Master Register of Bicentennial Projects, February 1976 American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, 1976 Reproduction of Color Stamps United States.

Congress. House. Committee on the Judiciary, 1968 Reproduction of Color Stamps United States. Congress. House. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee No. 1, 1968 Inside the White House Noel Grove, 2013 With the White House historical Association Front cover Artificial Color Catherine Keyser, 2019 This book examines how modern US writers used the changing geographies, regimens and technologies of modern food to reimagine racial classification and to question its relationship to the mutable body. By challenging a cultural ideal of purity, this literature proposes that racial whiteness is perhaps the most artificial color of them all Clarence H. White and His World Anne McCauley, 2017-01-01 Restoring a gifted art photographer to his place in the American canon and in the process reshaping and expanding our understanding of early 20th century American photography Clarence H White 1871-1925 was one of the most influential art photographers and teachers of the early 20th century and a founding member of the Photo Secession. This beautiful publication offers a new appraisal of White's contributions including his groundbreaking aesthetic experiments, his commitment to the ideals of American socialism and his embrace of the expanding fields of photographic book and fashion illustration, celebrity portraiture and advertising. Based on extensive archival research, the book challenges the idea of an abrupt rupture between prewar soft focus idealizing photography and postwar modernism to paint a more nuanced picture of American culture in the Progressive era. Clarence H White and His World begins with the artist's early work in Ohio, which shares with the nascent Arts and Crafts movement the advocacy of hand production, closeness to nature and the simple life. White's involvement with the Photo Secession and his move to New York in 1906 mark a shift in his production as it grew to encompass commercial portraiture and an increasing commitment to teaching, which ultimately led him to establish the first institutions in America to combine instruction in both technical and aesthetic aspects of photography. The book also incorporates new formal and scientific analysis of White's work and techniques, a complete exhibition record and many unpublished illustrations of the moody outdoor scenes and quiet images of domestic life for which he was revered School Library Journal, 1994

American Watercolor in the Age of Homer and Sargent Kathleen A. Foster, Philadelphia Museum of Art, 2017-01-01 The fascinating story of the transformation of American watercolor practice between 1866 and 1925. The formation of the American Watercolor Society in 1866 by a small, dedicated group of painters transformed the perception of what had long been considered a marginal medium. Artists of all ages, styles and backgrounds took up watercolor in the 1870s, inspiring younger generations of impressionists and modernists. By the 1920s, many would claim it as the American medium. This engaging and comprehensive book tells the definitive story of the metamorphosis of American watercolor practice between 1866 and 1925, identifying the artist constituencies and social forces that drove the new popularity of the medium. The major artists of the movement Winslow Homer, John Singer Sargent, William Trost Richards, Thomas Moran, Thomas Eakins, Charles Prendergast, Childe Hassam, Edward Hopper, Charles Demuth and many others are represented with lavish color illustrations. The result is a fresh and beautiful look at watercolor's central place in American art and culture.
