Lips,2017-05-19 Are sex and gender really two different things How malleable is gender identity Should we emphasize gender differences These are only some of the questions Hilary Lips addresses regarding one of the most important dimensions of human life since time immemorial Stereotypes gender roles and how social relationships function all combine to assign meanings to the male female distinction that affects all aspects of social life Taking advantage of the abundance of current research that reevaluates and resituates the major issues of sex and gender the Sixth Edition collects and distills this scholarship into a book that is readily accessible and relevant to today s readers Lips incorporates knowledge gained from a range of social sciences taking a critical approach to empirical research Throughout the book she emphasizes culturally racially and sexually diverse perspectives A discussion of the role that gender plays in social relationships and power hierarchies illuminates the experience of inequality between men and women in business education politics and the media The ideas presented in Sex and Gender will raise readers awareness of the issues contributing to that major social problem      Gender, Interaction, and Inequality Cecilia L. Ridgeway,2013-03-09 Causal explanations are essential for theory building In focusing on causal mechanisms rather than descriptive effects the goal of this volume is to increase our theoretical understanding of the way gender operates in interaction Theoretical analyses of gender s effects in interaction in turn are necessary to understand how such effects might be implicated with individual level and social structural level processes in the larger system of gender inequality Despite other differences the contributors to this book all take what might be loosely called a microstructural approach to gender and interaction All agree that individuals come to interaction with certain common socially created beliefs cultural meanings experiences and social rules These include stereotypes about gendered activities and skills beliefs about the status value of gender rules for interacting in certain settings and so on However as individuals apply these beliefs and rules to the specific contingent events of interaction they combine and reshape their implications in distinctive ways that are particular to the encounter As a result individuals actively construct their social relations in the encounter through their interaction The patterns of relations that develop are not completely determined or scripted in advance by the beliefs and rules of the larger society Consequently there is a reciprocal causal relationship between constructed patterns of interaction and larger social structural forms The constructed patterns of social relations among a set of interactants can be thought of as micro level social structures or more simply microstructures      Feminism and Christian Tradition Mary-Paula Walsh,1999-05-30 This annotated bibliography a volume in the Greenwood series Bibliographies and Indexes in Religious

Why Women Should Be Taken More Seriously in the Boardroom Barrie Gunter,2017-04-21 Historically there has been a lack of parity between women and men in senior corporate roles particularly in major companies with the biggest market capitalisation This can be partly explained by inequalities of career opportunity and also women s self perceptions Yet there are plenty of examples in business and other worlds notably politics that women can perform effectively in the highest leadership roles Some countries have actively encouraged greater female representation on the boards of major companies This is a positive step forward When women join the boards of top companies the decision making climates of these bodies can change for the better When women are appointed as leaders of poorly performing companies they can turn them around and convert them into success stories every bit as often as male appointees Women have been dismissed as lacking the character for business leadership Sometimes women are their own worst enemies and feel uncomfortable when members of their own gender act more like men Yet self belief can strengthen their perceived suitability for top jobs Women do need to act tougher to get to the top but this does not mean abandoning their femininity or having a fulfilling life outside business Why Women Should Be Taken More Seriously in the Boardroom is a useful tool for business students as well as those in the corporate world looking to gain a deeper understanding of gender balance within leadership roles

Children's Belief about the Social Consequences of Emotional Expression Jose A. Feito,1997-08 This study investigated young children s expectations regarding others potential reactions to their emotional displays These expectations were considered precursors to the display rules for emotional expression evident in middle childhood Possible gender differences in the children s expectancies for the expression of anger sadness and fear were examined Preschool and early grade school children ages 4 3 6 4 7 0 8 7 respectively were presented with eight hypothetical narratives illustrated with felt puppets The identity of an audience figure accompanying the protagonist of each narrative varied between subjects in three experimental conditions mother father and same sex peer The narratives also varied the social context within which the protagonist expressed an emotion The scenarios were qualitatively coded to assess if children expected favorable or unfavorable reactions from the audience figure to the protagonist s emotional display The expression of anger elicited substantial unfavorable expectancies from children in both age groups but the expression of sadness and fear did not It was theorized that the display rules for these emotions have different developmental timelines Anger receives early socialization pressure while sadness and fear are not sanctioned until after approximately age 8 Children expected peers and parents to respond equally unfavorably to expressions of anger suggesting that both groups are important agents in emotional socialization at this age Unlike the preschoolers the early grade school children used social information about a provocateur s status and intentions to mediate their expectations regarding audience reactions to anger The only significant gender difference to emerge was that the older girls expected mothers to be more disapproving of anger than fathers or peers It was suggested that gender role requirements for emotional expression may not be enforced until children reach grade school ages and that the same sex parent may come to be the primary socialization agent for these roles Asian American children held fewer unfavorable expectancies for the expression of anger than children of other ethnicities African American girls held more unfavorable expectancies for the expression of anger than African American boys Future research should elaborate upon the specific content and developmental timelines associated with different cultures emotional display rules
