Koff, 2017-09-08 Nonprofit organizations their governing structures boards of directors and their newest constituency members who represent the public at large are the subject of this book In recent years new mechanisms have been developed to link citizens with government and with diverse policy making entities Earlier it was assumed that citizens had little interest in policy deliberations and responsibility for public needs was best left to the experts Many citizens now believe that they have a legitimate right to influence how power is exercised in public organizations Koff constructs a demographic profile of public members their activities and their opinions about board membership She also catalogues the perspectives of executive directors about public members identify es specific problems related to public participation and suggests strategies to help resolve them How effectively these bodies perform and how well they respond to the public are in part determined by the talents and activities of their members All of these members especially public members need appropriate tools to be able to perform in a superior fashion Despite the importance of governing bodies to an organization's performance there has been little examination of board members in general and specifically of public members This is the first book length study on the subject

The State Higher Education Executive Officer and the Public Good David A. Tandberg, Brian A. Sponsler, Randall W. Hanna, Jason P. Guilbeau, 2018. While issues of higher education access, opportunity, and impact are hotly debated on the floors of Congress and in state legislatures, it is the state's higher education executive officer, SHEEO, who is expected to be an innovative policymaker, an astute political actor, an all-seeing fortune teller, and a rapid problem solver. These professionals must achieve a balancing act between political agendas and academic freedom while ensuring that the institutions they represent are maximizing their contribution to the larger public good and preparing students to become contributing citizens. In this volume, scholars and practitioners come together to explore the position of the SHEEO. Chapters present historical investigations, original research, and reflections, and advice for current and aspiring SHEEOs, their agency staff, and boards, state policy leaders, and students of state policymaking and higher education. Each chapter ends with recommendations for the continuing study of and attention to the important role of the SHEEO.

Boards at Work : How Directors View their Roles and Responsibilities Philip Stiles, Bernard Taylor, 2001-03-29. Boards of directors are coming under increasing scrutiny in terms of their contribution in monitoring and controlling management, particularly in the wake of high-profile corporate frauds and failures, and also their potential to add value to organizational performance through involvement in the strategy process and through building relationships with key investors. Despite the importance of these issues, not only to organizations but also arguably to national competitiveness, the nature of board activity remains largely a black box, clouded by prescriptions, prejudices, and half-truths.

This book responds to calls for greater scrutiny of boards of directors with an in depth examination of directors of UK organizations drawing on the accounts of directors themselves as to their roles influence and the potential and limits to their power Much work on boards of directors has labelled the board as a rubber stamp for dominant management and non executive directors in particular have been variously described as poodles pet rocks or parsley on the fish Such accounts are rooted in assumptions of board activity that are essentially adversarial in nature and that the solution to the problem of reconciling the interests of managers with those of shareholders is to increase the checks and balances available to the board of directors The findings of this study show that boards in many cases are far more than passive rubber stamps for management and that non executives are encouraged to act as trusted advisers to the executives and the chief executive rather than solely monitors of executive activity Boards are important mechanisms in maintaining the strategic framework of the organization through setting the boundaries of organizational activity The potential of the board members in particular the non executives to fulfil such a mandate depends on a number of factors including ability willingness to engage with the organizational issues and the degree of knowledge they have relevant to the host firm Above all the degree of trust built between members of the board and between the board and key external constituencies is at the heart of effective board behaviour

Corporate Governance and Board Performance Morris O. Namoga, 2017-01-06 The board of directors is widely regarded as a vital governance mechanism that plays an important function in business How boards are structured the processes in which they are involved and the role they play vary across different types of firms and countries with significant implications on how boards perform In Pacific Island Countries PICs board appointments particularly on state owned enterprises are difficult to explain without the suspicion that constituency loyalty has been repaid or that other political debts have been discharged Too often ethnicity the wantok system as known in the Melanesian countries of the Pacific gender trade union affiliation and other forms of political correctness have become the basis for board appointments In this book the author takes the reader through how these factors influence the structural make up of boards the different processes in which boards participate and how these affect the ability of boards to perform their roles using empirical evidence from PICs The book is a must read for board chairpersons board secretaries directors senior managers and policy makers in PICs Academics and the general public in PICs and elsewhere who are interested in corporate governance issues should also find this book a valuable reference Nurses Making Policy Rebecca Patton, Margarete Zalon, Ruth Ludwick, 2014-11-13 Print within the context of entrepreneurship However without proper strategic consideration the discipline is incomplete This book examines how the activity of entrepreneurial finance can be enhanced via a concentration on value creation and through improved strategic decision making The most unique feature of the book is its focus on value creation For entrepreneurs value creation is not a one off activity but rather a continuous cycle of incremental improvements across a wide range of business activities Entrepreneurial value creation is described in four comprehensive stages value creation value measurement value enhancement and value realization referred to as the C MER model This book focuses on what creates value rather than merely presenting value creation in a straight accounting framework At the same time deliberate and tactical planning and implementation ensure that the firm does not ignore the components necessary for it to survive and flourish Vigorous strategic deliberations maximize the entrepreneurial firm s chances of making the right business decisions for the future enable the firm to manage its available financial and non financial resources in the most optimal manner ensure that the necessary capital is secured to progress the development of the firm to its desired development level and build value While financial considerations are important the field of strategic entrepreneurial finance represents a fusion of three disciplines strategic management financial management and entrepreneurship This orientation represents a natural evolution of scholarship to combine specific domains and paradigms of naturally connected business disciplines and reflects the need to simultaneously examine business topics from different perspectives which may better encapsulate actual entrepreneurial practices
