Counting for Nothing Marilyn Waring, 1999-12-15 Safe drinking water counts for nothing A pollution free environment counts for nothing Even some people namely women count for nothing This is the case at least according to the United Nations System of National Accounts Author Marilyn Waring former New Zealand M P now professor development consultant writer and goat farmer isolates the gender bias that exists in the current system of calculating national wealth As Waring observes in this accounting system women are considered non producers and as such they cannot expect to gain from the distribution of benefits that flow from production Issues like nuclear warfare environmental conservation and poverty are likewise excluded from the calculation of value in traditional economic theory As a result public policy determined by these same accounting processes inevitably overlooks the importance of the environment and half the world s population Counting for Nothing originally published in 1988 is a classic feminist analysis of women s place in the world economy brought up to date in this reprinted edition including a sizeable new introduction by the author In her new introduction the author updates information and examples and revisits the original chapters with appropriate commentary In an accessible and often humorous manner Waring offers an explanation of the current economic systems of accounting and thoroughly outlines ways to ensure that the significance of the environment and the labour contributions of women receive the recognition they deserve

Beyond the Green Revolution Edward C. Wolf, 1986 After 20 years the green revolution is generally referred to as a milestone in the international agricultural movement The introduction of new varieties of wheat and rice along with fertilizers pesticides and mechanized farm equipment has produced a dramatic increase in world food production This paper assesses the successes of the green revolution in light of its effect upon third world countries It cautions that the revolutionary gains in agricultural production have not been distributed evenly This uneven distribution of productivity is discussed in the first chapter Productivity Reconsidered The second chapter Beyond the Green Revolution considers the need for new crop varieties and technologies including biotechnologies but argues that tomorrow s innovations must be more consistent with regional agricultural traditions This approach will help to avoid some of the environmental and social costs associated with the agricultural technologies utilized during the green revolution The third chapter Rediscovering Traditional Agriculture examines the benefits and limitations of traditional methods of agriculture indicating that these practices should provide the basis for new practices rather than be swept aside as archaic Toward Appropriate Biotechnology discusses some of the possible contributions offered by biotechnology as tools for more efficient and sustainable agriculture The document concludes with a call for additional research in sustainable agriculture productivity TW

