height of most rural houses roofed with asbestos cement is too small to have effective air circulation In addition on the roofs of Indian slums where it is sawn and fixed by hand it s difficult to avoid releasing a large number of dangerous fibers The inhabitants paint their asbestos roofing with emulsion paint which also deteriorates it rapidly resulting in discoloration and mould growth As a result Asbestos related diseases are more common in the slum area In this study Asbestos cement sample was randomly scanned at various magnifications to identify asbestos fibers and determine how asbestos fibers are mixed with construction materials Laboratory analyses were performed on the asbestos cement sample to establish a relationship between i morphology shape of the crystals ii the asbestos cement mineralogical composition using SEM analyses and iii high magnification structure of the individual fibers fibrils as well as iv energy dispersive x ray analysis of the fiber chemistry by comparison to a standard Also quantification analysis of fiber length and thickness was performed due to the reason that fibrogenicity and carcinogenicity of asbestos fibers are both dependent on several fiber parameters including fiber dimensions There are several standards specified under the Factories Act and Mines Act including limits of exposure But standards in India are only on paper All forms of asbestos pose grave to human health All are proven human carcinogens There is no continued justification for the use of asbestos Its production and use should be banned worldwide A global ban on asbestos is needed

Environmental Fate and Transport Analysis with Compartment Modeling Keith W. Little,2012-06-25 Environmental Fate and Transport Analysis with Compartment Modeling explains how to use the powerful highly flexible and intuitive compartment approach to estimate the distribution of chemical contaminants in environmental media in time and space Add this Easy to Use Approach to Your Environmental Modeling Toolbox This numerical technique enables readers to easily develop the equations that describe complex environmental problems by assembling the equations out of compartmental building blocks The compartments may describe spatial subunits of single or multi environmental media and the way one hooks them together implicitly provides the dimensionality of the problem With this approach assembling the equations to describe chemical fate and transport in a three dimensional multimedia system is fundamentally no more challenging than a one dimensional single medium problem Go Beyond Black Box Modeling with the Flexible GEM Software The book includes access to the Generic Environmental Model GEM a new software package developed by the author This software implements the compartment approach based on user prepared input files and solves the resulting mathematical equations It allows readers to solve linear nonlinear and steady state problems and offers four methods for solving dynamic problems Each solution technique is reviewed along with the error properties and the criteria for avoiding or minimizing numerical errors The book also describes solution techniques and the underlying mathematical theory for solving nonlinear systems Compartment Modeling from the Ground Up Made Accessible to Non Mathematicians A user friendly introduction to environmental compartment modeling for the beginning modeler this is also a useful resource for the experienced modeler It combines a reference on compartment modeling with a user s guide to the GEM Throughout the GEM is used to illustrate the theory with numerous examples while the theoretical discussions illuminate the GEM s functionality
