Education Policy Les Bell, Howard Stevenson, 2006-09-27 The study of educational leadership makes little sense unless it is in relation to who the leaders are how they are leading what is being led and with what effect Based on the premise that learning is at the heart of leadership and that leaders themselves should be learners the Leadership for Learning series explores the connections between educational leadership policy curriculum human resources and accountability Each book in the series approaches its subject matter through a three fold structure of process themes and impact Series Editors Clive Dimmock Mark Brundrett and Les Bell As global pressures focus increasing attention on the outcomes of education policy and on their implications for economic prosperity and social citizenship the experience of each individual learner is decisively shaped by the wider policy environment However there is often an underdeveloped understanding of how education policy is formed what drives it and how it impacts on schools and colleges This book explicitly makes these connections and links them to the wider challenges of educational leadership in a modern context Education Policy is divided into three sections which examine the development of policy at the levels of the nation state and individual institutions the forces that shape policies with emphasis on human capital theory citizenship and social justice and accountability research based case studies highlighting the application of policy in a range of situations The book provides a valuable resource for students practitioners middle managers and educational leaders in all sectors both in the UK and internationally who are engaged on masters and doctoral degrees or undertaking leadership training and preparation programmes

Knowledge & Power in the Global Economy David Gabbard, 2017-07-05 Advancing a three fold political agenda this volume illuminates how the meanings assigned to a whole vocabulary of words and phrases frequently used to discuss the role and reform of U S public schools reflect an essentially economic view of the world contends that education or educational reform conducted under an economized worldview will only intensify the effects of the colonial relations of political and economic domination that it breeds at home and abroad and offers a set of alternative concepts and meanings for reformulating the role of U S public schools and for considering the implications of such a reformulation more generally for the underlying premises of all human relationships and activities Toward these ends the authors in Part I critically examine many of the most commonly used terms within the rhetoric of educational reform since the early 1980s and before Part II links today s economized worldview to curricular and instructional issues These essays are especially important for comprehending how the organization of school curriculum privileges those disciplines deemed most central to market expansion math and science and how the political centrality of the economic sphere influences the nature of the knowledge presented in specific content areas Given that language constrains as well as advances human thought the twin tasks of de economizing education and decolonizing society will require a vocabulary that transcends the familiar terminologies addressed in Parts I and II The entries in Part III cultivate the beginnings of such a vocabulary as the authors elucidate innovative concepts which they view as central to the creation of truly alternative educational visions and practices
