The Making of International Environmental Treaties Gerry Nagtzaam,2009 Gerry Nagtzaam contends that in recent decades neoliberal institutionalist scholarship on global environmental regimes has burgeoned as has constructivist scholarship on the key role played by norms in international politics In this innovative volume the author sets these interest and norm based approaches against each other in order to test their ability to illustrate why and how different environmental norms take hold in some regimes and not others The book explores why some global environmental treaties seek to preserve and protect some parts of nature from human utilization some seek to conserve certain parts of nature for human development whilst others allow the reckless exploitation of nature without accounting for the consequences It tracks the fate of these three underlying environmental norms preservation conservation and exploitation using case studies on whaling mining in Antarctica and tropical timber The book illustrates how international political battles to shape environmental regimes inevitably result in clashes between these competing environmental norms This unique study will prove a fascinating read for both academics and practitioners in the fields of international environmental politics and international environmental law Handbook on International Political Economy Ralph Pettman,2012 International political economy IPE is a highly complex discipline drawing not only from the fields of politics and economics but also those as varied as philosophy history and anthropology Now widely accepted as a key dimension to contemporary world affairs it is no longer possible to talk about international relations without talking about production and distribution finance and investment as well as consumption and trade To ensure that our understanding of these topics is relevant to today s world there is a constant need to revisit and challenge what is known about these topics Besides being a comprehensive account of international political economy for academic study this extensive collection also highlights salient issues that scholars analysts and state leaders are most concerned with in today s world Amongst these are issues concerning the rise of China and India as new economic superpowers stability in the EU s political economy the viability of the existing multilateral system of global trade recent financial crises as well as the impact of globalisation and marketisation on the world s workers and our physical environment With contributions from prominent academics such as Susan K Sell George Washington University D C and Geoffrey Blainey Professor Emeritus University of Melbourne this volume makes for both a stimulating and thought provoking read Governance for Sustainability Klaus Bosselmann,Ron Engel,Prue Taylor,2008 This report is currently available in an electronic format only To view the report and others published by the International Union for Conservation of

Nature IUCN please visit IUCN s website Governance for sustainability is defined as the set of written and unwritten rules that link ecological citizenship with institutions and norms of governance It is a complex topic because it addresses the three issues of globalization democracy and sustainability No form of governance can succeed if there is no common bond between those who govern and those who are being governed The real issue is whether the common good that is the sustainability of life can be pursued through democratic forms of governance This publication compiles information evaluations and case studies to enable the reader to explore and reflect upon governance for sustainability Against Ecological Sovereignty
