surrounds Wharton's text Women Adapting Bethany Wood, 2019-05-15 When most of us hear the title Gentlemen Prefer Blondes we think of Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell's iconic film performance Few however are aware that the movie was based on Anita Loos's 1925 comic novel by the same name What does it mean Women Adapting asks to translate a Jazz Age blockbuster from book to film or stage What adjustments are necessary and what if anything is lost Bethany Wood examines three well-known stories that debuted as women's magazine serials Gentlemen Prefer Blondes Edith Wharton's The Age of Innocence and Edna Ferber's Show Boat and traces how each of these beloved narratives traveled across publishing theatre and film through adaptation She documents the formation of adaptation systems and how they involved women's voices and labor in modern entertainment in ways that have been previously underappreciated What emerges is a picture of a unique window of time in the early decades of the twentieth century when women in entertainment held influential positions in production and management These days when filmic adaptations seem endless and perhaps even unoriginal Women Adapting challenges us to rethink the popular platitude The book is always better than the movie

the end of the 19th century Jean Griffith presents the innovative view that regional writing provided Edith Wharton Ellen Glasgow and Willa Cather with the means to explore social transformation in a form of fiction already closely associated with women readers and writers Griffith provides new readings of texts by these authors she places them alongside the works of their contemporaries including William Faulkner and Langston Hughes to show regionalism's responses to the debate over who was capable of democratic participation and reading regionalism's changing mediations between natives and strangers as reflections of the changing face of democracy This insightful work enriches the current debate about whether regionalism critiques hierarchies or participates in nationalist and racist agendas and will be of great interest to those invested in regional writing or the works of these significant authors

Freedom and Orthodoxy Anouar Majid, 2004 This book argues that the clash of civilizations that is supposed to be a feature of the post Cold War environment is not necessarily caused by the dogma of world religions or cultural incompatibilities but by the inflexible and hegemonic universalisms that have characterized world history since 1492 a cultural outlook that Majid terms post Andalusianism The all encompassing worldviews of Euro American ideologies have resulted in the retreat of Islam and other non European traditions into dangerous orthodoxies and a growing climate of suspicion fear and terror Freedom and Orthodoxy offers an alternative to perennial discord suggesting that the world needs a philosophy of the provincial one that reattaches individuals and societies to their heritages and memories but connects them to the rest of the world in solid non alienating meaningful ways For this to happen Majid contends globalization must be reimagined as a network of human solidarities and rigorous conversations across the world's multiple cultures not as a

Anglo-American Contexts Éva Antal, Csaba Czeglédi, Eszter Krakkó, 2019-09-23 This collection of essays highlights the great variety one finds in contemporary scholarly discourse in the fields of English and American studies and English linguistics in a broad and inclusive way It is divided into thematically structured sections the first two of which examine the motif of travelling and images of recollection in literary works while the third and the fourth parts deal with male and female voices in narratives Another chapter discusses visual and textual representations of history The last two subsections focus on the rhetorical and theoretical questions of language The pluralism of themes indicated in the book's title can thus be regarded not as a limitation but rather as evidence of its potential American Literature in Transition, 1876-1910: Volume

4 Lindsay V. Reckson, 2022-08-18 Addressing US literature from 1876 to 1910 this volume aims to account for the period's immense transformations while troubling the ideology of progress that underwrote much of its self understanding This volume queries the various forms and formations of post Reconstruction American literature It contends that the literature of this period most often referred to as turn of the century might be more productively oriented by the end of Reconstruction and the haunting aftermath of its emancipatory potential than by the logic of temporal and social advance that underwrote the end of the century and the beginning of the Progressive Era Acknowledging that nearly all US literature after 1876 might be described as post Reconstruction the volume invites readers to reframe this period by asking under what terms did post Reconstruction American literature challenge or re consolidate the nation as an affective political and discursive phenomenon And what kind of alternative pasts and futures did it write into existence Women and Work Christine
