

The image shows four people in a kitchen. In the back row, a man with long dark hair and a woman with glasses and a blue patterned shirt. In the front row, a man with a grey beard and a woman with grey hair and pink glasses. The woman in the front right is wearing a colorful floral top and multiple bangles. The man in the front left is wearing a black shirt. The background includes a wooden cabinet with shelves holding various items, a potted plant on the left, and a framed picture on the wall. The title 'THE GREAT BRITISH BAKING SHOW' is overlaid in white text with a decorative flourish below it. A small white bowl sits on the wooden table in the foreground.

Matthew Hargraves

Great British:

Great British Watercolors Matthew Hargraves, 2007-01-01 Paul Mellon 1907 1999 assembled one of the world's greatest collections of British drawings and watercolors. In his memoirs he wrote of their beauty and freshness, their immediacy and sureness of technique, their comprehensiveness of subject matter, their vital qualities, their Englishness. This catalogue celebrating the centenary of Mellon's birth features eighty-eight outstanding watercolors from the fifty thousand works of art on paper with which he endowed the Yale Center for British Art. The selection spans the emergence of watercolor painting in the mid 18th century to its apogee in the mid 19th. These works highlight the diversity of British watercolors, showcasing both landscape and figurative works by some of the principal artists working in the medium, including Thomas Gainsborough, Thomas Rowlandson, William Blake, and J. M. W. Turner.

Great British Adventurers Nicholas Storey, 2012-12-19 In selecting my adventurers, I have had to find limits. The first has been to confine my selection to men and women who are at least loosely British, and even then, service and adoption have sometimes, as with Krystyna Skarbeka, taken the place of birth, and I have chosen to ignore such things as competing national claims for Tenzing Norgay. The second limit that I have set myself is generally to exclude heroic adventurers in battle, simply because there is rightly so much already written about them, but I have found place for certain representative secret agents of the Second World War whose acts, in voluntary service beyond the call of simple duty, surely took them out of the arena of straightforward battle and into the realm of the most individual and courageous adventure. The result of these decisions remains to be judged, but the overall objective has been to renew interest in the lives of some of our real heroes and heroines, as representative of the many others that there are in an age in which contemporary sporting and pop art heroes dominate the news and provide the only readily evident inspiration, and also an age in which addiction to the computer screen nearly robs the young of memories and dreams of high adventure of which ripping yarns are born. The third limit is a limit of time; this speaks for itself, otherwise how would Drake and Raleigh, Clive of India, General Woolf, and Captain Cook not have found their places? There have to be such limits. The final limit has been to exclude those who are widely famed already; what more is there to say of General Gordon or Dr David Livingstone, of Captain Robert Falcon Scott and Captain Laurence Oates, even though what has been said should often be repeated. Moreover, although Sir Edmund Hillary is acknowledged as the first conqueror of Mount Everest, Tenzing Norgay was there with him, and what of George Mallory, who some time before had died either going up or coming down? To those who might accuse me of having been obscure, I just plead that my purpose has been to bring back into ready remembrance certain men and women, not widely famed now, who had great impact upon the accrual of knowledge of other peoples, their customs, and their countries, or who have striven, often against various obstacles, including the odds, to promote exploration, and sometimes even to preserve life and liberty for others. To the erudite who might say that I shed little new light, and that the coverage is uneven, I plead in mitigation of sentence that my principal purpose has been to remind of worthy lives that
