Partnership for Excellence Edward Shorter, 2013-12-06 The University of Toronto's Faculty of Medicine is North America's largest medical school and a major health consortium boasting nine affiliated teaching hospitals and a network of research institutes It is where insulin was pioneered stem cells were first discovered and famous physicians from Vincent Lam to Sheela Basrur began their careers But despite all its major accomplishments the faculty's impressive history has never before been comprehensively documented In Partnership for Excellence senior medical historian and award winning author Edward Shorter details the Faculty of Medicine's history from its inception as a small provincial school to its present day status as an international powerhouse. Deeply researched through front line interviews and primary sources it ties the story of the faculty and its teaching hospitals to the general history of medicine over this period. Shorter emphasizes the enormous concentration of intellectual energy in the faculty that has allowed it to become the dominant force in Canadian medicine home to a legion of medical pioneers and achievements. Edinburgh Companion to the Critical Medical Humanities Anne

Whitehead, 2016-06-14 In this landmark Companion expert contributors from around the world map out the field of the critical medical humanities. This is the first volume to introduce comprehensively the ways in which interdisciplinary thinking across the humanities and social sciences might contribute to critique and develop medical understanding of the human individually and collectively. The thirty six newly commissioned chapters range widely within and across disciplinary fields always alert to the intersections between medicine as broadly defined and critical thinking. Each chapter offers suggestions for further reading on the issues raised and each section concludes with an Afterword written by a leading critic outlining future possibilities for cutting edge work in this area. Topics covered in this volume include the affective body biomedicine blindness breath disability early modern medical practice fatness the genome language madness narrative race systems biology performance the postcolonial public health touch twins voice and wonder. Together the chapters generate a body of new knowledge and make a decisive intervention into how health medicine and clinical care might address questions of individual subjective and embodied experience. *University of California, San Francisco. Sauerland, 1994-11-01 Cumulated Index to the Books, 1999 International Books in Print, 1997 Rhetoric in the Flesh T. Kenny Fountain, 2014-07-11 Rhetoric in the Flesh is the first book length ethnographic study of the gross anatomy lab to explain how rhetorical discourses multimodal displays and embodied practices facilitate learning and technical expertise and how they shape participants' perceptions of the human body. By investigating the role that discourses, displays and human bodies play in the training and socialization of medical students T. Kenny Fountain contributes to our theoretical and practical understanding of the social factors that make rhetoric possible and material in technical domains. Thus the book also explains how these displays, discourses and practices lead to the trained perspective necessary for expertise. This trained vision is constructed over time through what Fountain terms embodied rhetorical action: an intertwining of body, object, environment that undergirds all scientific, medical and technical work. This book will be valuable for graduate and advanced undergraduate courses in technical and professional communication, technical communication theory and practice, visual or multimodal communication, medical technical communication and rhetorical studies including visual rhetoric, rhetoric of science, medical rhetoric, material rhetoric and embodiment and ethnographic approaches to rhetoric.
