Gender And Russian Literature:

Gender and Russian Literature Rosalind J. Marsh, 1996-03-28 A 1996 overview of key issues in Russian women's writing and of important representations of women by men from 1600 onwards Women in Russian Literature, 1780-1863 Joe Andrew, 1988 Terrible Perfection Barbara Heldt, 1987 the first thoroughgoing feminist study of Russian literature The Slavonic Review a ground breaking book Written with verve and wit a pleasure to read Slavic Review

Women in Russian Literature, 1974 New Women's Writing in Russia, Central and Eastern Europe Rosalind Marsh, 2020-12-07 Since the late 1980s there has been an explosion of women's writing in Russia Central and Eastern Europe greater than in any other cultural period This book which contains contributions by scholars and writers from many different countries aims to address the gap in literature and debate that exists in relation to this subject We investigate why women's writing has become so prominent in post socialist countries and enquire whether writers regard their gender as a burden or on the contrary as empowering We explore the relationship in contemporary women's writing between gender class and nationality as well as issues of ethnicity and post colonialism Women Writers in Russian Literature Toby W. Clyman, Diana Greene, 1994-04-30 For all readers interested in the fabric of women's literature and women in a literary society this book represents the highest achievement to date in Russian studies Choice Women in Nineteenth-Century Russia Wendy Rosslyn, Alessandra Tosi, 2012 This collection of essays examines the lives of women across Russia from wealthy noblewomen in St Petersburg to desperately poor peasants in Siberia discussing their interaction with the Church and the law and their rich contribution to music art literature and theatre It shows how women struggled for greater autonomy and both individually and collectively developed a dynamic presence in Russia's culture and society Publisher's description Aspects of Gender and Russian Literature, 1998 Narrative Space and Gender in Russian Fiction Joe Andrew, 2007 The present volume has as its primary aim readings from a feminist perspective of a number of works from Russian literature published over the period in which the woman question rose to the fore and reached its peak All the works considered here were produced in or hark back to a fairly narrowly defined period of not quite 20 years 1846-1864 in which issues of gender of male and female roles were discussed much more keenly than in perhaps any other period in Russian literature The overall project is summed up by the three key words of this book's title narrative space and gender and especially the interconnections between them That is what do the way these stories were told tell us about gender identities in mid nineteenth century Russia Which spaces were central to these fictional worlds Which spaces suggested which gender identities The discussions therefore focus on issues of narrative and space and how they acted as technologies of gender This volume will be of interest to all interested in nineteenth century Russian literature as well as students of gender and of the semiotics of narrative space Narrative, Space and Gender in Russian Fiction: 1846-1903 Joe Andrew, 2007-01-01 The present volume has as its primary aim readings from a feminist perspective of a number of works from Russian literature published over the period in which the woman question rose to the fore and reached its peak All the works considered here were produced in or hark back to a fairly narrowly defined period of not quite 20 years 1846 1864 in which issues of gender of male and female roles were discussed much more keenly than in perhaps any other period in Russian literature The overall project is summed up by the three key words of this book s title narrative space and gender and especially the interconnections between them That is what do the way these stories were told tell us about gender identities in mid nineteenth century Russia Which spaces were central to these fictional worlds Which spaces suggested which gender identities The discussions therefore focus on issues of narrative and space and how they acted as technologies of gender This volume will be of interest to all interested in nineteenth century Russian literature as well as students of gender and of the semiotics of narrative space

