Globalization Of Corporate R And D Implications For Innovation Capability In Developing Host Countries:

The Globalization of Corporate R & D Prasada Reddy, 2000-08-24 In this study Prasada Reddy addresses several fundamental questions What are the driving forces behind this phenomenon Why are these new trends mainly visible among companies dealing with new science based technologies such as electronics or new materials And what are the implications of this trend for host countries The book presents important new research material in the form of detailed case studies of India and Singapore and offers an evolutionary theoretical basis for comprehending the processes at work As a result the book illuminates our understanding of both the behaviour of transnational corporations and the broader processes of globalization Globalization of Corporate R D will be of interest to those working in the fields of development studies economics or international business Jacket

The Oxford Handbook of International Business Strategy Kamel Mellahi, Klaus Meyer, Rajneesh Narula, Irina Surdu, Alain Verbeke, 2021-01-07 The growth of the multinational enterprise MNE has led to an increasing interest in international business strategy from scholars professionals and policy makers alike MNEs must contend with challenges in both their home and host international markets and increasingly uncertain conditions in the international business environment demand superior firm level capabilities for multinational firms to achieve and maintain competitive advantages in the long run This Handbook explores the progress made in international business strategy theory and practice in the last few decades Written by an international team of leading experts it captures the differences in motivations and decision making processes between smaller and larger firms private family and state owned firms and emerging or developed market multinationals It elaborates on the links between international strategy and the social responsibilities of the firm in its various host market contexts including the deployment of effective and ethical human resource practices in international markets Most importantly it lays out how the classic principles of international competitive strategy are transformed in today s markets in great part due to digitalization and provides suggestions on how MNEs can develop international business strategies to respond to these transformations The implications of these discussions for strategy and practice are becoming ever more profound This Handbook will prove a valuable resource for both international business scholars and practitioners

Globalization, Information Technology and Development J. James, 1999-02-24 Jeffrey James develops the insights of the often separate literatures on globalization and information technology and demonstrates their interdependence The central insight is that globalization is mainly a technological phenomenon driven by influences exerted on international trade and foreign investment by various forms of information technology Developing countries however are not sharing equally in the gains from globalization thus induced by the new technologies These gains tend to be concentrated among a narrow group of relatively advanced countries and moreover within some of those countries information technology appears to exacerbate existing income inequalities

Bridging the Global Digital Divide Jeffrey James, 2003-01-01 According to many observers the global digital divide the extent to which information technology is benefiting developed as opposed to developing countries has already established itself as the single most pervasive theme of the twenty first century The purpose of this book is to explore some of the ways in which this divide can be overcome both within and between nations Employing a rigorous analytical framework the author bases his analysis on the concept of international technological dualism He argues that one possible solution to the problem is the availability of affordable technologies such as low cost computers which are specifically designed for the income levels and socio economic conditions of developing countries He also emphasizes that the most important aim of any policy measure should be to provide universal access to information technologies rather than individual ownership Depending on whether or not this divide can be bridged will to a large degree determine whether developing countries are able to attain higher levels of productivity prosperity and global integration

From Followers to Leaders Naushad Forbes, David Wield, 2002-03-14 The last years have seen a profusion of books and articles on managing technology focused almost exclusively on leading edge firms in leading edge countries This book argues that succeeding as a follower firm requires learning from many experiences and avoiding simplistic how to approaches that prescribe one best practice Individual chapters c

Science, Technology and Innovation in BRICS Countries Swapan Kumar Patra, Mammo Muchie, 2020-06-09 The term BRICS Brazil Russia India China and South Africa is gaining global attention both in scholarly and popular discourse BRICS countries are crucial in terms of their vast areas huge population and have massive economic potential These countries are also categorized as developing countries and are aspiring to be considered as developed countries There is commonality among these countries in that they have similar issues and problems which may require common solutions Science Technology and Innovation in BRICS Countries examines whether more emphasis on Science Technology and Innovation STI capability building could be the solution to these countries economic upgradation and poverty reduction This book is a collection of various Science Technology and Innovation STI issues of BRICS economics and will be of interest to general readers scholars working in this field as well as policy makers all over the globe The contributions come from various scholars across the globe who have published their BRICS economics research in a special issue of the African Journal of Science Technology Innovation and Development

