Scott Dixon, Beat Kümin, 2019-09-11 Interpreting Early Modern Europe is a comprehensive collection of essays on the historiography of the early modern period circa 1450-1800 Concerned with the principles priorities theories and narratives behind the writing of early modern history the book places particular emphasis on developments in recent scholarship Each chapter written by a prominent historian caught up in the debates is devoted to the varieties of interpretation relating to a specific theme or field considered integral to understanding the age providing readers with a behind the scenes look at how historians have worked and still work within these fields At one level the emphasis is historiographical with the essays engaged in a direct dialogue with the influential theories methods assumptions and conclusions in each of the fields At another level the contributions emphasise the historical dimensions of interpretation providing readers with surveys of the component parts that make up the modern narratives Supported by extensive bibliographies primary materials and appendices with extracts from key secondary debates Interpreting Early Modern Europe provides a systematic exploration of how historians have shaped the study of the early modern past It is essential reading for students of early modern history For a comprehensive overview of the history of early modern Europe see the partnering volume The European World 3ed Edited by Beat Kumin <https://www.routledge.com/The-European-World/15001800> An Introduction to Early Modern History Kuminah2 p book 9781138119154

Women Workers and Gender Identities, 1835-1913 Carol E. Morgan, 2013-10-18 Women Workers and Gender Identities 1835 1913 examines the experiences of women workers in the cotton and small metals industries and the discourses surrounding their labour It demonstrates how ideas of womanhood often clashed with the harsh realities of working class life that forced women into such unfeminine trades as chain making and brass polishing Thus discourses constructing women as wives and mothers or associating women's work with distinctly feminine attributes were often undercut and subverted

Unpicking Gender Jutta Schwarzkopf, 2018-01-18 The Lancashire cotton industry doubtless counts among the most thoroughly researched industries in Britain Cotton processing has attracted attention both as the pioneer of industrialization and the harbinger of industrial decline in many ways typifying the development of the British economy from unchallenged global leader to the demise of large sectors of its manufacturing industry Yet among the spate of book and articles published about the industry there is a conspicuous lacuna Gender though rarely addressed specifically permeates the industry's historiography nonetheless This study tackles head on the notion of gender within the cotton industry during the period 1880 1914 not so much to trace its effects on the industry itself but instead concentrating on the ways gender radicalized particularly the female workers in the Lancashire mills In so doing it promotes the view that it was women weavers experience of the way in which gender inequality in the labour process clashed with varying degrees of inequality in the other spheres of their lives that caused many of them to organize for the franchise Their experience of equality in the labour process both sensitized them to inequality elsewhere and empowered them to fight against it by showing it to be a product of society rather than nature Drawing on the examples provided by disenfranchised working class men and middle class women alike they accounted for inequality in terms of their exclusion from the polity In the process of holding their own against male co workers supervisory staff employers labour activists politicians and even many middle class women they evolved their own version of working class femininity which differed in important ways from the female domesticity that had a vibrant existence in labour rhetoric but rarely beyond

Gender and Poverty in Nineteenth-Century Europe Rachel G. Fuchs, Rachel Ginnis Fuchs, 2005-11-10 This is a major new history of the dramatic and enduring changes in the daily lives of poor European women and men in the nineteenth century Rachel G Fuchs conveys the extraordinary difficulties facing the destitute from England to Russia paying particular attention to the texture of women s everyday lives She shows their strength as they attempted to structure a life and set of relationships within a social order culture community and the law Within a climate of calamities the poor relied on their own resourcefulness and community connections where the boundaries between the private and public were indistinguishable and on a system of exchange and reciprocity to help them fashion their culture of expediciencies This accessible synthesis introduces readers to conflicting interpretations of major historic developments and evaluates those interpretations It will be essential reading for students of women s and gender studies urban history and social and family history