Writing Women Jonathan Wurl, 2020 In her landmark study on gender in Russian literature Barbra Heldt observes there is no lack of general pronouncements about how women act or feel or think in Russian literature yet they have been overwhelmingly made by men Paradoxically this phenomenon is most pronounced in the woman question a broad term that encompassed all public intellectual debates on the roles and duties of Russian women in the family and society Although women were the nominal subjects of the woman question the realities of publishing and social participation in 19th century Russia meant that male voices were amplified and enjoyed greater legitimacy than women s voices My dissertation examines why male intellectuals in 19th century Russia so enthusiastically embraced women s issues in their journalistic and literary writings and what the consequences of this were My dissertation is divided into an introduction three chapters and a conclusion The introduction reviews existing scholarship on gender in Russian literary studies and outline of my own methodology Scholars have primarily deployed models that prioritize the role of individual experience either by focusing on women s own narratives of experience or by critiquing men s texts as lacking verisimilitude of femininity My analysis concentrates on systematic power imbalances in literary representation I demonstrate that male intellectuals even those who espoused feminist or pro woman discourses often failed to escape gender biases reflected in existing conceptual and aesthetic framework In Chapter I I examine Alexander Druzhinin s 1824 63 novella Polinka Saks 1847 within the context of Zhorzhsandizm a Russian literary movement which emulated and responded to the fiction of French author George Sand 1804 76 as well as supposedly gender neutral philosophies of beauty In the case of Polink Saks the gendered dimensions of aesthetic theory are transparent The novella details the efforts of Konstantin Saks a 31 year old bureaucrat who attempts to instill proper aesthetic sensibilities into his 17 year old wife Polinka in order to raise her to a higher level of consciousness Konstantin s effort ultimately fails when is his wife is unable to overcome the handicaps of her inferior education social coddling and above all else her gender When she betrays her husband for the superficial Byronic Prince Galitsky it is as much as a rejection of her husband s vision of shared aesthetic sensibility as an arena for equality and intellectual communion between women and men Chapter II is devoted to literary representations of women s lives during the early years of the woman question I analyze Alexander Herzen's 1812-70 short story The Thieving Magpie 1848 which recounts the story of a serf actress who resists the sexual advances of her master While the serf actress is the heroine of the story her story is retold by another male actor to an audience of male intellectuals While the story features aspects of a feminist text a strong heroine resistance to injustice and thoughtful attention to women's suffering the men appropriate her suffering for their own ideological purposes Drawing on Spivak's work on representation I demonstrate that male intellectuals writing from a position of relative power assume the universality and accessibility of experience including that of the feminine Other and consequentially place their own subjectivity at the center of the woman question transforming the Woman Question into a Male Question Chapter III focuses on Nikolai Chernyshevsky's 1828-89 novel What Is to Be Done 1863 the most influential and enduring example of Woman Question fiction written by a male author My analysis of the novel is two fold examining on the one hand how Chernyshevsky constructs his argument about the historicity of gender inequality vis a vis Hegel's text Lectures on the Philosophy of History 1831 and on the other how the author demonstrates the centrality of the male gaze and masculine aesthetic practices to gender oppression throughout history and across all human societies As I argue these aspects of What Is to Be Done require the reader and scholar to reevaluate the originality and extent to which Chernyshevsky engaged with feminism as a core value in his philosophical and literary writings In the Conclusion I will examine the importance of gender alterity to male and female respondents to the Woman Question alike I turn my attention to the phenomenon of male literary critics evaluating the veracity of women's literary representations of feminine lived experience and their theorizing of women's writing on the one hand and on the other examine how female writers portrayed the successes and failures of male intellectuals attempting to understand feminine existence and advocate for women's political interests In the first portion I analyze the relationship between Evgenia Tur 1815-1892 and Ivan Turgenev 1818-83 who despite being close friends engaged in serious criticism of each other's literary texts including an article in which Ivan Turgenev theorizes women's writing as lacking verisimilitude of gendered experience In the second section I address the work of anti feminist woman author Avdotia Glinka 1795-1863 who poses the Woman Question as an insincere and dangerous attempt by male intellectuals to bring feminine experience in line with philosophical abstractions In 1884 feminist Maria Tsebrikova posed a question how is it that Russia which by no means occupies the foremost rank in European civilization is first in this matter of women's emancipation Russia has a unique and understudied role in the history of feminism Today its leaders present themselves as guardians of patriarchal values yet as Tsebrikova observes Russia was the site of one of the world's most radical feminist movements My dissertation examines the participation of male intellectuals in imperial Russian feminism but unlike the earlier scholars who focused on whether individual writers were misogynist and whether they created realistic depictions of women's experiences I contextualize them as mid 19th century thinkers and as possessors of a distinctive male identity In deconstructing their pervasive mansplaining I probe the political connections between the overt renegotiation of women's role in society and a less obvious reconsideration of male gender identity Gender in Russian History and Culture L. Edmondson, 2001-07-11 This volume charts the changing aspects of gender in Russia's cultural and social history from the late seventeenth century to the Stalinist era and the collapse of the Soviet Union The works while focusing on women as a primary subject highlight in particular gender difference the construction of both femininity and masculinity in a culture that has undergone major transformation and disruptions over the period of three centuries

