Publics Beth E. Kolko,2003 A collection of interdisciplinary essays that examine how the internet has affected conceptions of community and public life   The Emergence of Noopolitik John Arquilla,David Ronfeldt,Dionne Barnes-Proby,Elizabeth Williams,John Christian,1999-04-15 Strategy at its best knits together ends and means no matter how various and disparate into a cohesive pattern In the case of a U S information strategy this requires balancing the need to guard and secure access to many informational capabilities and resources with the opportunity to achieve national aims by fostering as much openness as practicable The authors term to represent such strategic balancing is guarded openness They go on to describe noopolitik nu oh poh li teek an emerging form of statecraft that emphasizes the importance of sharing ideas and values globally principally through the exercise of persuasive soft power rather than traditional military hard power This study discusses the opportunities that may be raised by the emergence of noopolitik ranging from construction of a noosphere a globe spanning realm of the mind to recommendations that for example the U S military should begin to develop its own noosphere among and between the services as well as with U S allies In the area of international cooperation the authors offer strategic approaches for improving the capacity of state and nonstate actors to work together to address transnational problems In addition the authors recommend specific doctrinal developments implied by the emergence of information strategy including the pressing need to deal with such ethical concerns as the first use of information weapons concepts of proportional response and the need to maintain the immunity of noncombatants Ultimately the authors call for an innovative turn of mind as policymakers and strategists rethink how best to adapt to the epochal transformations being wrought by the information revolution   Networked Governance and Transatlantic Relations Gabriella Paar-Jakli,2014-04-29 In today s complex and interconnected world scholars of international relations seek to better understand challenges spurred by intensified global communication and interaction The complex connectedness of modern society and politics compels us to investigate the pattern of interconnections among actors who inhabit social and political spaces Gabriella Pa r J kli s study aims to advance theory and practice by examining the networks used by specialists in North America and Europe to achieve their policy goals in the area of science and technology Her book suggests that to overcome policy problems transnationally three critical factors should be considered First as science and technology policy becomes increasingly critical to resolving global issues it should be regarded as an integral element of the foreign policy process Second as liberal international relations theory argues the increasing role of NGOs must be taken seriously alongside states as vital agents of policy reform Third as transatlantic relations remain center to maintaining the global order they must be reconsidered Paar Jakli assesses the role of digital networks as facilitators of regional cooperation Utilizing various techniques of social network analysis her research indicates an active and structurally discernible network in cyberspace among transatlantic organizations and demonstrates the role of virtual networks as facilitators of cooperative arrangements in transatlantic relations Pa r J kli s original research uses social network analysis to investigate transatlantic cooperation a new approach that will be noteworthy to network and transatlantic scholars as well as policymakers   Globalization Jan Aart Scholte,2017-03-16 This highly acclaimed bestselling textbook quickly established itself as one of the leading texts on the subject worldwide in its 1st edition Now substantially revised and updated Scholte provides students with a comprehensive introduction to globalization and questions why this phenomenon has occurred to what extent it changes the world and whether it is a force for good or ill Accessibly written by a leading authority both as an academic researcher and a policy consultant this second edition draws on the author s research in more than 20 countries over 5 continents Split into 3 parts the text first outlines a critical framework for understanding globalization before exploring its impact on society and the key debates surrounding its normative impact Exploring questions such as what globalization is how it has emerged and what effect it has had on society this text is essential reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students seeking a thorough study of globalization New to this Edition A broader perspective on all the dimensions of globalization Makes use of the extensive new data and research findings since the first edition was released Draws more widely from other fields such as Business Studies Law and Economics   Virtual Globalization David Holmes,2002-11 This book examines the interrelationship between telecommunications and tourism in shaping the nature of space place and the urban at the end of the twentieth century They discuss how these agents are instrumental in the production of homogenous world spaces and how these in turn presuppose new kinds of political and cultural identity This work will be of essential interest to scholars and students in the fields of sociology geography cultural studies and media studies   Computer Science Education in the 21st Century Tony Greening,2012-12-06 The world is experiencing unprecedented rapidity of change originating from pervasive technological developments These developments are fundamentally reliant on the changing face of computing Computers are a near ubiquitous feature on the modern social landscape Such ubiquity enables rapid propagation of changes emerging from within computing as a family of disciplines What then is the relevance of such changes to education of future computer professionals and computer scientists This book considers the effects of such rapid change from within computing disciplines by allowing computing educationalists to deliver a considered verdict on the future of their discipline The targeted future the year 2020 was chosen to be distant enough to encourage authors to risk being visionary while being close enough to ensure some anchorage to reality The result is a scholarly set of contributions expressing the visions hopes concerns predictions and analyses of trends of the future of a discipline that continues to impact greatly on the wider community One of the interesting aspects of asking people to consider the future is the extent to which it ultimately sheds light on the present this concept is explored by the editor in his review of the contributions as a whole   Formations Dan Fleming,Henry A. Giroux,Lawrence Grossberg,2000 Formations is a comprehensive textbook designed for students moving to a deeper engagement with the media studies The original essays are organized around the broad themes