Export Product Quality, Renewable Energy, and Sustainable Production Umer Shahzad, Gagan Deep Sharma, Lianbiao Cui, John Mendy, 2023-09-12 Economic development has long been acknowledged for its beneficial effects on human well being In the context of economic globalization and vertical specialization increasing the quality of export products is more critical and necessary to export success and sustainable development The product s quality is inextricably linked to its manufacture and production which need various types of energy and raw materials Meanwhile the adoption of more environmentally friendly and cleaner energy sources contributes to the achievement of sustainable production Therefore product quality may provide a new perspective from which to investigate the systematic relationship between greener and renewable energy sources sustainable production and environmental regulations as well as the nature of export competitiveness Generally export product quality has referred to the quality of manufactured products within the product lines Quality refers to the relative price of a country's varieties within their respective product lines Product sophistication assesses the composition of the aggregate exports Different varieties of same product at per quality level are being produced by several developing and emerging economies Within any given product line quality converges both conditionally and unconditionally to the world's benchmark increases in institutional quality and human capital are associated with faster quality upgrading In turn faster growth in quality is associated with more rapid output growth

Information Technology and Development Jeffrey James, 2004-07-15 Attempts to bring the benefits of information technology in the form of the internet to developing countries have to date foundered on the belief that this requires the beneficiaries to access the technology directly As a result the perceived huge benefits of such an enterprise have often failed to materialise This original contribution to the The 2013 International Conference on Management and Information Technology Alice Peng, 2013-11-20 The aims of CMIT2013 are to provide a platform for researchers educators engineers and government officials involved in the general areas of management and Information Technology to disseminate their latest research results and exchange views on the future research directions of these fields to exchange management and information technology and integrate of their practice application of the academic ideas improve the academic depth of information technology and its application provide an international communication platform for educational technology and scientific research for the world's universities business intelligence engineering field experts professionals and business executives The CMIT 2013 tends to collect the latest research results and applications on management and information technology It includes a selection of 125 papers from 781 papers submitted to the conference from universities and industries all over the world All of accepted papers were subjected to strict peerreviewing by two to four expert referees The papers have been selected for this volume because of quality and the relevance to the conference The conference is designed to stimulate the young minds including Research Scholars Academicians and Practitioners to contribute their ideas thoughts and nobility in these two disciplines

Tied In: The Global Network of Local Innovation World Intellectual Property Organization, 2019-11-08 In this paper we exploit a unique and rich dataset of patent applications and scientific publications in order to answer several questions concerned with two current phenomena on the way knowledge is produced and shared worldwide its geographical spread at the international level and its spatial concentration in few worldwide geographical hotspots We find that the production of patents and scientific publications has spread geographically to several countries and has not kept within the traditional knowledge producing economies Western Europe Japan and the U S We observe that part of this partial geographical spread of knowledge activities is due to the setting up of Global Innovation Networks first toward more traditional innovative countries and then towards emerging economies too Yet despite the increasing worldwide spread of knowledge production we do not see the same spreading process within countries and even we see some increased concentration in some of them This may have of course important distributional consequences within countries Moreover these selected areas also concentrate a large and increasing connectivity within their own country to other hotspots and across countries through Global Innovation Networks Development with Global Value Chains Dev Nathan, Meenu Tewari, Sandip Sarkar, 2019-01-24 Can firms and economies utilize global value chains for development How can they move from low income to middle income and even high income status This book addresses these questions through a series of case studies examining upgradation and innovation by firms operating in GVCs in Asia The countries examined are China India South Korea the Philippines and Sri Lanka with studies of firms operating in varied sectors aerospace components apparel automotive consumer electronics including mobile phones telecom equipment IT software and services and pharmaceuticals
