Gender, Environment, and Development in Kenya Barbara P. Thomas-Slayter, Dianne E. Rocheleau, 1995 Linkages among poverty gender roles resource decline and ecological degradation challenge development policy and practice This text provides an analytical framework for understanding these linkages then examines them in six very differing communities in rural Kenya

Africa South of the Sahara 2003 Europa Publications, 2002-10-31 A one volume library of essential and comprehensive data on all the countries of sub Saharan Africa including essays on regional issues statistical surveys and directories of invaluable contact names and addresses

Ethical Trade, Gender and Sustainable Livelihoods Kiah Smith, 2014-03-21 Fair and ethical trade is often criticized for being highly gendered and for institutionalizing the ethical values of consumers the priorities of NGOs and governments and most of all food retailers But little is known about how women smallholder farmers experience diverse ethical standards or whether and how standards reflect their values local cultural and environmental contexts or priorities for achieving sustainable livelihoods Linking gender smallholder livelihoods and global ethical trade regulations this book reveals that multiple understandings of social justice environmental sustainability and well being or ethicality exist in parallel to those institutionalized in ethical trade schemes Through an in depth case study of smallholder subsistence and French bean farming in Kenya the book grounds the analysis of livelihoods gender and ethical trade in women smallholders perspectives links the macro level of markets with the micro level of livelihoods and engenders relations of power structure and agency in food networks It brings together disparate bodies of theory to illustrate the knowledge strategies and values of women smallholder farmers that are often beyond the scope of ethical trade regulations It also provides a challenging new vision for doing food systems research

The Environment and Development in Africa Moses K. Tesi, 2000-01-01 The premise of The Environment and Development in Africa is that current environmental problems in sub Saharan Africa are an outcome of the continent's development activities Whether these activities have generated economic growth and raised living standards or have led to growth without overall increases in living standards or have even contributed to a decline in people's well being developments in that region have produced effects that have degraded Africa's environment in many ways This book presents a comprehensive and systematic analysis of the context of the environmental issues facing sub Saharan African states Contributors discuss the problems associated with generating the capacity to manage Africa's environmental concerns assess the impact of economic development efforts on the region's environment and examine various societal and policy responses to environmental problems and to development problems linked to ecological decay This is an important book for scholars and policy advisors concerned with

African studies and global environmental issues Women Working In The Environment Carolyn E. Sachs, 2014-02-25
Based on theoretical insights from ecofeminism women and development and postmodernism and the convincing empirical work of numerous scholars this book is organized around five aspects of gender relationships with the environment Part 1 gender divisions of labor Part 2 property rights Part 3 knowledge and strategies for sustainability Part 4 environmental and social movements and Part 5 policy alternatives Examining women's relationship with the environment using these five dimensions provides concrete material examples of how women work with control know and affect the environment and natural resources The Women And International Development Annual, Volume 4 Rita S Gallin, Anne E Ferguson, Janice Harper, 2019-08-29

This annual series published in co operation with the Women in International Development Program at Michigan State University uses a multidisciplinary approach to explore women's experiences across a wide range of geographical areas economic sectors and societal institutions The articles presented in each volume synthesize a growing body of literature on key issues suggest priorities for research and propose changes in development policy and programming Each volume is divided into three major sections In the first contributors distill and interpret research in review articles in the second a trend report they provide original analysis of existing data sets and in the final section they analyze a specific research concern from varying perspectives Feminist Political Ecology Dianne Rocheleau, Barbara Thomas-Slayter, Esther Wangari, 2013-04-15 Feminist Political Ecology explores the gendered relations of ecologies economies and politics in communities as diverse as the rubber tappers in the rainforests of Brazil to activist groups fighting racism in New York City Women are often at the centre of these struggles struggles which concern local knowledge everyday practice rights to resources sustainable development environmental quality and social justice The book bridges the gap between the academic and rural orientation of political ecology and the largely activist and urban focus of environmental justice movements

African Rain Forest Ecology and Conservation William Weber, Lee J. T. White, Lisa Naughton-Treves, Amy Vedder, 2001-01-01 Extending from west Africa to Madagascar from the vast lowland Congo Basin to the archipelago of forest islands on its eastern rim the African rain forest is surpassed in size only by the Amazon This book sheds light on the current efforts to understand and conserve the African rain forest an area in need of urgent action to save its biological wealth cultural heritage and economic potential Written by conservation scientists and practitioners based in the African rain forest the book offers a multidisciplinary perspective that integrates many biological and social sciences Early chapters trace the forces from paleoecological factors to recent human actions that have shaped the African forest environment The next chapters discuss the dominant biological patterns of species ranging from the distinctive elephants gorillas and okapi to the less well known birds butterflies and amphibians Other chapters focus on how such different groups as hunter gatherers forest farmers bushmeat hunters recent immigrants and commercial foresters have used the forests Several authors stress the need for tighter links between research and conservation action The final section draws lessons from the collective
