Handbook of Contemporary Behavioral Economics Morris Altman, 2015-01-30 At a time when both scholars and the public demand explanations and answers to key economic problems that conventional approaches have failed to resolve this groundbreaking handbook of original works by leading behavioral economists offers the first comprehensive articulation of behavioral economics theory Borrowing from the findings of psychologists sociologists political scientists legal scholars and biologists among others behavioral economists find that intelligent individuals often tend not to behave as effectively or efficiently in their economic decisions as long held by conventional wisdom The manner in which individuals actually do behave critically depends on psychological institutional cultural and even biological considerations Handbook of Contemporary Behavioral Economics includes coverage of such critical areas as the Economic Agent Context and Modeling Decision Making Experiments and Implications Labor Issues Household and Family Issues Life and Death Taxation Ethical Investment and Tipping and Behavioral Law and Macroeconomics Each contribution includes an extensive bibliography

The Political Economy of Consumer Behavior Bruce Pietrykowski, 2009-05-07 Consumption forms a major part of people's lives. As such, geographers, historians of technology, and sociologists have devoted much attention to trying to figure out what makes consumption meaningful. By contrast, economists have been content to hold onto theories of consumption that depend on a self-interested representative agent making utility-maximizing decisions. Pietrykowski develops this alternative account through the recovery of past attempts to forge a different analytical approach to the study of consumption. In particular, theories of consumption espoused by home economists, psychological economists, and Regulation school theorists are critically reviewed. These research projects, marginalized by the mainstream, are the precursors of contemporary scholarship in feminist behavioural and radical political economics. Reclaiming this work greatly enlarges the scope for contemporary research in consumer behavior. Pietrykowski then provides a richly textured set of case studies of green automobility, slow food, and alternative local currency in order to explore the diversity of user cultures and to highlight resistant forms of consumer practice. By carefully interweaving historical and interdisciplinary research, Pietrykowski creates a lively and incisive critique of mainstream economics. This monograph will be of interest to academic economists, sociologists, historians, and graduate students. In addition, the economics of consumption would also be of interest to readers in management, marketing, and schools of business administration.

Agricultural Marketing and Consumer Behavior in a Changing World B. Wierenga,1997-02-28 As in many other sectors in agribusiness major changes are taking place On the demand side consumers are changing lifestyles eating and shopping habits and increasingly are demanding more accommodation of these needs in the supermarket With regard to the supply the traditional distribution channel dominators manufacturers of branded consumer products are trying hard to defend their positions against retailers who gather and use information about the consumer to streamline their enterprises and strengthen their ties with the consumer The agricultural producers meanwhile face increased regulations with regard to food additives pesticides and herbicides Pressures rise as their business becomes more specialized and capital intensive than that of their predecessors Finally the larger political climate is not so favorable to agriculture which now has to compete in the global market without significant government support This title describes and interprets changes in the domain of agriculture and food The contributors develop the theme of taking an interdisciplinary approach to coping with these changes using concepts and methods developed in general marketing which are adapted so as to apply to the particular characteristics of the food and agriculture sector This book is published to honor the distinguished career of Professor Mathew T G Meulenberg from Wageningen Agricultural University on the occasion of his retirement in September 1996 As a scientist teacher and advisor to the agribusiness and the government Professor Meulenberg has made an important contribution to the development of marketing inside and outside the domain of agriculture The Present State of Consumer Theory Timothy P. Roth,1998 The neoclassical theory of choice is an integral part of a large and growing literature Its elegance simplicity and apparent generality appear increasingly to influence the thinking of psychologists sociologists and political scientists The Consumer Society Neva R. Goodwin, Frank Ackerman, David Kiron,2013-04-16 The developed countries particularly the United States consume a disproportionate share of the world s resources yet high and rising levels of consumption do not necessarily lead to greater satisfaction security or well being even for affluent consumers The Consumer Society provides brief summaries of the most important and influential writings on the environmental moral and social implications of a consumer society and consumer lifestyles Each section consists of ten to twelve summaries of critical writings in a specific area with an introductory essay that outlines the state of knowledge in that area and indicates where further research is needed Sections cover Scope and Definition Consumption in the Affluent Society Family Gender and Socialization The History of Consumerism Foundations of Economic Theories of Consumption Critiques and Alternatives in Economic Theory Perpetuating Consumer Culture Media Advertising and Wants Creation Consumption and the Environment Globalization and Consumer Culture Visions of an Alternative This book is the second volume in the Frontier Issues in Economic Thought series which provides surveys of the most significant writings in emergent areas of economics an invaluable aid in fast growing fields where genuine new ground is being broken The series brings together economists sociologists psychologists and philosophers to develop analyses that challenge and enrich the dominant neoclassical paradigm The Consumer Society is an essential guide to and summary of the literature of consumption and will be of interest to anyone concerned with the deeper economic social and ethical implications of consumerism

Systems, Religion, and Behavioral Economics Elizabeth A. Minton, Lynn R. Kahle, 2013-12-20 Religion is a topic that businesses often ignore in spite of 70% of the world being religious Many do not realize or resist the idea that religion is a key contributor to a consumer's core values which then contributes to consumption decisions voting practices reaction to pro social messages and public policy as well as donating behavior The field of behavioral economics discusses how various social and cognitive factors influence economic decisions which encompass consumer decision making but doesn't incorporate religion as an influence on economic decision making This book provides one of the first comprehensive investigations into the relationship between religion and behavioral economics The basic premises of the major religious affiliations are reviewed and the authors bring to life prior research on religion and behavioral economics with an emphasis on how this research can help practitioners to improve business practices Renaissance in Behavioral Economics Roger Frantz, 2007-06-14 Economists working on behavioral economics have been awarded the Nobel Prize four times in recent years This book explores this innovative area and in particular focuses on the work of Harvey Leibenstein one of the pioneers of the discipline The topics covered in the book include agency theory dynamic efficiency evolutionary economics X efficiency

the effect of emotions specifically affect on decision making market pricing experimental economics human resource management the Carnegie School and intra industry efficiency in less developed countries
