rigorous empirical analysis in an economic framework can inform forest policy We intend the book as a guide to the empirical methods that we have found most useful for addressing both traditional and modern areas of concern in forest policy including timber production and markets multiple use forestry and valuation of non market benefits The book editors and most chapter authors are affiliated with three institutions in the Research Triangle the Southern Research Station of the USDA Forest Service K Abt Butry Holmes Mercer Moulton Prestemon Wear the Department of Forestry at North Carolina State University R Abt Ahn Cabbage Sills and the Environmental and Natural Resource Economics Program of Research Triangle Institute Murray Pattanayak Two other Triangle institutions are also represented among the book authors Duke University Kramer and the Forestland Group Zinkhan In addition to our primary affiliations many of us are adjunct faculty and or graduates of Triangle universities Many of our co authors also graduated from or were previously affiliated with Triangle institutions Thus the selection of topics methods and case studies reflects the work of this particular network of economists and to some degree our location in the southeastern United States However our work and the chapters encompass other regions of the United States and the world including Latin America and Asia Deep Data Analytics for New Product Development Walter R. Paczkowski, 2020-02-19 This book presents and develops the deep data analytics for providing the information needed for successful new product development Deep Data Analytics for New Product Development has a simple theme information about what customers need and want must be extracted from data to effectively guide new product decisions regarding concept development design pricing and marketing The benefits of reading this book are twofold The first is an understanding of the stages of a new product development process from ideation through launching and tracking each supported by information about customers The second benefit is an understanding of the deep data analytics for extracting that information from data These analytics drawn from the statistics econometrics market research and machine learning spaces are developed in detail and illustrated at each stage of the process with simulated data The stages of new product development and the supporting deep data analytics at each stage are not presented in isolation of each other but are presented as a synergistic whole This book is recommended reading for analysts involved in new product development Readers with an analytical bent or who want to develop analytical expertise would also greatly benefit from reading this book as well as students in business programs