Sexuality and the Body in Russian Culture Jane T. Costlow, Stephanie Sandler, Judith Vowles, 1993 Twelve groundbreaking essays show the varied and complex ways in which ideas about sexuality gender and the body have shaped and been influenced by Russian literature history art and philosophy from the medieval period to the present day A Tradition of Infringement Carol Adlam, 2017-12-02 The Russian literary world was shaken by the wide reaching reforms of the late Soviet period 1985-91 and the Soviet Union's subsequent collapse During this time the phenomenon of alternative literature emerged characterized by an emphasis on thematic structural and linguistic transgression of both Soviet era values and the enduring Russian tradition of civic engagement and moral edification through literature Through close textual analysis Adlam examines the relationship of this literary phenomenon to issues of gender and creative authority providing detailed discussion of several of the most significant women writers of the period among them Valeriia Narbikova Liudmila Petrushevskaia and Nina Sadur Gender and Sexuality in Russian Civilisation Peter I. Barta, 2013-06-17 Gender and Sexuality in Russian Civilisation considers gender and sexuality in modern Russia in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Chapters look individually at gender and sexuality through history art folklore philosophy or literature but are also arranged into sections according to the arguments they develop A number of chapters also consider Russia in the Soviet and post Soviet periods Thematic sections include Gender and Power Gender and National Identity Sexual Identity and Artistic Impression Literary Discourse of Male and Female Sexualities Sexuality and Literature in Contemporary Russian Society

Women In Russian Literature 1780-1863 Joe Andrew, 1988-07-06 A History of Women's Writing in Russia Adele Marie Barker, Jehanne M. Gheith, 2002-07-11 A History of Women's Writing in Russia offers a comprehensive account of the lives and works of Russia's women writers Based on original and archival research this volume forces a re-examination of many of the traditionally held assumptions about Russian literature and women's role in the tradition In setting about the process of reintegrating women writers into the history of Russian literature contributors have addressed the often surprising contexts within which women's writing has been produced Chapters reveal a flourishing literary tradition where none was thought to exist They redraw the map defining Russia's literary periods they look at how Russia's women writers articulated their own experience and they reassess their relationship to the dominant male tradition The volume is supported by extensive reference features including a bibliography and guide to writers and their works Reference Guide to Russian Literature Neil Cornwell, 2013-12-02 First Published in 1998 This volume will surely be regarded as the standard guide to Russian literature for some considerable time to come It is therefore confidently recommended for addition to reference libraries be they academic or public Women and Gender in Central and Eastern Europe, Russia, and Eurasia Mary Zirin,Irina Livezeanu,Christine D. Worobec,June Pachuta Farris,2015-03-26 This is the first comprehensive multidisciplinary and multilingual bibliography on Women and Gender in East Central Europe and the Balkans Vol 1 and The Lands of the Former Soviet Union Vol 2 over the past millennium The coverage encompasses the relevant territories of the Russian Hapsburg and Ottoman empires Germany and Greece and the Jewish and Roma diasporas Topics range from legal status and marital customs to economic participation and gender roles plus unparalleled documentation of women writers and artists and autobiographical works of all kinds The volumes include approximately 30 000 bibliographic entries on works published through the end of 2000 as well as web sites and unpublished dissertations Many of the individual entries are annotated with brief descriptions of major works and the tables of contents for collections and anthologies The entries are cross referenced and each volume includes indexes Gender and Sexuality in Russian Civilization Peter I. Barta,2001 Considers gender and sexuality in Russia in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Chapters examine gender and sexuality through history art folklore philosophy or literature and are also grouped according to the arguments they develop