of public knowledge cultural identity broadcasting film and pop tech An introductory section explores the fundamentals of the field and a section on method examines how knowledge is constructed within media studies Throughout the material is structured into a combination of case studies and integrative essays punctuated at key moments by stop and think advice aimed directly at students With contributions well known scholars Formations offers a deep engagement with issues theories and methods especially new technologies transforming landscapes of popular culture New Media, Campaigning and the 2008 Facebook Election Thomas J. Johnson,David D. Perlmutter,2013-12-16 Some political observers dubbed the 2008 presidential campaign as the Facebook Election Barack Obama in particular employed social media such as blogs Twitter Flickr Digg YouTube MySpace and Facebook to run a grassroots style campaign The Obama campaign was keenly aware that voters particularly the young are not simply consumers of information but conduits of information as well They often replaced the professional filter of traditional media with a social one Social media allowed candidates to do electronically what previously had to be done through shoe leather and phone banks contact volunteers and donors and schedule and promote events The 2008 Election marked a new era where the candidates no longer had complete control over their campaign message The individual viewer in a campaign crowd with a cell phone can record a candidate s gaffe post it on YouTube or Flickr and within days millions will be gasping or guffawing The traditional campaign with its centralized power and planning although not dead now coexists with an unstructured digital democracy New Media Campaigning and the 2008 Facebook Election examines the way social media changed how candidates campaigned how the media covered the election and how voters received information This book is based on a special issue of Mass Communication Society The Digital University - Building a Learning Community Reza Hazemi,Stephen Hailes,2012-12-06 This is the thoroughly revised second edition of one of the first books to provide an overview of how key aspects of university life such as teaching academic research administration management and course design are being affected by digital and web enabled technologies More than three quarters of the material has been revised and updated Still further three new chapters now address the following aspects the virtual classroom vicarious learning and educational metadata The main body of the text focuses on asynchronous collaboration by examining the following four key topics principles experiences evaluation and benefits A timely and up most important guide to all aspects of modern university education in the digital age Prometheus Wired Darin Barney,2011-11-01 From all sides we hear that computer technology with its undeniable power to disseminate information and connect individuals holds enormous potential for a reinvigoration of political life But will the Internet really spark a democratic revolution And will the changes it brings be so profound that past political thought will be of little use in helping us to understand them In Prometheus Wired Darin Barney debunks claims that a networked society will provide the infrastructure for a political revolution and shows that the resources we need for understanding and making sound judgments about this new technology are surprisingly close at hand By looking to thinkers who grappled with the relationship of society and technology such as Plato Aristotle Marx and Heidegger Barney critically examines such assertions about the character of digital networks Along the way Barney offers an eye opening history of digital networks and then explores a wide range of contemporary issues such as electronic commerce telecommuting privacy virtual community digital surveillance and the possibility of sovereign governance in an age of global networks Ultimately Barney argues that instead of placing power back in the hands of the public a networked economy seems to exacerbate the worst features of industrial capitalism and in terms of the surveillance and control it exerts reduces our political freedom Of vital interest to politicians communicators and anyone concerned about the future of democracy in the digital age Prometheus Wired adds a provocative new voice to the debate swirling around the Net and the ways in which it will or will not change our political lives   Electronic Collaborators Curtis Jay Bonk,Kira S. King,2012-12-06 Two developments in recent years have converged to dramatically alter most conceptions of the teaching and learning process First technology has become increasingly interactive and distributed such that individual learners have available the means to participate in incredibly complex networks of information resources and instruction As these technological advancements facilitate interaction across classroom university and worldwide learning communities in both real time and delayed formats various instructional design and implementation problems spring forth Second the conventional teacher centered model wherein knowledge is transmitted from the teacher to the learner is being replaced by social constructivist and learner centered models of instruction These new learner centered models place emphasis on guiding and supporting students as they meaningfully construct their understanding of various cultures and communities As a consequence of these developments teachers need guidelines from educational researchers about integrating collaboration and communication tools into their classrooms This volume presents research on such collaborative technology as it facilitates augments and redefines academic learning environments The studies illustrate how schools teachers and students are discovering employing and modifying the numerous new computer conferencing and collaborating writing tasks and tools and their effects on social interaction and resulting student learning Documentation is given that will help teachers to make decisions that productively transform learning environments Three key objectives underlie this volume to discover some of the electronic collaboration tools and formats currently employed by teachers in schools and universities and to situate these within a five level taxonomy of computer conferencing and collaborative writing tools and approaches to examine some of the sociocultural learning variables embedded in the use of electronic collaborative tools and approaches and to participate in a dialogue about the importance of student electronic social interaction and dialogue from a sociocultural perspective This is a must read volume for all researchers scholars graduate students and practitioners interested in such fields as sociocultural theory process writing cooperative learning learner centeredness distance education peer conferencing and tutoring mentoring electronic collaboration problem and project based learning collaborative writing and educational reform
