This profound change to a key dimension of our existence has complex consequences for the way in which we think about ourselves and our relation to the material world At the same time the ubiquity of digital media has eliminated our tactile sense of physical space altering our perception of our world Gumbrecht draws on his mastery of the philosophy of language to enrich his everyday observations traveling to Disneyland a small town in Louisiana and the center of Vienna to produce striking sketches of our broad presence in the world Religion, Theory, Critique Richard King, 2017-07-18 Religion Theory Critique is an essential tool for learning about theory and method in the study of religion Leading experts engage with contemporary and classical theories as well as non Western cultural contexts Unlike other collections this anthology emphasizes the dynamic relationship between religion as an object of study and different methodological approaches and openly addresses the question of the manifold ways in which religion secular and culture are imagined within different disciplinary horizons This volume is the first textbook which seeks to engage discussion of classical approaches with contemporary cultural and critical theories Contributors write on the influence of the natural sciences in the study of religion the role of European Christianity in modeling theories of religion religious experience and the interface with cognitive science the structure and function of religious language the social scientific study of religion ritual in religion the phenomenology of religion critical theory and religion embodiment and religion the impact of colonialism and modernity theorizing religion in terms of race and ethnicity links among religion nationalism and globalization the interplay of gender sex and religion and religion and the environment Each chapter introduces the topic identifies key theorists and issues and respects the pluralistic nature of the scholarship in the field Altogether this collection scrutinizes the explicit and implicit assumptions theorists make about religion as an object of analysis The Domestic and the Foreign in Architecture Ruth Baumeister, Sang Lee, 2007 For centuries across nations dialogue between the domestic and the foreign has affected and transformed architecture Today these dialogues have become highly intensified The Domestic and the Foreign in Architecture examines how these exchanges manifest themselves in contemporary architecture in terms of its aesthetic potential and its practice which in turn are impacted by broad economic cultural and political issues This book traces how diverse cultural encounters inevitably modify conventional categories standards and codes of architecture such as domestic identity its political and economic representations and the negotiations with what is deemed foreign Theoretical reflections by distinguished scholars are accompanied by interviews with some of the most influential architects practicing today as well as stunning visual presentations by professional photographers Literature and Globalization Liam Connell, Nicky Marsh, 2011 I wonder how we have managed without such a text Rita Raley UCSB USA This groundbreaking reader is the first to chart significant moments in the emergence of contemporary thinking about globalization and explore their significance for and impact on literary studies
