Great Adventure Of Wo Ti:

The Great Adventure of Wo Ti Nathan Zimelman, 2013-10-29 Feeling down on himself carp Wo Ti boost his confidence and worth when he devises a plan to trick the stealthy cat that has been feasting on the grounds of Peking's Summer Palace. When a devious cat known as Kitti Ho makes his way into the peaceful garden of Peking's Summer Palace he finds himself with numerous options for nourishment from the birds of the grounds to little goldfish both so plentiful that no one notices Kitti Ho taking his share. But when the cat notices the carp in the Emperor's pond he sets his sights on making a meal of the greatest carp Wo Ti. Little does Kitti Ho know Wo Ti has been experiencing a terrible void in his life and the chance to stop the cat's devious plan is exactly what he needs to prove his worth. Zimelman tells his story with a leisurely grace that begs for sharing aloud. Downing's watercolors are colorful and pleasingly designed. Kirkus Reviews

Literature and the Child Bernice E. Cullinan, Lee Galda, 1998 With a slender design and appealing art, Cullinan and Galda present a thought-provoking discussion on how children can read to respond, read to learn, and read to enjoy. This text provides evaluation criteria for selecting superior children's books rather than listing thousands of titles and synopses. Booklists direct readers to quality literature, and extended discussions of selected titles demonstrate the selection criteria. Multicultural literature is discussed throughout the text, with a separate chapter on more specific multicultural issues. Numerous teaching ideas, many of which are contributed by classroom teachers, provide practical applications. This is a book for teachers stressing the use of good books in a literature-based curriculum
