Commodity Chains and Global Capitalism Gary Gereffi, Miguel Korzeniewicz, 1993-11-30 The current restructuring of the world economy under global capitalism has further integrated international trade and production It thus has brought to the fore the key role of commodity chains in the relationships of capital labor and states Commodity chains are most simply defined as the link between successive processes of manufacturing that result in a final product available for individual consumption Each production site in the chain involves organizing the acquisition of necessary raw materials plus semifinished inputs the recruitment of labor power and its provisioning arranging transportation to the next site and the construction of modes of distribution via markets and transfers and consumption The contributors to this volume explore and elaborate the global commodity chains GCCs approach which reformulates the basic conceptual categories for analyzing varied patterns of global organization and change The GCC framework allows the authors to pose questions about development issues past and present that are not easily handled by previous paradigms and to more adequately forge the macro micro links between processes that are generally assumed to be discretely contained within global national and local units of analysis The paradigm that GCCs embody is a network centered historical approach that probes above and below the level of the nation state to better analyze structure and change in the contemporary world Asia's Computer Challenge Jason Dedrick, Kenneth L. Kraemer, 1998-08-20 How did the computer industry evolve into its present global structure Why have some Asian countries succeeded more than others Jason Dedrick and Kenneth L Kraemer delve into these questions and emerge with an explanation of the rapid rise of the computer industry in the Asia Pacific region Asia's Computer Challenge makes a systematic comparison of the historical development of the computer industries of Japan Hong Kong Korea Singapore and Taiwan and concludes that neither a plan versus market nor a country versus company dichotomy fully explains the diversity found among these countries The authors identify a new force the emergence of a global production network Reaching beyond specific companies and countries this book explores the strategic implications for the Asian Pacific countries and the United states Now East Asia is faced with a challenge they must make the move from low margin hardware business to high margin software and information businesses while Americans must respond by maintaining leadership in standards design marketing and business innovation Servitization, IT-ization and Innovation Models Hitoshi Hirakawa, Kaushalesh Lal, Shinkai Naoko, Norio Tokumaru, 2013-04-02 This book looks at two stage industrial cluster theory and new innovation models in view of IT ization and servitization of products The formation of industrial clusters such as export processing zones and special economic zones has been the preferred mechanism for developing countries to boost their industrial development and export performance for the last several decades Existing literature related to Development Economics cited numerous benefits of industrial clusters and several countries have reaped such benefits The book goes beyond formation of traditional industrial clusters It promotes the idea of formation of two stage clusters The book further stresses on new innovation models The ideas are promoted based on the empirical evidence of Chinese and Taiwanese firms in consumer electronics and automobile sectors Finally the book looks at firm strategies in new business environment which is dominated by servitization of industrial products It argues for firms to integrate manufacturing and services to a great extent To substantiate the arguments empirical evidence comes from India Taiwan and Bangladesh The study further finds evidence perhaps for the first time that innovation and knowledge acquisition strategies are influenced not only by size of firms but also vary with market preferences Hong Kong as a Global Metropolis David R. Meyer, 2000-05-04 Hong Kong has remained the global metropolis for Asia since its founding in the 1840s following the Opium Wars between Britain and China David Meyer traces its vibrant history from the arrival of the foreign trading firms when it was established as one of the leading Asian business centres to its celebrated handover to China in 1997 Throughout this period Hong Kong has been prominent as a pivotal meeting place of the Chinese and foreign social networks of capital and as such has been China's window on to the world economy dominating other financial centers such as Singapore and Tokyo Looking into the future the author presents an optimistic view of Hong Kong in the twenty first century challenging those who predict its decline under

Chinese rule This accessible and broad ranging look at the story of Hong Kong s success will interest anyone concerned with its past present and future and Buenos Aires They show how these globalizing zones are not only replicating many features of the top tier of global cities but are also generating new socio economic patterns as well These new patterns of development promise to lead to significant changes in the structure of the global economy as more and more cities worldwide are integrated into globalization s circuitry Includes contributions from Linda Garcia Patrice Riemens Geert Lovink Peter Taylor David Smith Michael Timberlake Stephen Graham Sueli Schiffer Ramos Christoff Parnreiter Felicity Gu David Meyer Pablo Ciccolella Iliana Mignaqui Eric Huybrechts Ali Parsa Also includes six maps US-Asia Economic Relations Justin
