

Gender, Peace and Conflict

The study of war, peace and conflict is gender biased. It is widely perceived that male is the architect of the war and peace. However, the changing character of the international politics has altered the traditional notion of the peace and conflict and acknowledged contribution and suffering of the women during war and conflict. Moreover, women have the inherent capacity to work for conflict management and peace-building during and after the war and conflict. This curriculum on 'Gender, Peace and Conflict' is dedicated to discussing the concerning issue of the role of the women in conflict resolution and peace-building. This course constitutes ideas in 'Gender Theories' to explicate some important issues like gender, gender in international relations theories and practices, gender and conflict, violence against women in conflict and war and the role and significance of women in conflict resolution. It examines the complex relationships of gender and peace and how women play a significant role in peacekeeping and peace-building.

Gender Peace and Conflict Dan Smith, 2001 Demonstrates the key role of a gender perspective both practically and theoretically in conflict resolution peace research and international relations Gender, Peace and Conflict Inger Skjelsboek, Dan Smith, 2001-03-22 Gender is increasingly recognized as central to the study and analysis of the traditionally male domains of war and international relations The book explores the key role of gender in peace research conflict resolution and international politics Rather than simply add gender and stir the aim is to transcend different disciplinary boundaries and conceptual approaches to provide a more integrated basis for research and study To this end Gender Peace Conflict uniquely combines theoretical chapters alongside empirical case studies to demonstrate the importance of a gender perspective to both theory and practice in conflict resolution and peace research Gender, Peace and Security Louise Olsson, Theodora-Ismene Gizelis, 2015-04-24 This volume explores the implementation of key gender policies in international peace and security following the adoption of UN Security Council resolution 1325 in October 2000 the first thematic resolution on Women Peace and Security How should we understand women's participation in peace processes and in peace operations And what forms of gendered security dynamics are present in armed conflict and international interventions These questions represent central themes of protection and participation that the international community has to address in order to implement UNSCR 1325 Thus far the implementation has often employed varying approaches related to gender mainstreaming a third theme of the resolution Yet there is a dearth of systematic data which until recently has restricted the ability of researchers to evaluate the progress in implementation and impact of UNSCR 1325 By engaging with both empirics and critical theory the authors of this edited volume make important contributions to the gender peace and security agenda They identify some of the problems of implementing UNSC 1325 and offer a sobering assessment of progress of implementation and insights into how to advance our understanding through systematic research Many of the chapters are focused on operational aspects of UNSCR 1325 but all also engage with the theoretical underpinnings of UNSCR 1325 to bring forth central debates on more fundamental challenges to the development of knowledge in the fields of gender peace and security This book will be of much interest to students of gender studies peace and conflict studies security studies and IR in general Gender, Peace and Security Fredline Amaybel Olayinka M'Cormack-Hale, 2012 Examines women's role in both conflict and post conflict reconciliation It describes how UNSCR 1325 provides support for women in peace building processes and provides case studies of how it has been implemented in selected countries including the benefits of NAPs and women's involvement in their adoption Gender Mainstreaming in Conflict Transformation Rawwida Baksh-Soodeen, 2005 Issues of socio economic development democracy and peace are linked to gender equality This book argues that gender equality needs to be placed on the policy and programme agenda of the entire spectrum of peace and conflict related initiatives and activities to achieve conflict transformation Gender, Peace and Security Louise Olsson, Theodora-Ismene

There is often a moment in time that acts as a rallying point around a particular issue 2015 was one of those moments for women peace and security as numerous landmark anniversaries were celebrated in the field Africa has in many ways been the global laboratory for the gender peace and security agenda not only because of the number of conflicts occurring on the continent but also because African regional organisations governments and civil society organisations have been at the forefront of striving for gender equality and implementing United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325 This book explores gender peace and security in Africa from multiple angles including the conceptual and implementation challenges and shifts around women peace and security in Africa over the last 15 years women s role as combatants in national liberation forces in South Africa the dynamics of gender in the military through the lens of Kenyan women combatants food security through a feminist lens and a series of case studies on the nexus between gender and security in Zimbabwe Nigeria Madagascar the Democratic Republic of Congo Kenya and Somalia This book was previously published as a special issue of the African Security Review Gender and Peacebuilding Claire Duncanson,2016-05-27 Gender and Peacebuilding offers a comprehensive and up to date analysis of how and why gender matters in contemporary peace operations It draws on a wide range of examples from across the world to offer a nuanced account of the UNs attempts to mainstream gender into peace operations via Security Council Resolution 1325 and assesses the successes and failures of this effort to enhance the participation and protection of women and girls in peacebuilding operations In presenting this mixed picture of progress and ongoing challenges the book argues for bold steps forward that will enable peacebuilding to contest the current neoliberal order address structural inequalities and bring about feminist visions of peace and security It is only by focusing attention on the economic empowerment of women and its ability to temper the dangers of neo liberalism in post conflict contexts that feminists can hope to achieve these aims Timely critical and engaged this book provides an invaluable guide to the issues for students of peace and conflict studies and sets the agenda for future scholarship and advocacy Decolonising Conflicts,

