Gender, Nation, and Nationalism Amrita Saikia, 2024-12-30 This book looks at the question of the Tibetan nation from the perspective of Tibetan women in exile. It situates Tibetan women within the debate of Tibetan nation building and nationalism in exile. In doing so, the book explores Tibetan women's construction of the idea of the Tibetan nation, their contributions to Tibetan nationalism, their position in Tibetan society, and the nuances of identity. The author captures the experiences, views, and realities of Tibetan women in exile, drawing from interviews conducted with participants in three Tibetan settlements in India. This book is an important contribution to feminist discourse on gender, nation, and nationalism in the context of the Tibetans in exile. It will appeal to readers and scholars interested in Tibetan studies, nationalism, feminism, women's studies, and Asian studies.

Gendering the Nation-State Yasmeen Abu-Laban, 2009-01-01 Serious study of social and political life must attend to gender as a category of analysis. Gendering the Nation State explores the gendered dimensions of a fundamental organizational unit in social and political science: the nation state. Yasmeen Abu-Laban has drawn together work by both high profile and emerging scholars to rescue gender from the margins of theoretical discussions on the nation, the state, public policy, and citizenship. Contributors bring the insights of feminist analysis to bear on three relationships central to popular and policy discussions in contemporary Canada and beyond: gender and nation, gender and state processes, and gender and citizenship. Gendering the Nation State employs a comparative framework and builds on three decades of multidisciplinary work. Nuanced and wide-ranging, the collection crosses and challenges physical, theoretical, and disciplinary borders. It will appeal to scholars in political science, gender studies, and sociology.

Gender and International Security Laura Sjoberg, 2009-10-16 This book defines the relationship between gender and international security, analyzing and critiquing international security theory and practice from a gendered perspective. Gender issues have an important place in the international security landscape but have been neglected both in the theory and practice of international security. The passage and implementation of UN Security Council Resolution 1325 on Security Council operations, the integration of gender concerns into peacekeeping, the management of refugees, post-conflict disarmament, and reintegration, and protection for non-combatants in times of war, shows the increasing importance of gender sensitivity for actors on all fronts in global security. This book aims to improve the quality and quantity of conversations between feminist security studies and security.

studies more generally in order to demonstrate the importance of gender analysis to the study of international security and to expand the feminist research program in Security Studies. The chapters included in this book not only challenge the assumed irrelevance of gender; they argue that gender is not a subsection of security studies to be compartmentalized or briefly considered as a side issue. Rather, the contributors argue that gender is conceptually, empirically, and normatively essential to studying international security. They do so by critiquing and reconstructing key concepts and theories in international security by looking for the increasingly complex roles women play as security actors and by looking at various contemporary security issues through gendered lenses. Together, these chapters make the case that accurate, rigorous, and ethical scholarship of international security cannot be produced without taking account of women's presence in or the gendering of world politics. This book will be of interest to all students of critical security studies, gender studies, and International Relations in general. Laura Sjoborg is Assistant Professor of Political Science at the University of Florida. She has a Ph.D. in International Relations and Gender Studies from the University of Southern California and is the author of Gender Justice and the Wars in Iraq (2006) and with Caron Gentry Mothers, Monsters, Whores: Women's Violence in Global Politics (2007).

Women's History in Global Perspective Bonnie G. Smith, 2004. The American Historical Association's Committee on Women Historians commissioned some of the pioneering figures in women's history to prepare essays in their respective areas of expertise. This volume, the first in a series of three, collects their efforts. Women's History in Global Perspective, Volume 1, addresses the comparative themes that the editors and contributors see as central to understanding women's history around the world. Later volumes will be concerned with issues that have shaped the history of women in particular regions. The authors of these essays, including Margaret Strobel, Alice Kessler Harris, and Mrinalini Sinha, provide general overviews of the theory and practice of women's and gender history and analyze family history, nationalism, and work. The collection is rounded out by essays on religion, race, ethnicity, and the different varieties of feminism. Incorporating essays from top scholars ranging over an abundance of regions, dates, and methodologies, the three volumes of Women's History in Global Perspective constitute an invaluable resource for anyone interested in a comprehensive overview on the latest in feminist scholarship.

Gendering Nationalism Jon Mulholland, Nicola Montagna, Erin Sanders-McDonagh, 2018-05-24. This volume offers an empirically rich, theoretically informed study of the shifting intersections of nationalism, gender, and sexuality. Challenging a scholarly legacy that has overly focused on the masculinist character of nationalism, it pays particular attention to the people and issues less commonly considered in the context of nationalist projects: namely, women and sexual minorities. Bringing together both established and emerging researchers from across the globe, this multidisciplinary and comparison-rich volume provides a multi-sited exploration of the shifting contours of belonging and Otherness generated by multifarious nationalisms. The diverse and context-specific positionings of men and women, masculinities and femininities, and hegemonic and non-normative sexualities vis-à-vis nationalism are illuminated through a vibrant array of contemporary theoretical lenses These include historical and feminist institutionalism post colonial theory critical race approaches transnational and migration theory and semiotics Canadian Women's Studies ,2003
