Globalization and National Security: Unraveling the Multifaceted Nexus

Ezeja Ijeoma Irene

Department of Public Administration Kampala International University Uganda

ABSTRACT

Globalization, a complex process, introduced by Swapsy in 2006, is understood as being more than economic integration impacting political, social, and cultural dimensions at the global scale. The security at the national level is the main focus of this paper. The paper looks at the following issues including; state sovereignty, the dynamics of the military, economic stability, social unity, environmental sustainability and the controlling information. With modernity, the idea of sovereignty is put to test; states need to find the balance between their autonomy and global involvement. The interlink age of societies influence the dynamics of military affairs, economic security, social peace and stability, and environmental sustainability. Information crossing borders makes the question of national security; it causes trouble to control mechanisms. Economic globalization has created differences against developed and capital rich countries with the aid of the transnational entities. The main focus of the study lays on the necessity of hybrid strategy in order to respond to the shifting features of national security which are present in the context of globalized world.

Keywords: Globalization, Security of a State, Sovereignty, Military Dynamics, Stability of Economy, Societal Integration, and Environmental Security.

INTRODUCTION

The concept of globalization is a complex and multipronged one that causes it unforeseeable geopolitical and social changes. Globalization was a coinage by [1], which means the harmonization of economic, political, social and cultural values all over the world without boundaries. This profound adjustment permeates the socioeconomic and political landscapes at large, even profoundly shaping the fabric of cultural identities and societal structures, as put forth by [2]. The paper attempts a detailed investigation of globalization's deep influence on national security issues as its relations become more complex and linked to a range of mentioned statehood features. A very important factor of the discussion would be the syndrome of the state sovereignty. In the light of the interdependence nations are building, the traditional idea of complete sovereignty meets its challenges. States should find a way to pursue the interests of their country while ensuring that there is still a reasonable degree of autonomy. Not only that but also, paper analyzes the role of globalization in the military environment. It suggests how the economy that is well-connected and the common interests impact international relations and the possibility of conflicts. Looking stability in economic Params, it is revealed that in happening of globalization, a nation may emerge either in the position of resilience in the global marketplace or to the vulnerable situation to market shocks. Another decisive element studied in the paper is societal cohesion, where globalization dictates how it causes the mix of cultures and confronts traditional norms. Environmental sustainability is another aspect to be considered together with the linkages among economies which fuels the sense of environmental responsibility with the common denominator. Finally, the paper covers the effect of globalization on the control of information, emphasized on how the flow of information in the world affects the security in the nation state. At heart, this complete study aims to untangle the complex web of relations between globalization and numerous aspects of national security, giving readers a glimpse of the metamorphosis of statehood as an outcome of our world becoming interconnected more so.

The Dimensions of Globalization

Scholars, although most of them have widely considered the economic aspect of globalization, overlooked the broader scope including global culture, technology and governance [3]. This

Globalization And National Security:

Globalization and the National Security State Norrin M. Ripsman, T.V. Paul, 2010-03-18 In the past two decades many have posited a correlation between the spread of globalization and the decline of the nation state Moreover such scholars have maintained that the increasing interdependence between countries means that nations are no longer the sole providers of their territorial security They point to the increasing role of transnational institutions NGOs and regional security agreements role in national defense In Globalization and the National Security State T V Paul and Norrin Ripsman argue that this thesis has not been borne out by events Despite the effects of globalization weak and powerful states have continued to pursue traditional nation state security strategies

Globalization and National Security Jonathan Kirshner, 2013-01-11 In this book top scholars of international relations assess the consequences of globalization for national security identifying three distinct processes of globalization the intensification of economic exchange the flow of information and marketization the expansion of the set of social relations governed by market forces exploring how they can affect the capacity and power of states as well as conflict within and among them Though much has been written on the topics of globalization and national security there has been relatively little in the way of a systematic examination of the impact that globalization has on a state's national security These essays deal with how stateless actors such as terrorists utilize the benefits of globalization changing the nature of the security game Failure to account for the influence of globalization will make it increasingly difficult to understand changes in the balance of power prospects for war and strategic choices embraced by states

