Globalization and the New Regionalism Stefan Schirm, 2002-07-19 The European Single Market NAFTA and Mercosur powerfully shape international relations and economic development they also symbolize a shift in economic policy towards a world market oriented and liberalizing strategy Schirm argues that this new regionalism is essentially a result of the impact of globalization on domestic politics The increasing transnational mobility of private economic actors alters the costs and benefits of economic policy options for governments as well as the interests of domestic groups Globalization stimulates economic reforms whose economic efficiency and political acceptability are increased through regional cooperation Globalization and the New Regionalism is innovative in three aspects it offers a new theoretical approach to integration theory it develops a distinct interpretative model for the impact of globalization on states and it compares systematically the influence of globalization and the preferences for cooperation cross regionally in Europe and the Americas Case studies include the industrialized countries France Germany Great Britain and the United States as well as the newly industrializing countries Argentina Brazil and Mexico This book is a timely contribution to the debate on the consequences of globalization and the foundations of regionalism and has far reaching implications for theories of international relations and political economy Globalism and the New Regionalism Osvaldo Sunkel, András Inotai, 1999-04-11 This is the first of five volumes reporting on the UNU WIDER study on New Regionalism It deals with the conceptions and meanings of two processes which probably will have a crucial influence on the shape of the new world order globalization and regionalization These studies relate to each other as challenge to response globalization being the challenge of economic and cultural

Straits of Malacca Donald B. Freeman, 2003 For centuries the Straits of

Malacca a narrow waterway between the Malay peninsula and the island of Sumatra has been both a major conduit for long distance trade between Asia and the West and one of the most dangerous areas for commercial shipping Casting a broad net across several disciplines particularly geography and political economy Donald Freeman examines the significance of the Straits as both a trade gateway and a choke point that has forced generations of sailors to run the gauntlet Rather than the more conventional historical narrative approach he offers an innovative adoption of an interdisciplinary analytical perspective through his use of detailed case studies of trading systems and shipping hazards Civil Society Regionalization in Southern Africa Andréas Godsäter, 2016-05-12 This book investigates civil society regionalization in Southern Africa The point of departure is the study of new regionalism which refers to the wave of regional integration globally since the 1980s However whilst the current regionalism studies undoubtedly contributes to a deeper understanding of regional processes important gaps remain in particular the relatively scant emphasis given to civil society This particularly relates to regions in the global South including Southern Africa The overarching aim of this book is therefore to analyse the dynamics of civil society regionalization in Southern Africa both empirically and from a theoretical perspective through analysing the cases of trade and HIV AIDS The study finds that CSOs can be more active in regional governance than has previously been conceptualized and are also highly active in terms of constructing regionalization through framing issues and to a less extent making identities regional Furthermore the book enhances knowledge of the heterogeneous nature of civil society regionalization Lastly it is demonstrated that going regional is only partly an autonomous process and also has to be understood as under the influence of the deeper statist and capitalist social structures marking the regional order in Southern Africa