The Difference that Gender Makes to International Peace and Security Sara E. Davies, Nicole George, Jacqui True, 2018-10-29 Fifteen years after the adoption of UN Security Council Resolution 1325 which establishes the Women Peace and Security agenda there is now a need to assess the impacts of gender equality efforts and to understand why and how gender equality reforms have advanced to the extent that they have This book examines how international peace and security is re envisioned from a gender perspective by mostly focusing on the nuances presented by the Asia Pacific region It argues that despite the diversity of political socio cultural and economic systems in the Asia Pacific women and girls in the region continue to experience similar forms of insecurities Several countries in the Asia Pacific have demonstrated relative peace and stability In addition women s leadership and participation in peacebuilding are and continue to be increasingly recognized in the region too However as the chapters in this book demonstrate applying a critical gender analysis allows for the interrogation of veneers of political order which can then mask or normalise everyday gendered insecurities The analysis of country cases such as Myanmar Cambodia and Fiji underscores a rethinking of the political order in the Asia Pacific which leaves existing gender inequalities intact The chapters in this book were originally published in a special issue in the International Feminist Journal of Politics

states and Israel and Palestine They consider honor killings in Iraqi Kurdistan armed conflict in the Sudan and geographies of violence in Ghana This volume augments feminist analysis on conflict zones and contributes to transnational coalition building and feminist organizing Gender and Peacebuilding Maureen P. Flaherty, Thomas G. Matyók, Sean Byrne, Hamdesa Tusso, 2015-10-16 The twenty first century has brought with it a shift from the notion of human security being located in secure national borders to the need to secure the safety freedom and dignity of all Despite efforts to equalize women s status in the world evidenced by changes in many international projects requiring a gender focus women and men experience most of the world in very different ways according to gender Further the reality is that humans who do not all fall neatly into one of these categories male or female often find their lives further challenged In the 1980s Peace and Conflict Studies first began to acknowledge and study the different experiences males and females have during war and peace Since then there have been books about women and war women working at grassroots levels to build peace women and transitional justice women and peace education and women s views of human security All of these works have contributed to the discourse of our changing world This book brings together some of those themes and voices and adds more with the final product being more than the sum of its parts We add to the conversation a book that considers foundational fundamental issues that span from the interpersonal to the global Many of the chapters describe empirical research completed with author and community shared here for the first time Part One is a collection of case studies documenting challenges and responses to peacebuilding by women from various parts of the world Part Two focuses on Peace and Conflict Studies PACS as a discipline examining not only what is but also what should be taught This section critiques today s efforts at teaching Peace and Conflict Studies and provides suggestions of how this important work might be shared in more open and equitable ways Part Three enters territory found even less in the PACS literature In this section our authors confront patriarchy engage in a discussion about the contribution queer theory makes to PACS and tussle with the notion of inclusivity with considerations of both gender and disability It then ends with a discussion about the contribution feminist methodologies make to PACS Gender, Peace and Peacekeeping Anu Pillay, 2006 Gender, Conflict, and Peacekeeping Dyan Mazurana, Angela Raven-Roberts, Jane Parpart, 2005-02-17 Peacekeeping has become a major international undertaking throughout the world from Africa to the Americas from Europe to Southeast Asia Yet until now there has been no systematic analysis of the key role of gender in post cold war conflicts and of post conflict peacekeeping efforts This groundbreaking volume explores how gender has become a central factor in shaping current thinking about the causes and consequences of armed conflict complex emergencies and reconstruction Drawing on expertise ranging from the highest levels of international policymaking down to the daily struggle to implement peacekeeping operations this work represents the full span of knowledge and experience about international intervention in local crises Presenting a rich array of examples from Angola Bosnia Herzegovina East Timor El Salvador the former Yugoslavia Guatemala Haiti Kosovo Liberia Mozambique