Globalization and Defence in the Asia-Pacific Geoffrey Till, Emrys Chew, Joshua Ho, 2009 This edited volume examines the impact of globalisation on the economies security policies and military industrial complexes of the Asia Pacific region The work is structured into three main parts The first explores globalization and its general effects on the policy making of the nation state the second section looks at how globalisation affects a country's threat perception and defence posture within the specific context of the Asia Pacific region while the third explores how it impacts on a state's allocation of resources to defence and how economic globalization affects the defence industry with specific reference to the procurement policies and practices of different states across the Asia Pacific

Handbook on the Geographies of Globalization Robert C. Kloosterman, Virginie Mamadouh, Pieter Terhorst, 2018-11-30 Processes of globalization have changed the world in many often fundamental ways Increasingly these processes are being debated and contested This Handbook offers a timely rich as well as critical panorama of these multifaceted processes with up to date chapters by renowned specialists from many countries It comprises chapters on the historical background of globalization different geographical perspectives including world systems analysis and geopolitics the geographies of flows of people goods and services and capital and the geographies of places including global cities clusters port cities and the impact of climate change Understanding the Globalization of Intelligence A. Svendsen, 2012-08-30 In this concise introduction to the complexities of contemporary western intelligence and its dynamics during an era of globalization Adam Svendsen discusses intelligence cooperation in the early 21st century with a sharp focus on counter terrorism and WMD counter proliferation during the War on Terror Globalization and Conflict Robert G. Patman, 2006-08-10 This volume highlights the gap between the new security environment and the notion of state centred national security favoured by Washington showing how a Cold War phenomenon known as the national security state in which defence and foreign policy interests essentially converge remains largely intact The conventional wisdom since the suicide attacks of 9 11 is that the world has been transformed and according to President Bush September 11 changed the strategic thinking of the US This book challenges these assumptions Indeed the Bush administration's National Security strategy of 2002 has reinvigorated and even extended the idea of national security Paradoxically the renewed emphasis on a distinctly state centred approach to security including the War on Terror has unfolded during an era of deepening globalization Drawing on the international expertise of fourteen specialists the book examines four inter related themes the impact of globalization on the concept of security the strategic outlook of the world's only superpower the US the new conflicts that have come to characterize the post Cold War era efforts to regulate the emerging patterns of conflict in the world Globalization and Conflict will be essential reading for students of strategic studies security studies and international relations Military Statecraft and the Rise of Shaping in World Politics Kyle J. Wolfley, 2021-06-29 Winner of the Andrew F Krepinevich Writing Award A 2022 Choice Reviews Outstanding Academic Title Selected for the Irregular Warfare Initiative's Inaugural Reading List 2022 In today's complex international environment how do the United States China and Russia manage the return of great power competition as well as the persistent threat of violent non state actors This book explores shaping the use of military power to construct a more favorable environment by influencing the characteristics of other militaries altering the relationships between them or managing the behavior of allies As opposed to traditional strategies of warfighting or coercion shaping relies less on threats demonstrations and uses of violence and more on attraction persuasion and legitimacy Because shaping relies more on soft power than on hard power this approach contradicts the conventional wisdom of the purpose militaries serve Kyle J Wolfley explores the emergence of shaping in classical strategy and its increased frequency following the end of the Cold War when threats and allies became more ambiguous He illustrates the four logics of shaping attraction socialization delegation and assurance through five case studies of recent major military exercise programs led by the United States China India the United Kingdom and Russia Moreover the author reveals through sentiment analysis and statistics of over one thousand multinational exercises from 1980 to 2016 how major powers reacted to a complex international environment by expanding the number and scope of shaping exercises Illuminating an