Saidul Islam, Md Ismail Hossain, 2016-01-26 Md Saidul Islam and Md Ismail Hossain investigate how neoliberal globalization generates unique conditions contradictions and confrontations in labor gender and environmental relations and how a broader global social justice can mitigate the tensions and improve the conditions Associations' Publications in Print, 1981 1981 in 2 v v 1 Subject index v 2 Title index Publisher title index Association name index Acronym index Key to publishers and distributors abbreviations Democracy, Bureaucracy, And The Study Of Administration Camilla Stivers, 2018-03-09 This anthology addresses several of the most central ideas in the field of public administration These ideas are as relevant to public budgeting as they are to performance measurement or human resource management Collectively and individually the essays explore what Dwight Waldo referred to as the political theories of public administration issues that are ultimately unresolvable yet crucial to understanding the nature of public administrative practice How can democracy and efficiency be balanced Can there be a science of administration How should we think about administrative accountability What is the nature of the relationship between citizen and state Is professionalism an adequate mechanism for ensuring accountability How efficient can or should bureaucracy be What is proper leadership by administrators hoping to address political democracy and managerial efficiency This ASPA Classics Volumes serves to connect the practice of public policy and administration with the normative theory base that has accrued and the models for practice that may be deduced from this theory Labor Literature, 1979 Population Policies for a New Economic Era Lester Russell Brown, 1983 After a generation of unprecedented economic growth the world economy appears to be losing momentum Double digit inflation high interest rates and soaring deficits are often cited as causes of the global economic slowdown but these are more symptom than cause More fundamental is the depletion of the global resource base that allowed the economy to triple during the century s quarter This depletion of renewable and nonrenewable resources is undermining the long term potential for rapid sustained economic growth Oil played a central role in the century s third quarter economic boom In addition to making overall growth easy cheap oil revolutionized agriculture by spawning spectacular gains in food output However growth in oil production and other basic economic activities has declined because of rising oil prices deteriorating biological systems or both As the world population moves toward 5 billion humanity is moving into uncharted territory The relationship between population size and the sustainable yield of the earth s biological resource systems is uncertain With the progressive depletion of readily accessible oil and gas reserves and the widespread deterioration of the economy s biological support systems economic growth has slowed markedly These economic trends call for dramatic shifts in population policy to avoid declines in consumption levels JN Planning the Global Family Jodi L. Jacobson, 1987 International Economic Law and the Challenges of the Free Zones Julien Chaisse, Jiaxiang Hu, 2019-05-02 Special economic zones SEZs have become a permanent feature of the world trade scene This book the first to provide a critical and comprehensive analysis of SEZs covering a wide spectrum of countries and regions shows how SEZs albeit established at the domestic level by different countries raise multiple legal issues under international economic law This first rate book is the product of the Asia FDI Forum IV held in Hong Kong in 2018 Thoroughly exploring the development of the SEZ phenomenon and its players the contributing authors all leading economic law experts review the issues raised by SEZs in the context of international trade law international investment law and investment arbitration They identify the extent to which SEZs have been coherent in their design and policymaking in particular with regard to domestic law reforms They address such aspects both core themes and specific examples as the following investment protection in China s SEZs state owned enterprises regulation dispute settlement under what circumstances incentives available in SEZs count as export subsidies prohibited under World Trade Organization WTO rules compliance with internal market rules in European Union EU free zones local populations as victims of land expropriation Brazil s Manaus Free Trade Zone India s experience with multiple SEZs the administrative approval system in the Shanghai Free Trade Zone economic corridors and transit routes as SEZs refugee cities SEZs for migrants how China s Supreme People s Court serves national strategy how foreign investors challenge free zone regimes impacts of the establishment of SEZs on tax revenues SEZs and labour migration and management models The chapters also include insights into the new emerging generation of international investment agreements WTO accession transparency and case law materials clarifying specific trade issues associated with SEZs and new rules to protect the environment and labour rights as well as analysis of crucially significant cases such as Goetz v The Republic of Burundi Lee Jong Baek v Kyrgyzstan and Ampal American and Others v Egypt With its critical and comprehensive analysis of the dynamic SEZ phenomenon across legal economic investment regulatory and policy matrices including a thorough analysis of the success factors and required policies for SEZs this book takes a giant step towards answering the question whether SEZs fundamentally contradict norms of international law or whether SEZs have to be considered as laboratories which facilitate the implementation of international economic policies Its careful examination of theory and practice and its approach to lessons learned from case studies will reward trade and investment officials policymakers diplomats economists lawyers think tanks business leaders and others interested in this ever more important area of law and economics

Altering the Earth's Chemistry Sandra Postel, 1986 Human activities that have altered the earth s chemistry are discussed in terms of their potential ecological and economic consequences Humanity s impact on the disruption of the natural cycles of carbon nitrogen and sulfur is assessed Data are presented which illustrate the extent of change in these cycles Risks particularly threatening and costly to society are identified as those associated with food security forests and human health Each of these risk areas are explained and specific problems and conditions are highlighted Strategies of minimizing risks through measures that remedy several problems simultaneously are advocated Recommended actions include 1 reduction of fossil fuel use 2 support of new energy technologies 3 establishment of standards for residential appliances 4 increase of recycling efforts 5 preservation of forests and planting of trees 6 elimination of lead in gasoline 7 more extensive toxicity testing 8 use of an integrative pest management program and 9 detoxification of wastes Because of the global nature of these risks international co operation and active collaboration efforts to explore policy options are urged ML Banishing Tobacco William U. Chandler,1986 This report focuses on topics and issues related to the global use of tobacco It consists of an introduction and six major sections These sections deal with 1 the epidemic rate at which smoking is spreading indicating that the global rate has grown nearly 75 percent over the past two decades and is growing at 2 1 percent per year faster than world population growth 2 health factors indicating that lung cancer is predominantly a disease of smoking and showing the international correlation between cigarette consumption and lung cancer deaths after 20 years of smoking 3 sidestream smoke which wafts from a smoker s cigarette to an involuntary smoker and its effects on others indicating that passive smoking has been correlated with lung cancer in nonsmoking spouses of smokers in more than 10 studies 4 effects on children indicating that in one United States survey smokers gave birth to underweight babies twice as often as other women did 5 antismoking efforts to date and 6 stronger measures such as banishing tobacco by prohibiting tobacco from workplaces and public buildings Data tables are included when applicable for example on cigarette use in selected countries 1984 and smoking among United States males by educational level 1982 JN
